DEDICATED TO

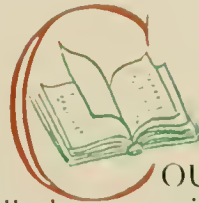

the Faculty of Duke University by whose direction we found knowledge

NONE of us stop to realize what a certain professor does for us every time we walk into a classroom. To most people a professor is a symbol of six quizzes, three cuts, and a few quality points. But he is more than that. He is also a member of the university community, a master craftsman who molds our ideals, builds our characters, and shapes our destinies. He is the patient individual who works with us unselfishly and sympathetically in success or failure. Each faculty member, from the highest dean to the newest professor, takes a vital part in the future role we shall have to play as members of the world community. It is because of this fact that we, the students of Duke University, are proud to dedicate this 1948 CHANTICLEER to the faculty, and, in so doing, recall to mind the words of James Buchanan Duke:

"I request that this institution secure for its officers, trustees, and faculty, men of such outstanding character, ability, and vision as will insure its attaining and maintaining a place of real leadership in the educational world."

PREFACE

COULD we hold within our minds all the memories we hold within our hearts there would be no need for this, the thirty-sixth volume of the CHANTICLEER. Needless to say, a yearbook serves as a valuable reminder of those "carefree days of youth" when the greatest problem we were faced with was not being able to get a date on Saturday nights. But a yearbook does more than that. In glancing over the four volumes that accompanied us through our four years of college we may watch the gradual change of not only the University but of the individual himself. As a freshman we see him as a shapeless being. At the end of four years we see him molded into a definite personality with set ideals and ambitions. We see him as a mature person that realizes his responsibilities to his fellow man, his country, and his God. We see him as a person ready to accept these responsibilities.

If you are not in the book, project yourself into the scenes and activities. They were all a part of your University. For you we have tried to present a record of the year to help you remember the events of today. Tomorrow they will be but memories.

1. Under the direction of J. Foster Barnes, the Chapel Choir has come to be recognized as one of the foremost in the country. In recent years such notables as Perry Como and Jo Stafford have sung with the Choir for their Easter broadcast. Bishop Barnes has served as director of this Choir of 150 people for twenty-one years.

2. The University Community and the people of Durham find solace and inspiration every Sunday morning in the impressive English Gothic Chapel. The Chapel seats 2,200 people and 150 Choir members. Its connection with Page Auditorium and Gray Building shows the architectural and symbolic union of the Chapel with the campus.

3. To the left of the altar is the sarcophagi of Benjamin N. Duke, Washington Duke, and James B. Duke. They are carved of carava marble. The sarcophagi is a gift of the Duke Memorial Association organized in 1929 by James A. Thomas and 8,000 contributors whose names are enrolled in bronze books on the table in Memorial Chapel.

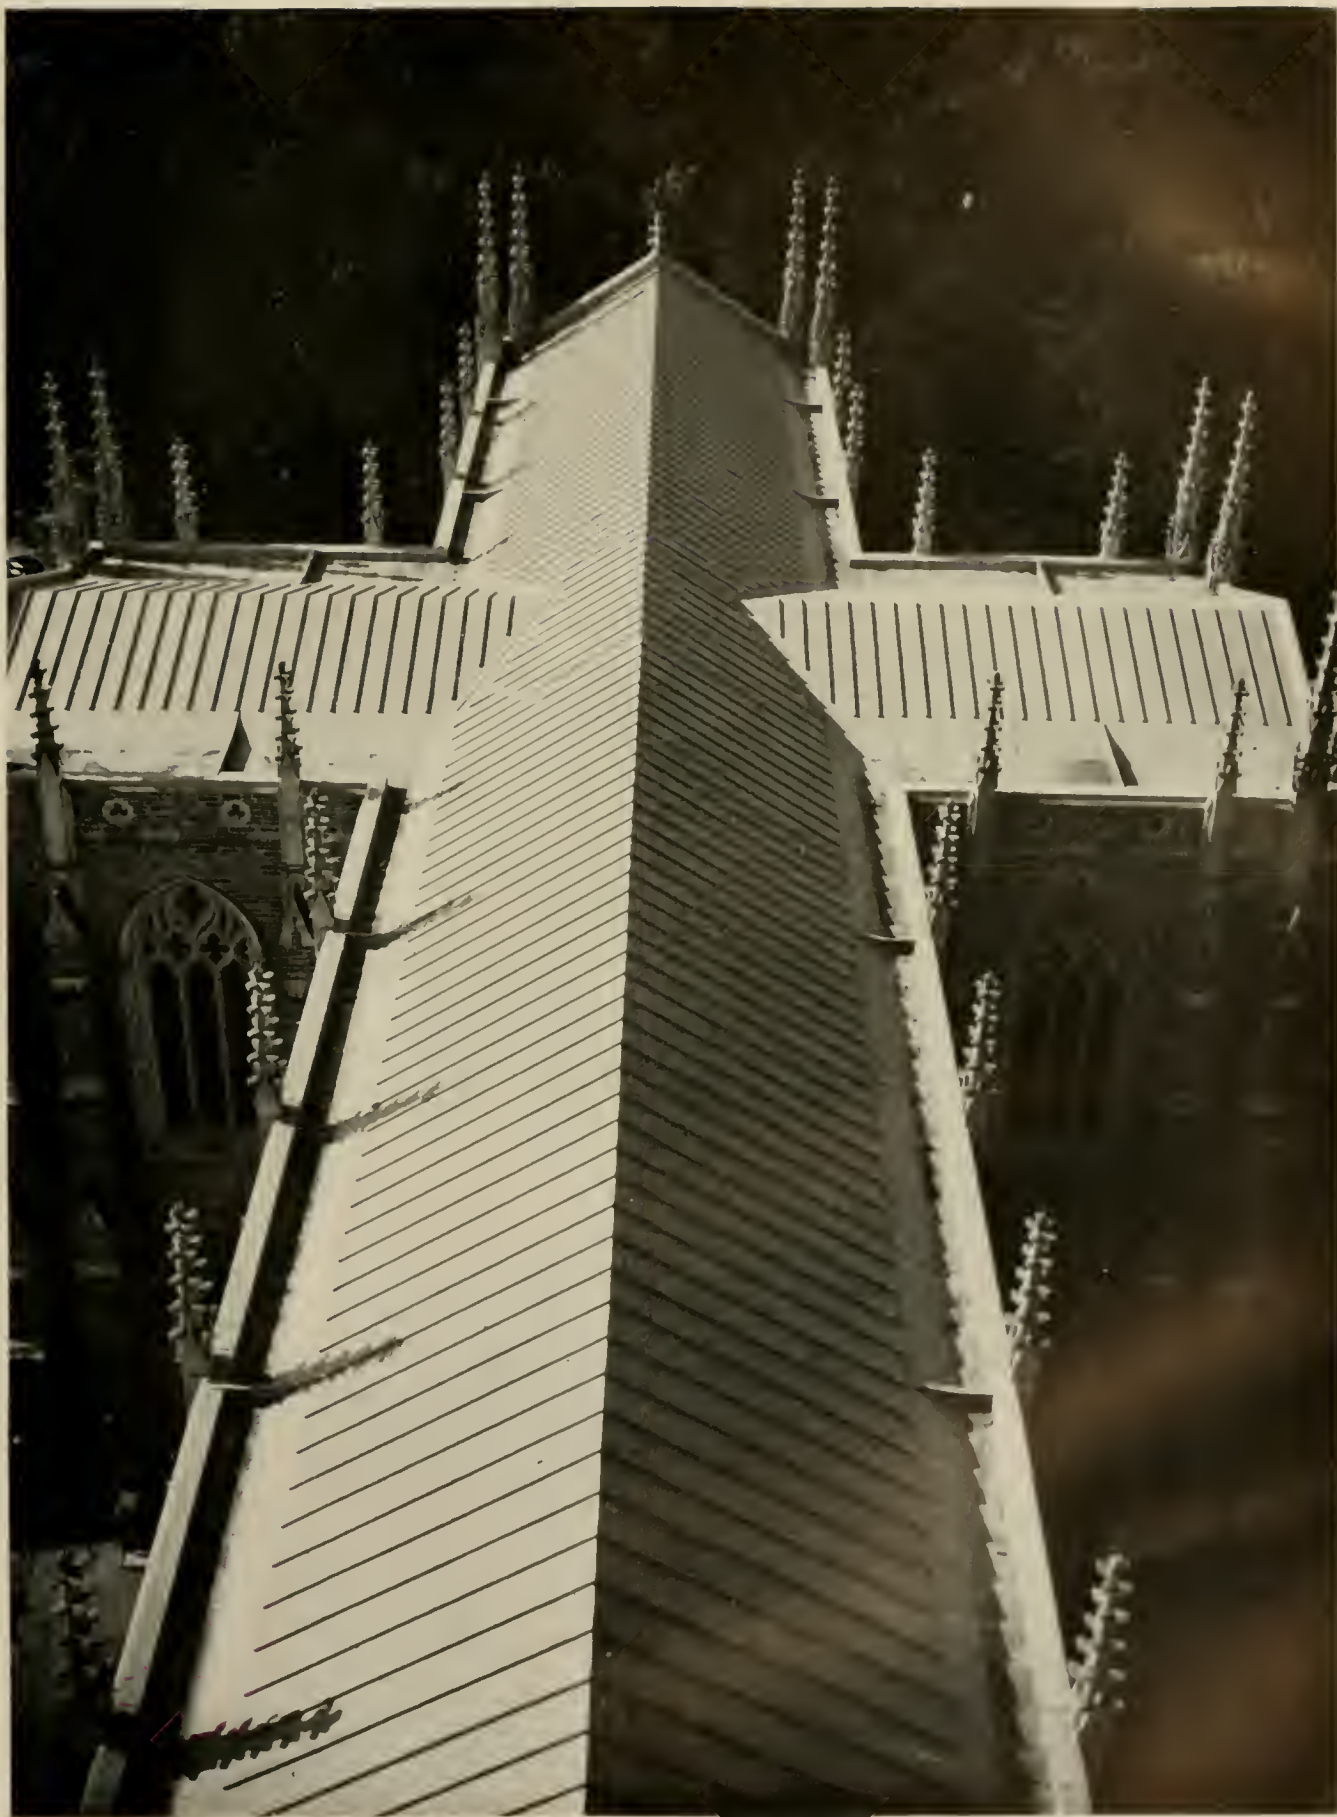

The CHAPEL

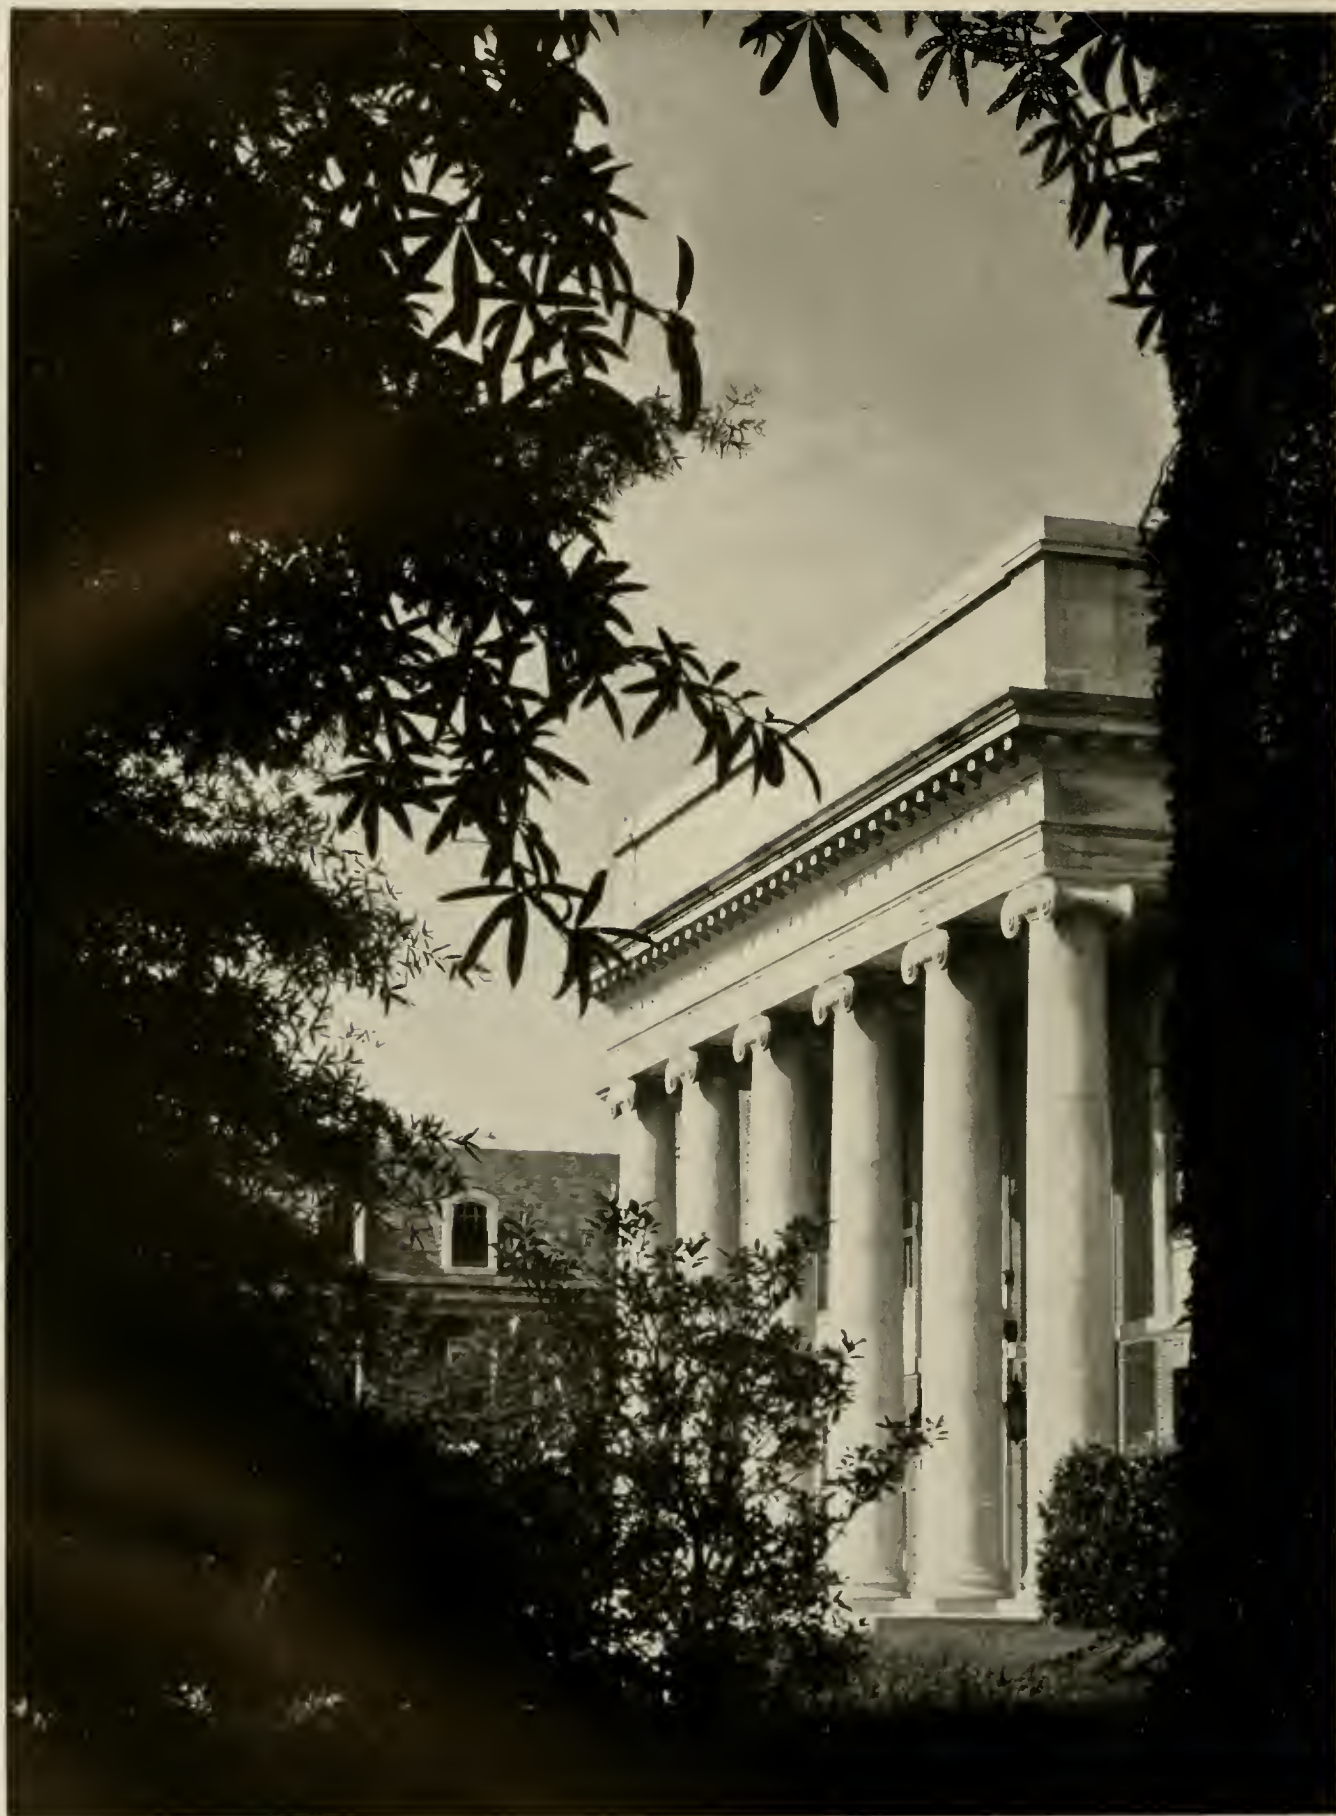

4. One of the first things a freshman does when he or she arrives on the Duke campus is to take the elevator to the top of the magnificent Chapel Tower which stands 210 feet high. Stops are made before reaching the top to allow visitors to get out and inspect the Carillon bells. The elevator has been running since 1927.

5. Even upperclassmen find pleasure in taking a few minutes out in the afternoon to revisit the Chapel Tower. Visitors come from every state in the Union to witness the view of the two campuses and surrounding territory as seen from here. The fifty-bell Carillon in the Tower may be heard in recitals every Sunday afternoon.

6. The basement of the Chapel is put to a good advantage by the Westminster Fellowship Group, who served a buffet supper down there before Christmas. The Choir Room, robe room, and Church office is also down there, and various other religious groups meet there. The Glee Club and the board meeting is held in the basement also.

1. The "desk" is located in the lobby of the Woman's College Library, and all books are checked out and returned there. Eloise Tilley is typical of the many co-eds that help out behind the desk for a few hours every day. This Library is open to the people of Durham as well as to East and West Campus.

2. Frustration arises often in the "reserve" stacks. All books on "reserve" can only be checked out for three hours, and there is usually much fist-clenching the night before an exam when "that certain book" is not there. Over 70,000 books are shelved in this Library, and West Campus Library has 825,762.

3. For those who like comfort when they study, there is the Chinese Reading Room upstairs in the Library. Besides footstools and easy-chairs the room is beautifully decorated with antique Chinese ornaments and manuscripts. It is a memorial to James A. Thomas, a business associate of Mr. Duke's in China.

East Campus LIBRARY

4. Many times the Library is a meeting place for East and West campuses. "Study dares" help relieve the monotony of many hours of tedious study, as Dor Woodard hereby proves. Before exam periods the movies and Hartmann's are forsaken, and the Library becomes the place where one practically has to reserve a seat in advance in order to get in.

5. The Reference Room contains encyclopedias, bound magazines, index guides, and valuable sources of material on all subjects. Other rooms on the main floor include an art room where paintings are displayed, a magazine room with the latest newspapers and magazines, and a Book Lovers Room which contains lounge chairs such as those in the Chinese Room.

6. The basement is referred to as "The Tombs." Many people prefer to study in one of the little nooks down there because of the deadly silence that prevails. However, the basement is used mainly for the storing of books, for a Psychology Library for both campuses, and also for a repair shop. It is especially popular in warm weather.

1. Last spring White Duchy tapped Marge Frey as one of its seven members. This, the highest honor awarded on East, is made at the last assembly of every year. That assembly will always be remembered by the seniors as the time when they gave up their seats to the rising seniors and left the Auditorium for the last time as Duke undergraduates.

2. In the basement of the Auditorium is the President's Club Room. It is used by fraternities and sororities and all other organizations for such purposes as parties, initiations, and meetings. Tau Psi Omega here enjoys some French films. The room is kept up by the Women's College. The "Y" first sponsored it for the President's Club Room.

3. The first Monday night of every month is reserved for the Women's Student Government assembly, which is compulsory to all co-eds. Marge Frey, as president of the association, presides over the meeting. The second and fourth Monday nights in each month are general assemblies and the third Monday is for house meetings.

The AUDITORIUM

4. A variety of lectures and concerts are presented in the Auditorium. The Student Forum of East Campus is foremost in sponsoring the lecture series. Jean Tommasi, president of the organization, poses with the year's first speaker, ex-governor Ellis Arnall of Georgia. Statesman Arnall's lecture was followed by the author-humorist, Max Schulman. The Auditorium is also used for Sunday night sings, the Modern Dance recital, and orchestra concerts. Last year pep rallies held in the Auditorium increased in attendance.

5. The regular assemblies last for about half an hour. The usual procedure after an assembly is to stand outside and talk or to go to sorority meetings. This time, however, Phi Kappa Delta held the interest of by-standers when they had their annual fall rapping immediately following the Monday night assembly. Marge Frey and Dean Smith are its two newly-honored members. Rudy and Divine nail their names to the board which was set up for that purpose.

1. The West Campus Dope Shop is located in the basement of the Union. It serves as a small "Drug Store" for both campuses in that it is equipped with everything from cokes to toothpaste. A juke box adds to the atmosphere and makes it a popular meeting place between classes for both campuses. The Dope Shop is also equipped with a book store and classroom supplies. This year it has been redecorated and enlarged to meet the great demand. A similiar Dope Shop, although smaller, is on East Campus also.

2. One of the assets of living on West Campus is having a barbershop next to the post office in the basement of the Union. It is owned and operated by the University on a non-profit basis, and is maintained only for the convenience of the students. The barbershop is noted for its famous shoeshiner, Ralph, who can be seen any rime of the day in the door of the barbershop remarking to the passers-by how shabby their shoes look. Ralph is as much a tradition at Duke as the East Campus purity lights are.

West Campus UNION

3. The Union is used for the purpose of selling dance, concert, open house tickets and for selling Social Standards calendars. Sam Gardner and Nancy Alley prove that the processes can be combined as they sell SGA Dance tickets and calendars at the same time. The spot is an advantageous one, since every boy makes at least one trip a day by there.

4. For the "casual college look," the Duke man need only to run down a flight of stairs into the haberdashery. There he may be fitted from argyle socks to bow ties if he so desires. Like the barbershop, Dope Shop, post office, bank, and movie theater, the haberdashery is also another service the University provides for the convenience of students.

5. In the past few years the dining-hall system has been enlarged to handle the increased enrollment. West Campus alone has three cafererias, a snack bar, an Oak Room where meals are served restaurant sryle, and private rooms that are used for fraternity and organization banquets. Prices are lower and service is better than any other place in Durham.

The ADMINISTRATION

ADMINISTRATION: Board of Trustees, Trinity College, Woman's College, Department Heads and Staff, Medical School, School of Nursing, Engineering School, Law School, School of Religion, School of Forestry, Graduate School, Summer School, and Alumni Department.

PRESIDENT ROBERT L. FLOWERS
President of Duke University, 1940-1948

TRINITY COLLEGE

IN A LARGE University such as this, we look to the administration in an attempt to mold our aims in the best possible channels. To guide the many who come to Duke in search of education and character development, President Robert Lee Flowers has devoted fifty-six years.

Dr. Flowers graduated from the United States Naval Academy in 1891 and returned to Trinity College as an instructor in mathematics, becoming head of the department the following year. In 1900 he received the honorary degree of Master of Arts from Trinity College. Other honorary degrees conferred on Dr. Flowers were two Doctorates of Law, one from Davidson College in 1927, and the other from the University of North Carolina in 1942. He is also a member of Phi Beta Kappa, Omicron Delta Kappa and Alpha Tau Omega, and in 1946 he was named "Man of the Year" by the Durham Chamber of Commerce.

Dr. Flowers has become close to the hearts of all those who go to make up Duke University, and his wisdom and wholesome sincerity warrant the respect and admiration of those whom he leads.

Although Dr. Flowers' resignation from the presidency of the University was accepted by the Board of Trustees, he will still continue to be a leader of Duke in his new post as Chancellor.

The Board of Trustees is the policy-making body of the University, and, as such, is the final authority on questions of policy, while the execution of policies and rules is left to the Administration.

Chairman of the Board is Mr. Willis Smith of Raleigh, of the class of 1910, who was elected to this position in May, 1946.

As the outside governing body of the University, it is the duty of the Trustees to elect the president, to confirm the selection of deans and the issuance of diplomas, and to approve such activities as the erection of new buildings. Composed of thirty-six men, the Board is virtually a self-perpetuating body. New members are nominated by the Board and then elected, in the case of alumni members, by the Alumni Association.

The Board of Trustees forms committees to review and report back to the Board on the various phases of the University such as buildings, grounds and administration.

The Executive Committee of the University is an interim committee for the Board of Trustees. This committee is composed of three members from the Board of Trustees, three from the Endowment Trustees, and the President of the University.

The Endowment Trustees are a board of fifteen men and women who supervise the distribution of the Duke Endowment Indenture trust. In providing for this trust, Mr. James B. Duke said that the purpose of the trust is "to make provision in some means for the needs of mankind along physical, mental, and spiritual lines." Mr. Duke stated his ideal for the University as being, by the use of "men of such outstanding character, ability, and vision" for officers, trustees, and faculty as will insure the University of "attaining and maintaining a place of real leadership in the educational world."

Dr. William Hane Wannamaker is vice president and Dean of the University. After receiving his A.B. from Wofford College and his M.A. from Trinity College, he did graduate work at Harvard and several German universities and was awarded a Litt.D. by Wofford College.

He came to Duke as a professor of German in 1902. In 1917 he was appointed Dean of the University and, in 1926, vice president, to which office he was re-elected in 1946.

Herbert James Herring is vice president of the University and Dean of Trinity College. A native of North Carolina, he is also an alumnus of Duke, having received his A.B. here in 1922. He received his M.A. from Columbia University in 1929. Coming to Duke as a member of the faculty in 1925, he was appointed vice president of the University in 1946.

Charles Edward Jordan, a native of North Carolina, is vice president and secretary of the University. He received his A.B. at Trinity College in 1923, graduated from the Duke law school in 1925, and holds an honorary LL.D. which was conferred on him by Elon College in 1945. Mr. Jordan came to Duke as assistant secretary in 1925 and was appointed secretary of the University in 1941. In June, 1946, he was made vice president of the University. Mr. Jordan has been a member and chairman of Publications Board, chairman of the Y.M.C.A. Board, and was faculty adviser to the CHANTICLEER for twenty years. He is now chairman of the Duke University Church Board.

Treasurer of the University is Charles Blackwell Markham, a native of Durham, who received his A.B. and M.A. degrees from Trinity College and also did graduate work at Columbia University. He joined the Duke faculty in 1908 as professor of Engineering and Mathematics. Appointed Assistant Treasurer in 1911, he was appointed to his present position in 1941.

Dr. Alan Krebs Manchester is Dean of Freshmen of Trinity College. He received his A.B. at Vanderbilt University, his M.A. at Columbia University, and his Ph.D. at Duke. Before becoming a member of the Duke faculty in 1929, Dean Manchester taught at Trinity Park School, the University of Oklahoma, Wallace University School, and several South American universities. He has traveled extensively in Mexico, South America, and Europe.

Robert B. Cox, Assistant to the Dean of Trinity College, received his A.B. from the University of Tennessee and his M.A. in English from Peabody College. He did further graduate work at Vanderbilt University, the University of North Carolina, and Duke. Dean Cox came to Duke as an instructor of English in the fall of 1945. He was appointed to his present position in the spring of 1946.

James M. Slay has held his position as Assistant to the Dean of Trinity College since the fall of 1947. He is a Duke alumnus, having received both his A.B. and his M.A. here. Before coming to Duke, he was an instructor of romance languages at Randolph-Macon Military Academy and served for four years in the United States Marine Corps as instructor and assistant operations officer.

WOMAN'S COLLEGE

DEAN R. FLORENCE BRINKLEY

THE new Dean of the Woman's College, Roberta Brinkley, came directly to Duke following a fourteen month period of research in England, where she was on sabbatical leave from Goucher College. Her headquarters were in London, but she spent considerable time at the library in Cambridge and at other libraries, working on her book, Seventeenth Century as Interpreted by Coleridge.

Dean Brinkley is a native of Georgia and a graduate of Agnes Scott College. She received her M.A. from the George Peabody College for Teachers and her Ph.D. from Yale.

We find writing to be one of her many accomplishments. She is the author of Nathan Field, The Actor-playwright, The Arthurian Epic in the Seventeenth Century, and the editor of English Poetry of the Seventeenth Century.

In the office next door to that of Dean Brinkley, we find Mrs. Hazen Smith, the Dean of Undergraduate Women. Twenty years of experience working with Duke students as Social and Religious Adviser, Y.W.C.A. director, and director of F.A.C. well qualify her for her present position.

Mrs. Smith is a native of La Grange, Georgia and holds her B.A. from Agnes Scott College. She received her M.A. at Columbia, where she built up her background for personnel work through activity on publications, Y.W.C.A., and student government.

Familiar to all aspiring freshmen is the name of Mrs. W. S. Persons, Director of Committee on Admissions. A graduate herself of Duke, Class of 1922, Mrs. Persons holds both B.A. and M.A. degrees from this University. She did further academic work at the University of Pennsylvania and returned to Duke in 1930.

Miss Mary Grace Wilson, who was born in South Carolina, was graduated from Winthrop College for Women, and has done graduate work at Columbia. After teaching in several public schools, Miss Wilson came to Duke when the Woman's College opened in 1930, in the capacity of Social Director. In 1937 she was made Dean of Residence, a position which gave her the opportunity to devote herself to the object of her greatest concern, that of seeing the students combine a well balanced program of extra-curricular activities with their academic interests.

Miss Ellen Huckabee, Assistant Dean of Undergraduate Instruction, received both her A.B. and M.A. degrees from Duke. After being on the staff of the Dean of Residence, as well as being counselor of Pegram House, Miss Huckabee assisted in the personnel work of Navy Women's Reserve. In the fall of 1947 she received a leave of absence from Duke to work on a training program for the Navy.

Mrs. Louise Seabolt, Recorder of the Woman's College, has been maintaining records of Duke students since 1925. The duties of her office include keeping attendance, academic, and statistical records, evaluating credits, and recording functions of the dean's office. Mrs. Seabolt earned her A.B. at Duke in 1925 and her M.A. at Columbia in 1929. She also works with the Committee on Admissions and in an advisory capacity with the Town Girls.

Complementing the staff of the Woman's College are the eight house counsellors, whose duties are to help provide a homelike atmosphere in the dormitories and to act as advisers to the women.

FACULTY

NEVER before in past issues had the faculty of Duke University been included in the year-book. The staff felt, this year, that such an important and integral part of the University could not be overlooked. It is because of this that the 1948 CHANTICLEER is dedicated to the faculty.

These men and women, widely known in the educational world, and possessing "outstanding character, ability and vision," comprise a well-organized faculty and administration of more than six hundred persons.

Kenneth Reardon, head of dramatics, is the sole member of the department and consequently he is not included in this section.

The twenty-two departments entail almost every phase of study which the student of today needs to prepare himself for future life. Each department head meets with his department weekly to discuss the teaching methods and procedure of his particular department in order to maintain equal progress in the various sections.

The high level of coöperation and character which the faculty exemplifies insures the excellent position and reputation which Duke holds in today's expanding field of education and also enables the graduate to better establish himself in his life after college.

MEDICAL SCHOOL

DR. WILBURT C. DAVISON, the dean of the Medical School of Duke University, is a native of Grand Rapids, Michigan. After receiving his A.B. from Princeton in 1913, he attended Oxford for the next three years, where he was a Rhodes Scholar. He earned his B.A., B.Sc., and M.A. while he was in England, and then, returning to this country, he obtained his M.D. from Johns Hopkins University. In 1932 he received his D.Sc. from Wake Forest, and in 1944, has LL.D. from the University of North Carolina.

From 1917 until 1927 Dr. Davison held several positions at the Johns Hopkins University Medical School. He was an instructor, associate professor and acting head of the Department of Pediatrics, and later became Assistant Dean. Since 1927 he has been professor of pediatrics and Dean of the Duke University Medical School.

During the first world war Dr. Davison served with the Red Cross in France and Serbia, and then with the United States Army. He has acted as Consultant to the Office of the Surgeon General, U. S. Army, and also as Consultant in the Institute of Inter-American Army Affairs.

SCHOOL OF NURSING

MISS FLORENCE WILSON is the Dean of the School of Nursing. She acquired her B.A. degree from the University of Michigan in 1913 and her M.A. degree from Western Reserve University in 1928. She received further practice at the Vassar Training Camp for Nurses and, in 1920, graduated from the City Hospital School of Nursing in New York City.

Dean Wilson has been active in planning programs for graduate nurses in which the nurses would attend classes of the education department on East Campus and use Duke Hospital as a practice field.

For the women of the University undergraduate school who are interested in nurse's training, Dean Wilson has resumed the nurses' aide classes which are open to a maximum number of thirty women. Duties of the nurse's aides include attending patients and generally helping the nurses in their work. The program was started in 1942 during the war, but it was stopped in 1945 because there was no apparent need. Now at the request of the women the training program has been reopened.

COLLEGE OF ENGINEERING

DEAN WILLIAM HOLLAND HALL of the College of Engineering, a native of North Carolina, came to Duke as assistant Professor of Engineering in 1915. He attended the United States Naval Academy and received his A.B. and M.A. at Duke. He did subsequent graduate work at the University of Michigan, where he received his B.C.E., and the University of Wisconsin, where he received his M.S. in Civil Engineering.

Walter James Seely, a native of Pennsylvania, is Chairman of the Department of Electrical Engineering. Having received his E.E. at the Polytechnic Institute of Brooklyn and his M.S. at the University of Pennsylvania, he joined the Duke faculty in 1925 as professor of electrical engineering and has held his present position since 1929. Before coming to Duke, he was an ensign in the United States Navy, working on the Special Board of Anti-Submarine Devices and also taught at the University of Pennsylvania.

Harold C. Bird is Chairman of the Department of Civil Engineering. A native of Connecticut, he attended Yale University, where he received his Ph.B. and B.S.C.E. Before coming to Duke in 1926, he taught at Yale University and Pennsylvania Military College. A well-known writer in his field, he has published a book on descriptive geometry and has been editor of and has contributed to several professional publications.

This year saw the completion of the new engineer's building which is twice as large as the four present buildings combined. Prior to this time engineers attended class on East Campus, but the new structure has a capacity for the increased enrollment of engineers in one building. It cost $750,000 and is furnished with the latest equipment.

The College of Engineering offers standard four-year courses in Civil, Electrical, and Mechanical Engineering, with an aeronautical option for mechanical engineers.

SCHOOL OF LAW

THIS year Dr. Harold Shepherd is the Dean of the School of Law. He was elected to this position in 1947 by the Board of Trustees. Dean Shepherd holds an A.B. degree, which he received at Stanford, and a J.D. degree. He has held positions at Stanford, the University of Chicago, Columbia, the University of Minnesota, the University of Washington, the University of Cincinnati, and has been a professor of Law at Duke since 1939.

Dean Shepherd has done outstanding work in the field of writing. He is the editor of a casebook on contracts used in his course at Duke, and he is the author of many articles which appear in leading legal periodicals. Much recognition has been given to him for his work in making a survey of the bar examination procedures and means whereby the work of the Law School and the authorities concerned with admission to practice might by better correlated.

The Duke University School of Law was established in 1924, with its history of legal instruction running back to the middle of the past century.

SCHOOL OF RELIGION

DR. HAROLD A. BOSLEY, Dean of the Divinity School, is a native of Nebraska and came to Duke in September, 1947. He attended Nebraska Wesleyan University and the University of Chicago, winning his B.A. in 1930, his B.D. in 1932, and his Ph.D. in 1933. Dr. Bosley was awarded the honorary degree of Doctor of Divinity by Nebraska Wesleyan University in 1942. He is the author of The Quest for Religious Certainty and other books, articles, and reviews.

The indenture signed by Mr. James B. Duke, which established the University, mentioned first among its objects the training of ministers of the Gospel.

The Divinity School was the first of the graduate professional schools to be organized. The primary purpose of the Divinity School is to provide training for individuals planning to enter the Christian ministry. Studies of a broad and thorough character directed toward such a training constitute the center of the curriculum of the Divinity School.

SCHOOL OF FORESTRY

AN academic-forestry curriculum, designed for students intent upon pursuing the study of forestry, particularly as a profession after graduation, was originated in Trinity College of Duke University in 1936.

Dean Korstian has served as Dean of the School of Forestry since its establishment in 1938. He received his B.S.F. and his M.F. at the University of Nebraska, and his M.A. at Southeastern Christian College. He received his Ph.D. at Yale. In addition to serving in the Forestry Service of the United States Department of Agriculture, Dean Korstian has written a series of authoritative works in the field of silviculture. Dr. Korstian is also in charge of the management of the 5,000 acre Duke Forest, which is used for research as well as recreation. The possession of such an area offers an unusual opportunity for the development of educational work in forestry.

Forestry is taught at Duke on a graduate level. Since the war, the emphasis which it has placed upon the importance of the preservation of our natural forests has led to an increased enrollment in the school.

CLARENCE F. KORSTIAN

GRADUATE SCHOOL

A STUDENT who has received the A.B. or B.S. degree from an institution of recognized standing may be admitted to take courses in the Graduate School of Arts and Sciences of Duke University, provided that his undergraduate record gives evidence of ability to undertake this study successfully.

Dr. Paul Magnus Gross was appointed Dean of the Graduate School in 1947. Before coming to Duke in 1919, he was an instructor at the College of the City of New York. In 1920, he was made head of the Divinity School, which position he held until he was appointed to his present office last year.

Dr. Gross holds degrees from the College of the City of New York and Columbia University and has also done graduate work at the University of Leipzig.

A member of many national scientific organizations, including the American Physics Society, the American Chemists' Society, and the National Research Council, Dr. Gross was co-author of Elements of Physical Chemistry and has contributed to many scientific publications.

Dr. Gross was honored as the outstanding scientist of the South when he was awarded the Harty Medal in 1945. He has served since 1921 as Director of Tobacco Research and during World War II as Director of War Research.

PAUL M. GROSS

SUMMER SCHOOL

DUKE University's Summer School has a somewhat smaller enrollment than during the regular year, but with a larger representation of graduate students. The work of the Summer Session is divided into units of three semester hours, each class meeting for eighty-five minutes daily, five days per week for a period of six weeks.

Both campuses, with their facilities, are offered to the student. Advanced work in education, psychology, sociology, and Spanish are offered on East Campus.

Work is offered with the needs in mind of candidates for A.M. and M.Ed. degrees, students wishing to accelerate, and those under the G. I. Bill of Rights.

Dean of the Summer School is Dr. Arthur M. Proctor. He holds an A.B. from Trinity College and A.M. and Ph.D. degrees from Columbia University.

Dr. Proctor came to Duke in 1923 as professor of Education. Before coming here, he taught in secondary schools in North Carolina and Georgia and served as Headmaster of Castle School on the Hudson. He is a member of several national education organizations, including the National Education Association, the Horace Mann League, and the American Association of University Professors.

ALUMNI DEPARTMENT

nual donations by alumni and friends, which may be supplemented from time to time, as the occasion arises, by a specific campaign for special projects. This Duke Loyalty Fund has set a goal of $100,000 for this year.

Every month an Alumni Register is published by the department to inform alumni of events and activities of the school and subjects of interest concerning other alumni. Recently they have started a series of articles on the various phases of the different departments of the school. In addition to this, those not receiving the Alumni Register get a News Bulletin, a condensation of the monthly magazine, which is published quarterly.

Addresses and records of approximately 25,000 students who at one time attended Duke University are kept in the office.

The Alumni Department is also instrumental in assisting in such University events as class reunions, homecoming, Duke Day, and commencement, and they notify the alumni of these occasions. Annually an alumnae week-end is held during Spring Vacation for the past women students of the University.

CHARLES A. DUKES

CHARLES Aubrey Dukes is Director of the Alumni Department. While a student at Duke, he worked in this department and upon receiving his A.B. in 1929, he was appointed Assistant Director. Mr. Dukes held this position until 1944 when the Board of Trustees appointed him Director. In addition to his alumni activities, Mr. Dukes acts as adviser to several campus organizations.

The Alumni Department acts as a connecting link between the alumni and the University. It keeps a record of everyone who has attended Duke and mails to each college literature such as catalogues and pictorials. It helps sponsor all University entertainments and entertains visiting speakers.

In 1947, the department established the Duke University National Council whose purpose it is to institute a program to inform alumni and friends of the University of the needs of the institution and the conditions which produce these needs and to institute a program of an-

THE SENIOR CLASS

WE SEE THEM PASSING IN REVIEW THE SENIOR CLASS OF OLD DUKE U.

NO one can experience the emotions of college graduation without realizing that it marks another important phase in the business of life. With the attainment of a diploma, the student steps away from the shelter of university life, narrows his circle of friends, closes the record of four memorable years, and prepares to face the future with a conscious maturity.

The class of 1948 will have many memories to stimulate mixed feelings when they are handed their diplomas this June. In retrospect, the graduating senior will recall hours that might well have been spent differently, mistakes that could have been avoided, and friendships that should have been more carefully cultivated. From an academic standpoint, however, this diploma will be an everlasting symbol of achievement and the feeling of regret or failure could never be a dominant emotion. They will have pride in the stamp of approval placed upon them by the school and satisfaction, too, in the lasting friendships they have made with faculty members and fellow graduates.

The Seniors entered college during the war years. Their first two years were carried on in the atmosphere of national anxiety, adjustment, and sacrifice that prevails in war-time. They were then privileged to experience, as a class, the thrill of victory and the resultant shift to a widened scope of social and scholastic privileges. Bound together by these shared experiences, this class of Seniors feel especially close and will long remember even minor details of their collegiate days.

The Seniors look with confidence on the students who remain to carry on the campus life. They regret leaving the cabin parties, the football games, the Sunday sings, the pin-up serenades, the proms, and the many other time-vested traditions. They are proud of their memberships in the several national honor societies of the University and they hold the highest esteem for the faculty members who have worked so conscientiously with them.

They face the future with the belief that they hold the standards of conduct, academic training, and patterns for constructive thinking that will enable them to undertake the next phase of life with courage.

THE JUNIOR CLASS

THEY'RE REALLY PUSHING '49.*

THE JUNIORS returned to the campus last fall assured by the knowledge that the half way mark of their college career had been reached without mishap. Looking back they appreciated how well the college programs for freshmen and sophomores had fitted them to take a much more important part in school life and affairs.

They undertook their work with a vigor stimulated by the realization that their attainments this year would do much to shape their scholastic record. Some concentrated on earning a place in the coveted-honorarys—Phi Beta Kappa, Omicron Delta Kappa, White Duchy, and Phi Kappa Delta. For others the most important thing was to maintain a “C” average. But, whatever the goal, all found the year increasingly interesting because, with the completion of many required courses, more time could be spent on majors.

All was not work for the Juniors, however, for experience had taught them how to budget their time wisely and make the most of their leisure hours. Many had found a suitable place in recreational activities and were able to help plan the programs with an originality born of experience. As Juniors, they took the lead in sponsoring dances, sings and cabin parties, and worked hard to help the college function as a unified whole. The elimination of restrictions made necessary by the war, added zest to the widened social life and also did much to promote this feeling of unification among all of the students.

Among the pleasant memories of the year are the Co-ed Ball—high spot on the social calendar—class meetings, Junior-Senior privileges, and the important elections to determine leaders for the Senior year. Also to be recorded in memory books are the romantic fluctuations, the pin-ups and the marriages.

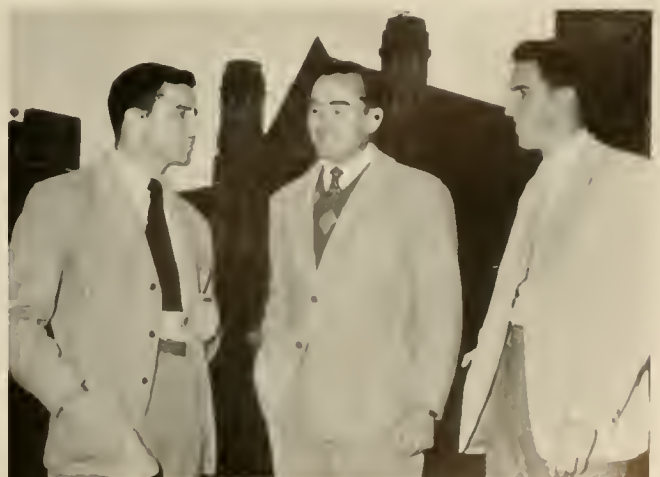

Now, as this purposeful year comes to a close, the Juniors sense the responsibility that is handed down to them by the departing Seniors; a responsibility that includes the duty of making permanent contributions to the prestige and traditions of the University.

They realize the magnitude of the tasks before them, but as they review their accomplishments of the past, they feel competent to undertake the work of next year when they return as Seniors.

L. Hoff, Vice President; A. Rankin, Secretary; S. Watson, President; D. Harriss, Treasurer.

G. Skipworth, President; N. Wilson, Secretary; B. Welch, Treasurer.

JUNIORS

THE SOPHOMORE CLASS

NOW WE HAVE THE MIDDLE MEN OUR EX-FRESHMEN BACK AGAIN

THE CAMPUS was alive in the fall as the Sophomores sang out their greetings to last year's friends and roommates. It was wonderful to be free at last of freshman restrictions and to return again to pick up the threads of academic life.

During this second year, well schooled in Duke standards and traditions, the Sophomores began to develop their special talents and to select their major fields of interest. Those who were BOS or Sandals had particular opportunities to help the new freshmen become adapted to campus living and to find new friends among them. All felt the responsibility of setting a good example for those newcomers after Sophomore superiority had been firmly demonstrated on Goon Day, the classic event of East Campus, in which the "almighty" Sophomores charge them in Rat court with their crimes during the past year.

The new experiences gained in the second year prove that college life becomes more enjoyable as well as cultural while the period of instruction moves on. There was the thrill of rushing as contrasted with the anxiety of being rushed. There was pride in their ability to enter into the various campus functions with confidence, and the satisfaction, too, of knowing that the so-called "Sophomore Slump" had been crossed without tragedy. Romances, not an uninteresting phase of campus life, added particular zest to the thrills of the Sophomore year.

With the passing of the half-way mark and the completion of necessary course requirements the predominating thought of each potential Junior was of the time he could devote to his chosen field. Dim vision of cap and gown began to appear, and the time until graduation seemed considerably shorter than one imagined; possibilities of Phi Beta Kappa, White Duchy, and ODK became quite definite probabilities for many.

Now the time for summer vacation has again been reached. It is anticipated happily, and will be enjoyed with certainty, but it lacks the complete abandon of school responsibilities that marked last year's end. There will be a longing, now, to keep contact with college friends, a constant awareness of the responsibility of representing a great University while off the campus, and a keen sense of anticipation for the coming fall when they return as Juniors.

THE FRESHMAN CLASS

AHEAD THERE'S LOTS OF GRINDING*

EACH SEPTEMBER is a period of interest and anxiety to the faculty and upperclassmen of Duke University as they watch the freshmen assemble on the Campus. From South, North, East and West come these boys and girls intent upon their quest for knowledge, friends, experience and finesse. Whether these students attain their objectives will have a decided bearing on the future standing of Duke in the college world.

Confusion is the dominant note during Freshman Week, but with the help of sympathetic upperclassmen, Sandals, BOS, "Y" members and members of FAC the problems of matriculation and adjustment are simplified. Through the seemingly endless haze of placement tests, assemblies and orientation meetings, the new arrivals gradually find themselves fitted for the responsibilities of university life.

With the return of upperclassmen and the beginning of classes, new experiences as well as new problems are encountered. The group is introduced to cabin parties, dances, football games, rushing and the weekly sings. They thrill to the sight of the Chapel, listen with quiet appreciation to the first serenades, await with wonder the much talked about Goon Day, and soon accept enthusiastically the traditional rivalry with the quaint little college at Chapel Hill.

By February when final examinations are finished, the freshmen are firmly established as an integral part of the school. With the coming of the second semester some of the special restrictions are lifted and the freshmen, feeling more a sense of equality, renew their vows to maintain Duke standards and a high scholastic rating.

The first year is over and looking back they see roots of lasting friendships and the background for an acceptable college education. They remember, too, the gayer aspects of college; the midnight gab sessions in the dorms, the out-of-town football weekends, the dances, and the group dinners in the Union.

All in all they recall a year filled with the kind of experiences that each will cherish; and as the Class of 1951 packs for vacations, they look eagerly forward not only to the rest and relaxation of the summer months, but also to the beginning of the fall semester when their college life—both work and play—will be resumed.

NURSES' STUDENT GOVERNMENT

LEADERS OF THE GALS IN WHITE WIELD A TRUSTY GAVEL'S MIGHT

UNDER THE able leadership of president, Ann McSwain; secretary, Mary Trulah Peele; and treasurer, Martha McManus, the Nurse's Student Government has been a fast growing body. All activities which do not come under the jurisdiction of the Education Committee are regulated by this organization. Still a young group, the NSGA was organized for the purpose of representing the students in a compact and efficient group, and to foster better relations between the student body and the faculty.

The Student Council consists of girls representing the entire student body.

Recreational functions include vesper services every Thursday night. These services feature out-of-town speakers as part of their programs. They also hold an annual Student Government dance.

The Honor Council, a judiciary branch of the NSGA, defines and upholds the Honor System under which the nurses work. All offenses which concern a breach of the honor code are handled by the executive branch of this council.

The Association sent delegates to nursing conventions in Asheville and Chicago.

NURSES

DUKE'S FLORENCE NIGHTINGALES THEIR SERVICE NEVER, NEVER FAILS

THE FIRST six months in the life of a pre-clinical nurse is a period of hard study.

Even after two or more years in college, they found that subjects like pharmacology, microbiology and other subjects included in the curriculum necessitated starting from scratch with their college work as a good foundation.

There wasn't much time for dating except Saturday nights and Sunday afternoons, but time passed quickly, and they were freshmen. This meant more late leaves, a little ward work and more studying. The combination of these three usually resulted in a little study in that well-known recess—the closet.

They had their caps by now and wore them proudly. Little by little more responsibility was added, and soon there was the task of night duty—alone with thirty or more patients dependent on them. They found to their surprise that they were capable of running a ward smoothly, and they met emergencies with calm and good judgment. However, there were always those few little mistakes that are made in the first years of training. But experience proved to be the best teacher, and gradually all mistakes faded away.

The Junior and Senior years brought fewer classes and longer hours on the ward. There were thrilling experiences in the operating room, and the three months with the children on Pediatrics.

More social activities—dances, parties, concerts, choir, ball games—entered into the picture. Every moment was filled with dates, studying, and sleep until 6:00 a.m.!

From all these experiences the Nurses gained the realization that their profession was the highest type of service to mankind—every patient was a challenge to their ability and training, but they were well prepared to meet whatever problems presented themselves. They emerged from their course of training with the conviction that life as a nurse was wonderful.

Station wagon reception ends with dumping of suitcases, hatboxes, food packages. Future nurses probably won't attempt to smile by the sweater and skirt season. Who knows how many hours the lamp will burn for studying or how long before the clock gets pitched out at seven A.M.

New girls register. This begins the first of steps on their way leading toward the nursing profession. The first day of classes begins, accompanied by looks of anticipation and many new books. Bewilderment soon ends as girls become accustomed to hospital and surroundings.

Miss Dot Greer acts as a friend to shy children. Standing with them around the fish bowl, she diverts their thoughts from illness.

In the emergency room at Duke Hospital, Miss Mary Eva Flake, student nurse, prepares a sterile table as part of her training duties.

NOW RECREATION'S FIRST IN MIND

Methodical care enters into every phase of training. Left: Attention to charts and records is given by Miss Ruth Douglas. Center: Miss Sharpe shows her skill with an injured child at feeding time in the children's ward. Right: Miss Newman has a similar duty in the children's ward.

In the dining hall at the Nurses' cafeteria breakfasters chat in line. A Sunday morning breakfast of pancakes and hot cereal awaits them, as they prepare for a long day ahead. Sunday, like every other day in the week, finds nurses at work along side the rest of the hospital staff.

Left: Time out for relaxation and food is afforded by a brief moment in the conveniently located hospital dope-shop. Right: Pictured at lunch in the dining hall are Eva Flake, M. J. Alexander, and Beatrice Arotzky. Attention is centered on Beatrice on her first day in White.

Two pledges of Santa Filomena, the honorary society for nurses, go through the ritual of pledging.

Active members stand with the new initiates of Santa Filomena as they pose for a group picture. It is the highest honorary that may be bestowed upon a Duke nurse.

Nurses can Can-can. A summer sing sponsored by the nurses is made up of their songs and dances. An evening outside Baker House affords time for talking and dancing as duties of the fall day are put aside for awhile. Such moments are infrequent and therefore very appreciated.

TO BE TAPPED to White Duchy is the highest honor awarded to women at Duke. Seven women of the senior class, chosen for their attainment of eminence as leaders and for their service in the sundry activities of the Women's College, constitute its membership. The details of the organization of White Duchy, the methods of selecting members, the place of meeting, and the identity of the white-hooded figure who taps the newly chosen seven from the junior class in the May assembly are all secret. The white carnation, which has come to be symbolic among Duke women of the highest qualities of leadership and service, serves as emblem of the secret order. As the new members take their seats on the stage in the Women's College Auditorium, the old members pin a single white carnation on each of them. At intervals during the year all the members of White Duchy wear the flower. The women honored this year were: Mary Hills Divine, Marjorie Frey, Carolyn Bunn, Jean Tommasi, Jane Bruce, Polly Weedin and Helen Mercner.

OMICRON DELTA KAPPA

OMICRON DELTA KAPPA is a national honorary leadership fraternity for undergraduate men. The organization elects leaders on the campus in organizations typical of extra-curricular activity—athletics, publications, forensics, student government and scholarship. Members are rewarded by membership for distinguishing themselves in these fields.

Officers for the past year were, John Baldwin, president; Howard Hartley, vice president; Dean Alan K. Manchester, secretary; and Winston H. Palmer, treasurer.

PHI KAPPA DELTA

FOUNDED in 1944 as a local honorary fraternity, Phi Kappa Delta gives recognition to senior women for their leadership, scholarship and service on the Campus. Its purpose is not only to honor outstanding leaders, but to bring together women from the various fields of college life so that they might work for the betterment of the university in unity and spirit. This year plans have been made to publish a collection of the school songs best-loved by the students. Tapping into the honorary, takes place in the spring and in the fall when the flower-bedecked shield of Phi Kappa Delta bears the names of the newly selected members. The fraternity aspires to affiliate with Mortar Board, the national honorary, in 1949. The officers this year were: Martha Rudy, president; Katherine Terrell, vice president; Dean of Residence, Miss Mary Grace Wilson, Secretary; Margaret Carter, treasurer.

SANTA FILOMENA

THE SENIOR Honorary Society of the Duke School of Nursing, Santa Filomena, was founded in April, 1944, as an organization which would represent outstanding leadership and achievement. Candidates for membership must show recognized qualities of leadership, demonstrate superior nursing ability, and must have maintained a high scholastic record throughout the first two years of nursing. The candidates are chosen from the rising senior class, and in an impressive candlelight ceremony the Santa Filomena members "tap" the candidates by pinning a small white satin bow on their uniforms and presenting them with a small Nightingale lamp. The members of Santa Filomena may wear this small pin—the only jewelry which adorns a student's uniform. Throughout the year the members strive for the advancement of interclass relationship, for the promotion of better nursing care and higher nursing standards. This organization provides an incentive to younger students and gives them a high goal toward which to strive.

Although Santa Filomena is not a national organization, attempts have been made by this society during this year, and the one previous, to establish chapters at local schools and eventually to organize a national association.

Each month the members write a letter of recognition to the student whom they believe has done outstanding work during the month. This lends added incentive to the students for excellence in their work.

The selection of members is made during the first student government meeting of the year.

TAU BETA PI

NORTH CAROLINA GAMMA CHAPTER INSTITUTED JANUARY 10, 1947

THE Tau Beta Pi Association was founded in 1885, at Lehigh University by Edward H. Williams, Jr. to mark in a fitting manner those who have conferred honor upon their Alma Mater by distinguished scholarship and exemplary character as undergraduates in engineering, or by their attainments as alumni in the field of engineering, and to foster a spirit of liberal culture in the engineering colleges of America. From this small beginning Tau Beta Pi has risen to the position where it is recognized as the national honorary engineering society, having 82 chapters and more than 50,000 members.

Here at Duke University, in 1930, a group of outstanding seniors in engineering met with a member of the faculty, Mr. R. T. Mathews, Tau Beta Pi from Tufts, to form a local honorary engineering society. The objects of the proposed organization, as subsequently set forth in its constitution, were to promote interest in engineering; recognize superior scholarship, leadership, and character; and to petition the Tau Beta Pi Association.

The work of organizing Delta Epsilon Sigma was completed in 1931 when a constitution was adopted, a ritual formulated, and the official seal and key chosen. Scholarship standards and ideals for character and leadership were those of Tau Beta Pi.

Delta Epsilon Sigma could not petition Tau Beta Pi until recent years, when the number of students enrolled in the College of Engineering reached a number sufficient to meet Tau Beta Pi requirements.

This requirement having been met, the original petitioning group, in the fall of 1946, drafted a petition which was presented to the Tau Beta Pi Executive Council in March, 1947. It was approved and, in October, E. H. Gautier and Professor Otto Meier, Jr., student and faculty delegates from Delta Epsilon Sigma, attended the National Convention of Tau Beta Pi in New York, where they presented the case for Duke and accepted the convention's unanimous grant of a charter.

BETA OMEGA SIGMA

FROM A SMALL ACORN TO AN OAK A BIG WHEEL FROM A TINY SPOKE

BETA OMEGA SIGMA is a sophomore honorary fraternity that is one of the outstanding student organizations of the University. Its members, sophomores who show leadership ability, school spirit, and good character, play a big part in the development of school spirit and traditions at Duke. One of the important functions of BOS is to lead freshmen through their first year, helping them to get the most out of their activities that they can.

This year BOS helped to get the social season at Duke off to a good start when they presented with the Sandals the Esquire Dance of '47. During the football season they were an active group in building up spirit; they sponsored pep rallies, put over the sale of rooster's hats, decorated the football field, and organized with the Sandals the Homecoming Day. BOS helped present an informal Christmas Dance in the Ark and every week during the year sponsored the popular Sunday night sing.

The officers for this year were Bill Elias, president; Henry Lineberger, vice president; Buber Dunson, secretary; and Fred Stanback, treasurer.

The first dance of the year, the "Esquire Dance," was held in September in the Woman's gym and sponsored by BOS and Sandals.

SANDALS

WHY TAKE SANDAL FOR A GALOSH OR WEAR WHITE FOR A MACINTOSH

SANDALS, the twenty sophomore girls who have demonstrated the highest qualities of leadership, scholarship, character, and service during their Freshman year, have as their motto "Service." The hard-working Sandals have lived up to their motto by assisting the Administration during Freshman Week, checking roll in assemblies, giving a "Sing" in February, and caring for the Ark, which included hostessing, redecorating, and increasing the collection of classical records to be played on the Sunday "listening in" nights, which the Sandals instituted. The Sandals gave their annual dance in the fall with BOS, in order to make money for these worthwhile projects.

Each spring the Sandals are chosen by the Student Council upon recommendations from various organizations in which the freshmen participated, from the house counsellors and house presidents, and from the freshman office. To be eligible for membership a freshman must have a C-average for her first semester.

The purpose of Sandals, which was founded in 1932 by the W.S.G.A., is to develop a feeling of responsibility for the public good and experience in social work, in addition to service to the school. Sandals' able leaders for 1947-1948 were: Liba Segall, president; Scottie Taylor, vice president; Jane Chivers, secretary; and Nancy Bracken, treasurer. The advisers were Mrs. F. Whittaker and Miss L. Heiser.

The newly decorated Sandals room in the Ark makes Sally Malkasian's job playing records for couples downstairs more enjoyable.

PHI ETA SIGMA

*ALL WE'LL HAVE TO DO IS WAIT
SOMEDAY THEY WILL BE PHI BETE*

PHI ETA SIGMA, a scholastic honorary fraternity for freshmen, was instituted by the freshman class in 1931. Nationally, Phi Eta Sigma was founded at Illinois University twenty-two years ago, and today the national enrollment includes forty-nine active chapters. Membership in this fraternity is the highest degree of scholastic accomplishment that a freshman can attain. It has honored those freshmen who have a 2.25 average for the first semester or 2.5 for the entire freshman year. It has as its goal the encouragement of incoming students to greater achievements in the scholastic field.

In carrying out this purpose, Phi Eta Sigma works with the Freshman Advisory Council in analyzing and working out the difficulties of freshmen who have trouble with their work. Members of Phi Eta Sigma help those first year men who apply for aid. They have also stimulated greater scholastic achievement by awarding a plaque to the freshman house with the highest average and a cup to the social fraternity whose pledge class excels scholastically.

The big social event for the fraternity each year is its banquet held in honor of the new members. This year an unusually large number of students were inducted into Phi Eta Sigma. The officers were P. A. Treleven, president; R. K. Best, vice president; J. M. Coffee, secretary; and T. F. Driver, treasurer.

IVY

AT DUKE THE IVY DOESN'T CRAWL ALL OUR GIRLS ARE ON THE BALL

THE freshman honorary society, Ivy, was founded by the first year women on East campus in 1937 for the purpose of promoting higher planes of scholarship and stimulating intellectual interests as well as encouraging the development of a well-rounded personality. Ivy gave their annual entertainment for all freshmen women having a "B" average at mid-semester in December and held a gathering in their honor again in the spring. The members of Ivy also marshalled at the lectures sponsored by the Student Forum, and at the Modern Dance recital this spring.

The membership requirement for Ivy is an average of 2.25 quality points for each semester hour carried or 2.5 for the whole year. Ivy taps its new members at a student government assembly in the spring and again the following fall.

Officers for the year were: Beverly Gerber, president; Margaret Bailey, vice president; Jane Walton, secretary; and Patricia Meloy, treasurer. Ivy's members were Betty Aldrich, Jane Alyea, Elizabeth Jean Brown, Nyle Brug, Mary Fae Finter, Betty Foscue, Jo Frances Fulcher, Margaret Hillsley, Elizabeth Kutz Harrison, Mary Moore Horton, Roioli Feemster, Elaine Johnson, Eunice Beulah Latty, Sally Frances Malkasian, Barbara Maynard, Celia Joan McElroy, Marilyn Myers, Alice Povesjil, Jean Saunders, Liba Segall, Golde Joan Steiner, and Nancy Vahey.

The following members of Ivy, 1946-1947, have been awarded scholarships by Duke University: Elizabeth McDonald, Lois Jean Wiloughby, and Elizabeth Vosburgh. Pauline Ligon was awarded the Alice M. Baldwin Scholarship for 1947-1948.

THETA ALPHA PHI

DUKESTERS PLAY AN ACTIVE PART IN STIMULATING DRAMATIC ART

THETA ALPHA PHI was founded at the University of Chicago in 1919, and Duke's chapter was organized six years later in 1925. Members of this fraternity can gain access to the backstage of any professional stage production. They are recognized the country over as part of a national institution which strives to increase, stimulate, and foster achievements of students in all branches of dramatic art. This close contact with practical and aesthetic elements of the theater are invaluable to Theta Alpha Phis in carrying out their program of interesting American youth in drama. Many of our present day celebrities of the stage are members of Theta Alpha Phi.

In order to qualify for this fraternity, students must undertake two major roles, or four minor roles in Duke productions. In case their learnings in the theatrical field do not include talent for taking part in performances, students may fulfill these requirements by doing an equivalent amount of work on the business staff, make-up staff, or the managing staff of dramatic organizations. These organizations are Duke Players and Hoof and Horn. They also must appear in French plays.

Since freshmen are not able to participate in Duke Players, Theta Alpha Phi sponsors one act plays in which freshmen, interested in drama, have a chance to show their talents.

Another important accomplishment of this organization was the revival, last year, of Duke's annual May Day pageant, which is now under its sponsorship.

The faculty adviser for Theta Alpha Phi this year was Mr. Reardon. Its officers were David Polinger, president; Donald Howell, vice president; Peggy Forehand, secretary; and Donald Clark, historian and treasurer.

One of the privileges given to the members of the honorary is to go backstage and take part in operations necessary before curtain-time.

CHI DELTA PHI

PEN IN HAND'S A MIGHTY THING WHEN THE LASSES GET IN SWING

CHI DELTA PHI, an organization to promote interest in literature and creative writing, was founded at the University of Tennessee in 1919. Zeta chapter was established at Duke in 1921.

Members of Chi Delta Phi must be interested in literature and must have shown an ability for creative work by writing for one of Duke's publications.

Chi Delta Phi sponsors lectures and readings for people interested in the field of letters. Its primary purpose, however, is to bring together students interested in literature and writing. Here, in a congenial group, the girls can discuss their individual problems and help each other in solving them. This friendly criticism fosters an active interest in writing and enables aspiring young authors to develop their talent.

Chi Delta Phi set a new precedent this year by sponsoring a prose-poetry contest for the students of East Campus. The members judged the works submitted themselves. Thus, they not only received practice in criticism and selection of literary works, but also encouraged student efforts in creative writing.

Such outstanding women as Dorothy Canfield Fisher, Bess Streeter Aldrich, and Edna St. Vincent Millay were members of Chi Delta Phi in their college days.

Aiding the girls in their work this year has been Mrs. Bevington. Lucile McLean served as president; Mary Jane Simpson as vice president; Marcia Norcross as secretary; and Betty Becker as treasurer.

TAU PSI OMEGA

THIS BUNCH IS QUITE A WHIZ AT SPEAKING FRENCH, THAT IS

TO PROMOTE interest in the French language and the customs of French-speaking people is the purpose for which Tau Psi Omega was founded. It was in 1938 that a group of Duke students, with Mr. and Mrs. Neal Dow of the Romance Language Department, founded this national honorary French fraternity. Mr. and Mrs. Dow are the present faculty advisers of the Duke chapter and have aided the society in living up to its purpose.

Tau Psi Omega has grown immensely since its founding date, having chapters at the Woman's College in Greensboro, the University of North Carolina, and Northwestern University.

A member of this fraternity must have had at least one year of college French, or the equivalent, with a general average of B. He must also have the ability and interest to understand and speak the language. Two initiations are held each year, and open houses, with speakers and French songs, are sponsored for those interested in membership.

Tau Psi Omega, together with the French department, sponsored a three-act French play, presented in Page Auditorium; this was a practice before the war and had been adopted again this year. Also small plays were enacted during meetings for the entertainment of the members. The society witnessed films on various French-speaking countries and one full length movie.

Duke University has had the honor not only of having the national honorary of Tau Psi Omega founded here, but also of having two of her charter members hold national offices.

The officers are: Beth Kuykendall, president; Robert Parrish, vice president; Ruth Northrop, secretary; Wendell Wong, treasurer; Sigrid Lundenberger, historian; and Connie Mackey, sergeant-at-arms.

SIGMA DELTA PI

ESPAÑOLES AT WORK AND AT PLAY SOUTH AMERICA, TAKE IT AWAY!

SIGMA DELTA PI was founded in 1919 at the University of California in Berkeley as an honorary organization for Spanish students. A chapter of this fraternity, one of the largest national honoraries, was installed at Duke University in 1919.

The purpose of Sigma Delta Pi is set forth in the national constitution in four sections. Their aims are: to cause a wider knowledge and greater interest in the contributions of Spanish culture to our own civilization; to stimulate an enthusiasm for these things in the students of the various universities and colleges where there are chapters; to foster a coöperative spirit and friendly attitude between the nations of Hispanic speech and of English speech; and to reward those who have manifested extraordinary abilities in studying the Spanish language.

To be eligible for membership, a student must have completed the third college year of Spanish with an average of two quality points per semester hour. In addition, a member of Sigma Delta Pi must have a minimum general average of 1.5 quality points per semester hour. The Alpha Theta chapter includes not only Spanish majors but a number of students who have shown a general active interest in Hispanic culture and background.

The officers for this year were: Beth Kuykendall, president; Eugene Rentz, vice president; Henri Secrest, secretary-treasurer; and Warren Blackard, social chairman.

PI TAU SIGMA

THEY'LL DESIGN MOST ANYTHING FROM BOILERS TO A PISTON RING

PI TAU SIGMA, a national honorary Mechanical Engineering fraternity, was organized at Duke University by Assistant Professor William A. Hinton on May 13, 1944. The fraternity was established during the war when the engineers were still at Southgate. The first members were navy men, and only last year did the membership return to normal. The objects of this organization are to foster the high ideals of the engineering profession, to stimulate interest in coördinate departmental activities, and to promote the mutual professional welfare of all its members. With these aims in mind, group projects are undertaken by the chapter as a whole. The most important of these projects is the election of the outstanding sophomore engineer of the current year.

The Pi Iota chapter of Pi Tau Sigma was increasingly active at Duke University in 1948. The men of the local Pi Tau Sigma chapter carried the aims of the organization forward under the able guidance of Professor R. S. Wilbur and their past president, Jack Underwood. During the year they strove to aid other school organizations in their programs and sponsored a movement to obtain separate dormitories for freshman engineers. The chapter also bought and presented copies of all the school publications to the Engineering Library in order to stimulate interest in the activities of other departments. In the spring term Pi Tau Sigma made plans to sponsor a series of "Lab Open-Houses" with the purpose in mind of stimulating interest and incentive among the freshmen and sophomore engineers. These open-houses provided an opportunity for the engineering students to observe important engineering techniques and developments and were part of the general program of the chapter.

The members of Pi Tau Sigma were chosen from the upper 17 per cent of the entire School of Engineering on the basis of scholarship, sound engineering ability, outstanding character, and personality. Prospective members for 1948 were chosen by the society and initiated at a banquet on December 17, 1947 at which Dr. Laprade of the Engineering School was the speaker. In February, 1948 the chapter elected its new officers.

WINGS AND HALOS WITHIN REACH FOR THE GENTLEMEN WHO PREACH

THE Zeta chapter of Kappa Chi originated at Duke University in 1943 when the Undergraduate Ministerial Association became chartered as a chapter of Kappa Chi National Fellowship of Christian Service. Worship and fellowship based on the high ideals of Jesus Christ are its purpose and goal throughout all its work. Any undergraduate student who plans to enter Christian service is eligible for nomination to membership in this fraternity. A two-thirds vote of active membership constitutes the election of the nominee, providing the new member has a "C" average.

Every week Kappa Chi holds a meeting in which the pre-ministerial students have a chance for worship, discussion, and a friendly get-together. Usually speakers from the Duke campus or from nearby cities are obtained to talk on subjects of current interest, and often lively debates result.

Kappa Chi conducts vesper services twice a month in the Duke Chapel. This and other functions that the fraternity performs make the group a leading influence in religious activities on both campuses.

This year Kappa Chi is extra proud of its record, for the chapter president, David Swain, is also the president of the national fellowship. That shows that the fraternity has been an active and hardworking one since its organization six years ago.

The officers for this year are David Swain, president; Henry Bizzell, vice president; Robert Regan, secretary; and Robert Byrd, treasurer.

PI MU EPSILON

A DASH OF X AND A LITTLE Y MAKE THE INGREDIENTS OF "PI"

A GOLD KEY, containing the Greek letters for Pi Mu Epsilon, distinguishes its wearer as a member of this national honorary mathematics fraternity. It is a real achievement to become a member of this society, because to qualify for membership, a student must have taken calculus, and must have acquired an average of "C" in all other courses he is taking.

North Carolina Alpha, the chapter of Pi Mu Epsilon which is at Duke University, was chartered in 1932, eighteen years after the national society was founded at Syracuse University. The roll of this chapter contains one hundred and fourteen Duke students. Constituting the largest part of this membership are science majors and engineers; however, there are a few mathematics majors in the group.

The purpose of Pi Mu Epsilon is to promote mathematical scholarship among students in academic institutions of university grade by electing members on an honorary basis, according to their proficiency in mathematics.

Since mathematics is essential in the study of physics, chemistry, and engineering, the members of this fraternity are preparing themselves to contribute to the progress of science in this modern age.

This purpose is accomplished under the supervision of Dr. W. W. Elliott of the department of mathematics and under the leadership of the society's president, Jo Ann Walker. The other officers of the club are: Nancy Bloom, vice president; Jean Bellingrath, secretary; and Wayne Bainbridge, treasurer.

At their monthly meeting, lectures, dealing with some phase of mathematics, are given by some member of the faculty in the department of mathematics. At times "round-table" discussions or open forums are presented in order to promote the mathematical and scholarly development of its members. The group also makes and executes plans for outside activities, such as the banquet, which was given this year, for the members and the new initiates.

MU SIGMA

*WATCH FOR THESE PSYCHS ON EAST AND WEST
THEY'LL BE AFTER YOU WITH THEIR TESTS*

FOUNDED in October of last year, the Psychology Society has worked to carry out the presentation and discussion of interesting and appropriate problems in psychology. The organization also activates and encourages more creative thinking in the field of psychology, providing a basis for further study in the subject. Mu Sigma members spent most of their first semester in organizing the club and in writing the constitution; the second semester saw the group begin an active program. The group invited all University students to attend its lectures and hopes to create an interest in psychology courses.

Among the various activities carried out by the Psychology Society this year were a field trip to the Dix Hill Clinic, programs featuring different speakers in the field of psychology, including psychiatrists from Duke Hospital, and round table discussions by the members upon certain phases of psychology and sociology. Members also presented interesting talks upon topics including "Psychosomatic Disorders" and "Guatemalan Witch Doctor Psychotherapy," and graduates presented their experiments.

Advised by Dr. Reichenburg-Hackett and Dr. McHugh of the psychology department, the club is also sponsored by Bill Cannon of the Graduate School. To provide a business and directing staff, the unlimited number of associates elects twenty-five students who have completed three semester hours of psychology to serve as Fellows.

Greatest honor to come to Mu Sigma this year was invitation from the Richmond Professional Institute to install a branch organization there. The group hopes to organize other chapters in nearby colleges not only to increase the interest in psychology, but to make possible the sharing of ideas.

DELTA PHI RHO ALPHA

CAMPUS COPS ARE SCARED AWAY WHEN THESE AMAZONS HOLD SWAY

DELTA PHI RHO ALPHA is an honorary athletic sorority for Duke women. Organized in 1921, it has included among its members many outstanding athletes. At the end of each year a key is awarded to the senior whose qualities of leadership, interest, sportsmanship, and athletic ability, have earned her the reputation of the outstanding athlete.

Delta Phi Rho Alpha plans many activities to promote and encourage school spirit, class sportsmanship, leadership, and interest in athletics on the campus. A cup is awarded at the end of the year to the dormitory and sorority with the largest number of points. One point is awarded for participation in a tournament, five points to the winning team, and three points to the second place team.

The new members are seen on initiation day, as the traditional "goats," wearing heavy black stockings, one white and one black shoe, a middie blouse and a short black skirt. Each girl is required to carry a rolling pin, a paddle, a bucket, and various other articles with the Greek letters of the sorority on them. A maximum of two juniors and seven sophomores are initiated each year.

Delta Phi Rho Alpha was successfully headed this year by Peggy Merrill, president; Fay Reifsnyder, secretary; and Susan Thompson, treasurer. The members are Betty Jean Culbreth, Sally Dodson, Marjorie Frey, Elizabeth Hoff, Sue Lasley, Dorothy Meredith, Marian Pecot, Jo Rae, Merewyn Stollings, Ann Templeton, Barbara Tinsley, Libby Vining, and Shirley Zittrouer.

VARSITY CLUB

DEVIL "D" MEN MAKE THEIR MARK SOME AFIELD, MOST IN THE DARK

THE Varsity "D" Club, an organization of letter winners in major and minor sports at Duke, was formed shortly after the war, combining the features of Tombs, an old athletic honorary fraternity, and the old Varsity Club. It is now a strong and influential group on the campus. The Varsity "D" Club was organized with a view to the close ties of common interest that hold together the participants in athletics at Duke University. Although primarily designed to recognize outstanding athletes, it carries on many social activities in addition.

This year the Club sponsored the annual Homecoming Dance, a big event in the fall social calendar. At Christmas a banquet was held in the club rooms in the new gym for members, the coaching staff, and guests; a dance followed.

Several members of the Varsity "D" Club constitute one of the groups of F.A.C., acting in an advisory capacity to freshmen who are at Duke on athletic scholarships, and they are generally helpful to the Athletic Department in many ways. Any time a visiting athletic team comes to Duke, the club acts as host and guides them about the campus during their stay.

At the bi-monthly meetings, the members discuss better teamwork and coöperation in athletics and often witness movies of outstanding athletic events both at Duke and in the professional world of sports.

Any winner of a letter in either a major or minor sport is eligible for membership in the Club, and he must submit a letter requesting admittance as a member. The officers for this year are Winston ("Bakie") Palmer, president; Ed Perini, vice president; Bob Maschmeier, secretary; and Casper Holroyd, treasurer.

MEN'S STUDENT GOVERNMENT

THEY'RE THE BOSSES ON WEST RUNNING THINGS FOR THE REST

THE Men's Student Government Association, strengthened this year by a new constitution, found that it accomplished more this year than ever before. Its purposes, to support and encourage all worthy student activities and to promote the best interests of the University and the student body, were carried out efficiently and energetically by an entirely different government from the one that existed the previous year. The formation of a student legislature composed of representatives from the student body is the biggest addition made by the new constitution approved last spring. The legislature discusses and makes recommendations concerning campus affairs.

The officers for 1947-48 were Gordon Smith, president; Howard Hartley, vice president; Lowell Jackson, secretary; and Winston Palmer, treasurer.

WOMEN'S STUDENT GOVERNMENT

GIRLS FROM THE PRESIDENT DOWN RULE SUPREME IN CAP AND GOWN

IN 1919 the organization was established with a serious purpose in mind. Today it strives toward its goal "to regulate all matters pertaining to the conduct of the students of the Woman's College which are not reserved to the jurisdiction of the Dean, and to promote the best interests of the individual student and the University."

The Student Government Council is one of the most efficient and hard working groups on East Campus. Some of its many activities were a Student Government week, a drive for the Alice M. Baldwin Scholarship fund, and a "Penny Day" to publicize the work the organization is doing on the new recreation hall.

Its accomplishments included the conduction of election of cheerleaders, introduction of the honor code, introduction and instruction of Parliamentary Law classes, and the revision of the Constitution.

MEN'S FRESHMAN ADVISORY COUNCIL

*TAKING THE FRESHMEN IN HAND
SO THEY KNOW WHERE THEY STAND*

FOUNDED in 1937, the Freshman Advisory Council has successfully carried out an active program this year. The organization helps Freshmen by offering scholastic and social assistance and by orienting them in the rules and traditions of the university. Each Freshman is assigned an F.A.C. adviser, chosen from outstanding Sophomores possessed of character and personality.

This year the F.A.C. instituted a new procedure, setting up two special sections, one to help town boys and the other to help the engineers. In addition to its coöperative work with Phi Eta Sigma, the F.A.C. joined with the Varsity "D" Club to promote further scholastic aid for Freshmen.

WOMEN'S FRESHMAN ADVISORY COUNCIL

*WHEN A FRESHMAN GETS IN A FIX
SHE RUNS TO HER OWN DOROTHY DIX*

KATHERINE TERRELL, President

WHEN in 1931 Mrs. Hazen W. Smith felt the need for student advisers for the incoming freshmen, she organized a group called the Freshman Advisory Council. The purpose of this group is to give individual assistance to freshman girls during orientation week and to help them make those scholastic and social adjustments during their first year which will induce a happy and profitable college career. Membership in the group consists of those girls from the junior and senior classes who are considered most qualified for freshman guidance. Originally a part of the "Y," the group is now independent.

This year the council was headed by Katherine Terrell (who automatically becomes an ex-officio member of the Student Government Association), with Dolly Brim as its secretary.

Y.M.C.A.

IN SERVICE TO THEIR FELLOW MEN THEY KNOW HOW, WHY AND WHEN

ORGANIZED with the primary goal of developing Christian service and leadership among Duke undergraduates, this year's Y.M.C.A. completed an active year of work.

Dances, including the annual Tobacco Ball, the popular retreats, open houses, forums, and vesper services were among the religious and social activities carried out by this year's "Y." "Dad's Day" weekend, suspended during the war, was successfully revived in mid-November. "Duke Doings," a new weekly activities' calendar, and the Hospital Visitation Committee, which supplied students in the hospital with candy, cigarettes and stationery were additional services included in the Y.M.C.A. program.

"Y" officers this year included: president, Ed Gatling; vice president, Roger Neighborgall; secretary, Lou Hodgkins; and treasurer, Will Jackson.

Y.W.C.A.

READING, 'RITIN', AND 'RITHMETIC NEEDS RELIGION TO DO THE TRICK

THE Young Women's Christian Association, founded at Duke in 1926, was originally established in 1873, seventy-five years ago, at Normal University, Normal, Illinois. Its purpose has been aptly stated in these words taken from the creed, "We unite in the desire to realize a full and creative life through a growing knowledge of God. We determine to have a part in making this life possible for all people."

Anyone who desires to help in realizing the purpose of the "Y" and wishes to make the Duke "Y" a true service organization is welcomed to membership.

The "Y" carries on year-round social service work in Durham, helps with Freshman Week, and has brought outstanding authorities to speak to the "Y" members on various social issues. Among the activities for Freshman Week was included a tea given by the "Y" for the new girls. They also met the trains and helped the new students as they adjusted themselves during their first week at college.

At Christmas a roster of all East Campus girls and their addresses was published and sold to students. They also purchased a victrola with attachable microphone which could be rented by any organization for a small fee.

Delegates were sent to the national conventions held on citizenship and subjects pertaining to the work of the Y.W.C.A., and the president was sent to a regional conference.

This group was the parent organization to the Student Government, the athletic program, the present Edgemont Community Center, the Duke Religious Conference, and other activities.

Officers for the year 1947-1948 were: president, K. Lee Scott; vice president, Polly Kittrell; secretary, Marilyn Eelman; treasurer, Mildred Reap; and adviser, Miss Ethelene Sampley.

FRESHMAN "Y" COUNCIL

NOVICES TO WEST CAMPUS WAYS WORKERS WHO DESERVING PRAISE

THE Freshman "Y" Council worked in conjunction with the Sophomore and Senior Cabinets in the promotion of social and religious campus activities, having the added duty of training freshmen in "Y" work.

During the past year, the Council sponsored dormitory discussion groups, faculty lectures, a Freshmen Nurses' dance, religious retreats, and discussions. Additional activities included the operation of a small food concession for students during late hours on final examination weeks, a lecture by Dr. Hornel Hart, and a chess tournament during the spring.

Officers of the Council for this year were: president, Dan Blaylock; vice president, Bob Cook; secretary-treasurer, Dave Bain.

ALWAYS DEMONSTRATING AGILITY*

THE Sophomore Council of the Duke University Y.M.C.A. was created two years ago with the primary purpose of training men for the responsibilities of a position on the Senior Cabinet of the Y.M.C.A.

The Sophomore Council this year took over the direction of a Lost and Found, a service needed by the University for some time. It sponsored several big dances, vesper services, forums, and many other activities of a religious and cultural nature.

Serving as officers for this year were Bob Stipe, president; Jacques Beaumont, vice president; and Alex McFadden, secretary-treasurer.

THESE GALS HELP EVERYWHERE*

THE Sophomore "Y" Council is a group of girls who work directly with the Y.W.C.A. Cabinet of which their president is a member. During the weekly meetings discussion groups were held, and a series of lectures on coöperative living and other pertinent subjects were given by prominent campus personalities. Among these were Miss Mary Grace Wilson and Dr. Clellan.

During its numerous activities this year the Sophomore "Y" sold food in the dormitories on East Campus.

The officers for first semester were: Mildred Frazee, president; Pat Lynch, vice president; Joan Beltz, secretary; and Elaine Johnson, treasurer. Second semester Elaine Johnson was president and Jean Saunders, treasurer.

JUNIOR "Y" COUNCIL

THE GRAND DUCHESES, IN TRUTH, HOLD A GUIDING LIGHT FOR YOUTH

THE Junior "Y" Council was founded at Duke in 1944, and has since served as a coördinating link between the controlling Y.W.C.A. cabinet and the members of the Junior class. Any Junior interested in "Y" work is eligible to become a member of the council.

The Council planned a dance in conjunction with the Sophomore "Y" group in November. They also continued the practice of previous years' work in the project of supplying the children at the Edgemont Community Center with books and magazines, and sending clothing, food, and other essentials to Great Britain for English Postwar Relief.

Officers for the year 1947-1948 were: Jane Caldwell, president; Shirley Blue, vice president; Sally Dodson, secretary; Celia Pickens, treasurer; and Miss Matthews, adviser.

P. J. WILEY, Chairman

THE Social Standards Committee was set up several years before the establishment of Duke University to meet the social needs of the women at Trinity College and in 1931 became a part of the Women's Student Government Association.

The job of the Committee is to maintain the grooming and manners of Duke women on the highest possible standard and to promote social activities on campus. Both in the fall and in the spring the members sponsored a Co-ed Ball and in December published and sold Duke calendars to the students. They also sent a Social Handbook to the Freshmen during the summer.

The officers for this past year were Margaret Wiley, chairman; D'Arlene Brink, vice chairman; Margaret Colvin, secretary; and Jo Dibble, treasurer.

IN order to promote intellectual and cultural development at Duke, the Student Forum Committee was organized in the spring of 1934 for the purpose of bringing outstanding speakers to the college campus and community.

The efforts of the Committee were received very enthusiastically this year. The five senior women are recommended by their predecessors and are appointed by the Women's Student Government Association to select the speakers. Speakers for 47-48 were: Ellis Arnall, governor of Georgia; Max Shulman, author and humorist; and James Street, prominent novelist.

This year the chairman was Jean Tommasi; secretary, Helen Guest; treasurer, Margaret Carter. Other members were Daphne Mahon and Katherine Terrell.

STUDENT COORDINATE BOARD

IF YOU'VE GOT ANY COMPLAINTS TAKE 'EM TO THESE LITTLE SAINTS

PATIENCE, diplomacy, and keen observation characterize the Student Coördinate Board, a sub-committee of the Woman's Student Government Association, which is a connecting link between the students and the administration. The thirteen members receive a minimum of publicity for their efforts in recognizing deficiencies or needed improvements and in following up suggestions. Upon noting a situation, the Board approaches the faculty or administration. Their combined energies qualify rumors, instigate reform in the curriculum and help to change unfavorable conditions existing on East Campus.

Their work for this year included reforms from the abolition of insect raids to the correction of faulty clocks. The Board scheduled both mid-semester and spring registration to eliminate the long waiting lines which previously had been the case. They also published book lists for the 1948-49 semester to enable cheaper and earlier purchase of materials and texts. By conducting house discussions, they made and submitted a plan for the selection of the CHANTICLEER Beauty Queen.

The Board consists of a chairman and three members of each class. The chairman this year was Carolyn Bunn. The group, which always welcomes student suggestion, was very proud of its past history, for many of its activities were initiated in previous years. Many of the present projects will have to be completed in later years because of the many obstacles involved in a change. Occasionally, though the Board is unable to institute a change, the students better understand the reasons for existing situations through the efforts of the members of this group. The Student Coördinate Board will continue to attempt to satisfy the students by progressive action.

PRE-MEDICAL SOCIETY

OUR FUTURE DOCTORS CONGREGATE BACKBONE OF THE NATION'S FATE

UNDER the leadership of President Donald Forbes, the Pre-Medical Society carried out an active program during the year. The organization has as its purpose the promoting of interest and knowledge among those students planning a career in the field of medicine. Another goal was that of drawing together a select group of pre-medical students in a spirit of mutual coöperation.

Since its initial year, 1937, the Pre-Medical Society has been helpful in explaining the various fields of medicine to members, aiding students in the selection of their specific branches in the profession. Through close contact with the University Medical School, members became more aware of the qualifications and duties connected with medical school and with a career in medicine, gaining a practical insight into the actual work involved.

Activities during the past year were centered about interesting, informative programs. Speakers representing each prominent branch of the medical field presented talks at the meetings, and movies were shown as supplementary material.

Officers of the Pre-Medical Society included: president, Donald B. Forbes; vice president, Carroll Weinberg; recording secretary, Ann Ransom; corresponding secretary, Jean Moser; Treasurer, Al Savitt.

MASONIC CLUB

THE CHARITY THE BOYS DISPLAY HELPS CHILDREN OUT IN EVERY WAY

FOUNDED in April of 1947, the Duke Masonic Club carried out an active program during its first year as a campus organization. The original members drew up a charter and a constitution. The Club has as its purpose the promotion of fellowship, social activities, and the furthering of Masonic principles among the group. Membership was open to all free and accepted Masons.

The Masonic Club took part in a varied round of activities and functions, including weekly luncheons, visits to Durham Masonic Lodges, and entertainment of orphans.

Officers of the organization were: president, Murrell K. Glover; vice president, John McCoy; secretary, George Eaves; treasurer, Raymond P. Carson; tyler, Clarence Dozier.

Duke Masonic Club

To all to whom these presents may come. Greetings: Whereas, it hath been duly represented that in Duke University there reside a number of brethren of the Most Ancient and Honorable Order of Free and Accepted Masons, who are desirous of being formed into a Masonic Club; therefore, know ye that the

has been organized under the authority of Duke University, with power to function as a student organization, as long as said organization conforms to, and maintains, the standards of conduct as prescribed by the proper authorities of Duke University.

Granted under the Seal of the University, this eleventh day of April Anno Lucis 5947, Anno Domini 1947.

BENCH AND BAR

THE LAWYERS WILL GAIN REWARDS IF THEY ONLY PASS THE BOARDS

THROUGH ten years of enthusiastic activity, the Bench and Bar has become the undergraduate center of legal thought. Begun in 1938 as an aid to the prospective student of law, this organization has grown rapidly in size and importance.

Bench and Bar's annual activities have met with great success and have served to keep before its members a sense of the high standards of character required by the legal profession. Throughout the year mock trials were held, which, with both panel and open discussions and a program of speakers, stimulated the thinking and interest of pre-legal undergraduates.

This year, president, Robert Parrish; vice president, Alfred Oppenheim; secretary, Sue Bohn; treasurer, Ben Christopher, and the society conducted a survey of the curricula for pre-legal students. After a thorough and painstaking canvass of the department heads of the Law School a report was presented to the Deans of Trinity College on the pre-legal curricula. As an aid to freshmen who needed guidance in their selection of pre-legal courses with an eye to their particular choice of career, an advisory council was set up by Bench and Bar during freshman week. This board was of great service in aiding many future law students to make a wise selection of courses.

CLUB PANAMERICANO

*EN ESTE GRUPO QUE TENEMOS AGUÍ
FORMAN IDEAS PARA LLEVAR ALLÍ*

THE Pan American club was founded in February, 1945, and was re-established in October, 1947.

The purpose of the club is to encourage and stimulate an interest in all things Hispanic, such as language, literature, social problems, and culture.

"El propósito del club es el de formentar y estimular interés po todo lo hispánico; lengua, literatura, problemas sociales, y cultura."

To qualify for membership in the club one must be able to speak Spanish fluently, since Spanish is the official language of the club and the only one used in its meetings and activities.

The members held social gatherings to promote a better understanding between Hispanic American and North American students here at Duke and had talks on culture, literature, arts, and social problems related to Hispanic America and films on the various countries.

The club has members from Chile, Costa Rica, Puerto Rico, Venezuela, Honduras, Guatemala, Cuba, Colombia, Argentina and Panama, as well as many American students of Spanish studying at Duke.

The officers are: James Masson, president; Pedro Prieto, vice president; Marie Smith, secretary-treasurer; William Swanson, director of activities; and Juan R. Castellano, counselling professor.

MUSIC STUDY CLUB

*"MAKE MINE MUSIC" IS THEIR CRY
AS FOR ME I'LL TAKE HAM ON RYE*

THE Music Study Club was founded in 1933 by Mrs. J. Foster Barnes and Miss Evelyn Barnes for the purpose of gathering together and uniting a group of Duke women whose abilities and interests center around the various fields of music appreciation.

The Club increases student appreciation for fine music, such as the performance of "Madame Butterfly," which is shown above.

The club follows a systematic program pattern each year which includes: the customary initiations, recitals for the club members, one recital given for the public in the Woman's Auditorium, and the Annual Christmas Party for club members and their dates. The recitals for the club members are sometimes conducted by member artists themselves and sometimes by visiting artists who offer either a short musical program or a lecture on some pertinent phase or type of music. With a yearly program of this type, the club hopes to bring the students into closer contact with music and thereby increase their knowledge of the various fields of this art.

Officers for the past year were: president, Emily Boyd; vice president, Ursula Aiken; recording secretary, Alice Patton; corresponding secretary, Betty Lou McNary; and treasurer, Joan Kansteiner.

DUKE AMBASSADORS

THE BAND WE LOVE TO DANCE TO WHENEER WE HAVE THE CHANCE TO

A TALENTED group of young men, working together as an organized unit, comprise the Duke Ambassadors led by Tommy Farr. The orchestra provides such good dance music that their success as a great college band is acclaimed throughout the state. There are at present seventeen members of whom eleven were here last year. They have played at N. C. State, Fort Bragg and Louisburg College, and they expect to go to Grand Haven, Michigan again this summer where they made a tour last summer when the band was under the direction of Sammy Fletcher.

Sally Waddell and Clarence Smith again took their places on the bandstand as featured vocalists. Other members of the band who took the spotlight were Harry Chorpenning on the trombone, Jack Fieldson at the piano and Ed Seagle, an excellent drummer, who got a great deal of his experience in a Navy service band.

The Ambassadors were organized in 1934 by Sonny Burke and in 1937 made a trip to Europe when Dutch McMillan was leader. The present theme song, "Dream Notes," was composed by Vince Courtney who began singing with the band in 1939.

Many of the former leaders of the band have made names for themselves in the music world. Ike Carpenter now has a big band on the west coast, and Sonny Burke writes music for Hollywood movies.

MADRIGAL CHORUS

SONGS OF THE ELIZABETHAN AGE HAVE BECOME THE MODERN RAGE

THE Madrigal Chorus was organized in October 1944, by Dr. Robert Hull for the purpose of presenting to the public the beautiful, romantic madrigals which are little known in our modern world of today. Qualifications for membership are on a basis of careful selection requiring vocal ability, musicianship and an ability to sight-read; this is very important since madrigal music is sung without accompaniment.

Among their activities for the past year were a Bach Christmas Cantata which was given in collaboration with the string ensemble. They also made several radio appearances, and spring concerts in Durham and neighboring communities. Also the chorus sang at the May Day festivities.

In past years the group has travelled to Raleigh, Southern Pines, and Chapel Hill to appear before audiences in those towns. A program was presented over WPTF last fall.

Under Mrs. Eugenia Saville's direction, the chorus has become more familiar with the term "madrigal" as well as with the fundamental singing itself.

Although the Madrigal Chorus has been in existence only a few years, their concerts are always greeted with enthusiasm by the students and faculty of the University, and the group has been acclaimed whenever they have made trips to other parts of the state.

The Madrigal Chorus, along with the Glee Clubs, has done a great deal in bringing the beauty of Christmas close to the students with the presentation of many lovely carols.

SINGING SAM AND HIS GUITAR COULD NEVER GO HALF AS FAR

THE Men's Glee Club has, in the past few years, become one of the outstanding organizations on the campus. The club has won State and Southern championships and has broadcast over major radio networks in past years. The Glee Club is one of the few in the nation that did not stop its work during the war years.

Each year the club takes two short trips to various cities in North Carolina and a longer trip to northern cities. The activities for the club for the year included the home concert at the University in February, trips to the eastern and western parts of the state, and a northern trip during spring vacation. While on tour the Glee Club sang in Norfolk, Washington, Harrisburg, Pittsburgh, Buffalo, and concluded their appearance with a radio broadcast from New York.

Leading the largest group in the club's history is J. Foster Barnes, who has been the director of the Glee Club for the past twenty years. Guy Spann is accompanist to the group and other officers are Jack Anderson, president; Rembrandt Rogers, vice president; Howard Searrow, secretary; and Clark Nelson, treasurer.

WOMEN'S GLEE CLUB

SINGERS IN THE BEST OF TRIM CAN MASTER BALLADS OR A HYMN

THE Women's Glee Club, founded in 1925 by Mrs. J. Foster Barnes, who still leads the group, is designed as a training ground for the Chapel Choir. During the year the members have several opportunities to sing with the choir and to sing alone in the Chapel. Besides the musical work done on campus, the Glee Club provides soloists and groups of singers for community affairs. The Triple Trio, which consists of nine girls is one of the Glee Club groups that does outstanding work in town as well as on campus in the realm of fine musical entertainment; they also sang for many service clubs. Because of the large size of the Glee Club, it is almost impossible for them to perform outside of the University; the Triple Trio represents them in their trips to other parts of the state.

Early in the fall, the Women's Glee Club, after having initiated many new singers, gave a Sing in the Women's Auditorium. It was one of the first important Sings of the year.

Annually a dance is given in collaboration with the Men's Glee Club. This year it was held on Valentine's Day, the night after the Men's Glee Club Concert.

In the spring a joint Sing was given with the Men's Glee Club. This is the only opportunity afforded in which the glee clubs, as a whole, sing secular music.

The Glee Club provides excellent training for girls interested in either group or solo singing. Often during the weekly meetings, soloists within the group entertain the members.

Margaret Carter served as the Club's president this year with Nancy Slaven assisting her as vice president. Bobby Wurmstich was the secretary and Helen Pereilla the treasurer.

SYMPHONY AND CHAMBER ORCHESTRA

FROM RONDEAU TO FUNERAL PROCESSION THEY PLAY ALL IN QUICK SUCCESSION

THE Duke Symphony Orchestra, organized by Mr. Robert Hull, has performed two concerts this year. Among the works performed at these concerts were: Prelude in E Minor, Bach; Symphony No. 8 (Unfinished), Schubert; English Folk Songs Suite, Vaughan Williams; Madrigal: Dulcissima Mia Vita, Gesualdo-Serly; Concerto in B Minor for Viola, Julia Mueller, soloist; Handel-Casadesus; Newsreel in Five Shots, William Schuman. Andante & Allegro from "La Sultane," Couperin Milhaud; Second Piano Concerto, Rachmaninoff; Suite Provençal, Milhaud.

The Chamber Orchestra, consisting of twenty-five players, also presented several concerts, in which were played: Concerto Grosso, Op. 6, No. 10, Handel; Concerto Grosso, Op. 6, No. 8, Corelli; The Christmas Oratorio—Part II, Bach; Concerto Grosso, Op. 3, No. 8, Vivaldi; Concerto Grosso, J. S. Bach, Mildred Hendrix, soloist; Four Sonatas for Organ and Strings, Kochel Nos. 245, 328, 244, 144, Mozart; and Concerto No. 10 in D Minor Op. 7, No. 4, Handel.

CONCERT BAND

LISTEN TO THAT SOLID SWING BONE'S BAND HAS EVERYTHING

THE Concert Band, a relatively new musical organization on the campus, is in its fourth year under the baton of Allan Hadley Bone.

On-campus appearances included an informal pre-Christmas Concert in Page Auditorium; a formal Spring Concert; a series of four lawn Concerts; and Commencement weekend Concerts and Graduation. Off-campus activities included several radio broadcasts.

Major works performed in 1947-48 were: the Royal Fireworks Music, Handel; Egmont Overture, Beethoven; Phedre Overture, Massenet; Finale, Symphony No. 5, Shostakovich; Legend, Paul Creston; and Cowboy Rhapsody, Morton Gould.

The prime objective of the Concert Band is to present the best original works for band as well as the numerous symphonic transcriptions which make up the literature of the modern Concert Band.

The Marching Band, numbering seventy-five men, had an unusually successful season this year. Presenting smart half-time maneuvers at all five home football games and making the special trip of the year to the Navy game at Baltimore, besides appearing at the Wake Forest tilt, the Marching Band can well be proud of its performance this year. They were host to over 800 high school bandsmen from ten high schools within the eastern section of the state who joined together as a massed band to present a colorful half time display at the N. C. State Game.

HOOF AND HORN

THEIR HOOFS AIN'T AS BIG AS ONE THINKS SOME PEOPLE SAY THEIR SHOW—IS SWELL

THE year 1947-48 was an active one for the Hoof and Horn Club at Duke. The club, founded in 1936, on the order of Harvard's Hasty Pudding Club and Princeton's Triangle Club, was formed to produce original musical comedies for the student body. Its plan was to give campus talent a chance to show what it could do and also an opportunity to develop and learn the ways of the stage. Although the organization experienced a period of dormancy during the first years of the war because of lack of resources upon which to draw, in 1942 it was revived, in spite of the innumerable difficulties brought on by the Navy Program at Duke. Immediately after the war, Hoof and Horn really came into its own, giving Duke Campus many fine shows filled with the student musical and dramatic talent. Besides distinguishing itself as the first organization of its kind in the South, the Hoof and Horn has easily become one of the foremost in the country.

The production of the year was entirely written, acted, and produced by the student members of the club. The members also took over the mammoth job the work of production entailed. Recent successful musicals were "Calcutta" and "Idol Chatter." Also in recent years, Hoof and Horn sponsored the bi-weekly radio program, "Campus Time," a half-hour broadcast given over WDNC. taking enabled the participants to gain valuable experience in radio work.

All students at Duke who are interested in helping to produce a successful musical comedy may belong to the club and help in the production of the plays. Not only are those people talented in music, dramatics, and dancing encouraged to join, but also others interested in work on the business staff and in the stage management of the performances.

"Nuthin' Like It," this year's musical production was held on April 22. Written by Art Steuer, the show provided an opportunity for a great deal of campus talent. Alan Sugarman held the leading comedy role, and light operatic songs featured Rosalie Prince and Tony Reed. Cherry Phillips, Sally Prosser, Peggy Forehand, Bill Whalen, Jack Monts and Betty Mouat were featured in tap and specialty dances.

Jack Fieldson led the club this year as president, and the job of business manager was taken over by Dick Landis. Jane Philbrick filled the post of corresponding secretary and Bobbie Morgan that of recording secretary. Scores of others, both before the footlights and behind the scenes, gave their best toward the successful production which was staged. Bill Whalen capably handled the immense job of directing the production and Claire Flowers was the assistant director of the club.

Outstanding past leaders of the Hoof and Horn, who will be remembered by all Duke students for their enthusiasm and for the hard work that they put into the productions in which they participated, are Sue Bowmall and Judd Mathison. Sue and Judd collaborated in writing last year's show, "Calcutta."

The productions of Hoof and Horn are always anticipated by the students of the University.

This year, as before, they presented an excellent performance.

DUKE PLAYERS

LANA'S NAME WASN'T ALWAYS IN LIGHTS AND GRABLE DIDN'T ALWAYS WEAR TIGHTS

DUKE PLAYERS is an organization created to help satisfy an outlet for those students on the campus interested in dramatics, and to provide a new kind of entertainment for the Duke campus. It was organized sixteen years ago by Professor A. T. West who had become, in his years of service to Duke and sincere interest in the students of the drama, a great favorite on campus. Last summer "Pop" West died, and his loss was keenly felt by the students with whom he had worked. His position was filled this year by Kenneth Reardin, head of the dramatics department, and he was assisted by Bill Hardy.

Duke Players offers unlimited opportunities to students interested in the theatre; not only in actual performances but in the work which goes on "behind the scenes." Committees in the organization consist of props, costumes, stage crew, lighting, and the business staff. Such work as this affords excellent experience to anyone wishing to continue in a career centered around the stage.

During the meetings one-act plays are performed by the members, and speakers address the club on subjects pertaining to dramatic art.

Duke Player's productions always arouse a great deal of enthusiasm from the student body who turn out "en masse" to witness the many fine plays produced.

The first play of the year was "The Male Animal" by Thurber and Nugent. This comedy, which had previously been presented on Broadway, dealt with the complications in the romantic life of a professor in a large university. During a big football week-end a former football hero who had once been in love with the professor's wife returned to complicate the situation and arouse the interest of the wife. But in the end true love conquers, and the professor and his wife are happily reunited in the last scene. Leads in the play were taken by Avie Sanner, E. M. Hanbury, Jr., and George Matthews. For the first time a matinee was presented on Thanksgiving Day, and after the performance here, the play was presented at Fort Bragg.

The second play, presented in March, was "Angel Street," a Broadway hit, which had also been made into a movie, entitled "Gaslight." Leads in this play were taken by Tom Driver and Enta Cove.

The last play of the season was "The Late George Apley," also a Broadway and screen success.

The sets for the various plays were designed, constructed, and decorated by Duke students.

Officers for the year were: Roger Burson, president, first semester; Fred Wagner, president, second semester; Tom Driver, vice president; Alda Heykoop, secretary; Henry McLeod, business manager; B. J. Hathaway, co-ed business manager; stage manager, Sonny Hunt. Ed Berne was editor of the Playbill.

Dick Van Fossen, Stage Manager, surveys a massive set change as executed by Fred Wagner, Pat Wimberly, and Carl Grover.

The club is financially supported entirely by the students and by townspeople who attend the performances. Also, each girl on East Campus is required to buy a season book in the fall.

various intervals during the year to stimulate scholastic interest and to keep the engineers informed of recent developments of interest. The social calendar included the two annual Engineers' Dances, which sponsored campus bands this year. These dances were the bright spots in the engineers' social season.

Every engineering student is eligible for membership in the Engineers' Club which was headed during the past year by Frances Martin, president; Hal Carter, vice president; Bill Spilman, secretary; and Harold Jackson, treasurer. All members looked eagerly forward to the opening of the new Engineering Building on West campus which provides office and clubroom space for organizations and societies in addition to much-needed facilities for classes.

During the war years the practice among engineering students of attending football games and other gatherings in a body as a cheering section was discontinued. The Engineers' Club is backing a movement to restore this practice.

ENGINEERS' CLUB

DILIGENTLY SURVEYING EAST—GOING THRU THE ACT, AT LEAST

THE School of Engineering has greatly increased its enrollment, and the Engineers' Club has led the students of the college in furthering fellowship and scholastic achievement.

The Engineers' Club was formed in March, 1945, with two specific objectives: to promote fellowship among the students of the School of Engineering of Duke University and to further the scholastic and social advancement of all engineering students. In keeping with these purposes, the club serves as a common meeting-ground between the various student engineering societies, A.I.E.E., A.S.C.E., and A.S.M.E. Through this Club, arrangements for engineers to attend mass meetings which feature lectures, movies and demonstrations are made.

The Duke Engineer, the engineers' own magazine, was published by the Engineers' Club at

A.S.M.E.

*FOR THE MECHANICS OF THE AGE
YOU HAVE HIT THE RIGHT PAGE*

THE Duke Student Branch of the American Society of Mechanical Engineers resumed normal peacetime operation in 1948 on a reduced scale, and throughout the past year the officers and members of A.S.M.E. have worked enthusiastically and have regained for their organization a prominent place among the engineering clubs on Duke campus.

President, Joel Martin; vice president, Jim Reynolds; secretary, Bill Roxlo; and treasurer, Murray Huntoon have led A.S.M.E. in a program which accomplished the purposes of the Duke Student Branch.

A.S.M.E. collaborates with the Engineers'

Club each year in presenting the Engineers' Ball which has become a traditional high spot of the social season. Other social activities included an annual "Prof Roast" given for the faculty of the School of Engineering by the society to provide closer contact between faculty and students.

Activities featuring the practical aspects of Mechanical Engineering were sponsored by the society. At the bi-monthly meetings speakers were provided on appropriate subjects. Movies were shown at these meetings which kept the members well informed on current topics.

A.I.E.E.

INTO DYNAMO AND TURBINE WADE CHARGES OF THE LIGHT BRIGADE

THE Duke Student Branch of the American Institute of Electrical Engineers is organized to afford opportunities for activities similar to those experienced by members of the national organization in the conducting of meetings and the presentation of technical and non-technical papers. The A.I.E.E. was originally established locally in March, 1927, by Professor W. J. Seeley of the School of Engineering. The organization, under his direction and that of Professor Otto Meier, has steadily grown in membership and scope of activities.

During its first postwar year of operation A.I.E.E. has afforded its students many opportunities to develop their hidden talents in the field of electrical engineering. Their meetings have featured discussions, lectures by noted experts, and inspection trips to mills and factories in nearby North Carolina towns. A feeling of friendship is created among the students and practicing engineers by having guest speakers for the Student Branch from professional circles and also by the students' attending some of the meetings of the North Carolina Section of the A.I.E.E. Also in the spring a local delegation attended the annual Southern District Conference of Student Branches.

The A.I.E.E. was headed in 1947 by chairman W. C. Bennett; vice-chairman, W. B. Olive; secretary, C. B. Corley; treasurer, P. W. Woolley; and the counselor of the branch, Professor Meier.

HE BUILDS THE MODERN HIGHWAYS BUT WE SEE HIM ON THE BYWAYS

WITH a substantial increase in membership over past years, the Duke University Chapter of the American Society of Civil Engineers looked forward in the fall of 1947 to a very successful year.

The activities of A.S.C.E. for 1948 included presentation of several motion pictures on topics related to Civil Engineering and discussions led by the speakers who are authorities in various fields of engineering. The bi-monthly meetings which featured speakers and open discussions were high points of a year of active and enthusiastic operation. Having won commendation in recent years, A.S.C.E. continued to sponsor the scholastic achievement of its members. By careful planning, a clear prospective view of the requirements of Civil Engineering work was presented.

Great interest was aroused among engineering students during the annual contest for prizes awarded by the Student Chapter. These prizes were presented to the members of the society who submitted the best written essays on subjects of interest to students of the School of Engineering.

Professor Aubrey E. Palmer and Mr. H. W. Kueffner were faculty adviser and "contact member," respectively, of the organization which was directed this year by Joseph A. Sousa, chairman; Thomas W. Spillman, vice chairman; and Torger E. Torgerson, secretary-treasurer.

RUNNING SPORTS THAT WE PLAY THESE GALS HAVE A FIELD DAY

THE Woman's Athletic Association Board was established by the Physical Education Department to bring the student body into closer contact with a well rounded sports program. The Board plans the sports program consisting of tournaments, play days and practices for all sports.

The W.A.A. Board is composed of a Student Government Association representative, a publicity chairman, a chairman of the Point System, and heads of the various clubs which include minor sports, hockey, basketball, bowling, softball, fencing, tennis, golf, the Speed Club, Nereidian, Modern Dance Club, Pegasus, and a faculty adviser.

GIRLS ADEPT AT RIDING HORSES FIND THIS EASIER THAN COURSES

HIGH boots, studded belts, and sock tails marked the Pegasus initiates at the first appearance of the riding club in the fall. Another part of the initiation ceremony was a foot race around the circle on East Campus. The sixteen new members, having been tested on their horsemanship, joined the Wednesday afternoon club rides from Hillandale Stables through Duke Forest. Also at various times during the year the club held supper rides.

At their annual horse show in April members exhibited their control of horses and mounted appearance in a skillfully executed military drill and square dance. This drill required a great deal of practice on the part of the members. Entertaining photographers, local horsemen, interested families and students, Pegasus sponsored the show, which was open to contestants from East Campus, with intermediate, advanced and jumping contests.

Cups, given by Durham merchants and other interested horsemen, were awarded for first prize and ribbons for second, third and fourth. Each of these carry a certain number of points. The champion of the show, that is, the person who has accumulated the greatest number of points, wins a large cup. This cup, if won for three successive years, may be kept by the winner.

Barbara Tinsley was head of Pegasus this year, and Miss Webster of the Athletic Department was the adviser.

MODERN DANCE CLUB

I'M THE SPIRIT OF MODERN DANCE HAVE THE AUDIENCE IN A TRANCE

IN 1936 Miss Modena Lewis organized the Modern Dance Club at Duke University. This club has as its objective the promotion of interest in dance as an art, thereby stimulating creativeness on the part of each student and offering an opportunity for expression in dance movement.

Admission into the club is gained through semi-annual tryouts where fundamental steps are used to determine the ability of each student seeking membership. Several classes are given before the tryouts to acquaint the applicants with the basic steps.

In November the group began work on the annual spring recital. This recital is an original creation by the members, presented with the coöperation of the music department, the speech department, and the art department. Costumes are designed entirely by the art students, and made by each girl wearing them.

The officers for the year were: Jenifer Harrison, president; Marjorie Coldwell, vice president; Jo Reynolds, secretary; Betty Mouat treasurer; Mary Brinkman is in charge of publicity; Jane Caldwell is in charge of costumes. Other members of the club included: Carolyn Callihan, Jo Hendricks, Cherry Phillips, Mary Jane Smith, Eugenie Eichman, Barbara Kerr, Eleanor Allen, Peggy Merrill, Sue Geitner, Nancy Rousseau, Jocelyn Bird, Edith Tynes, Jo Rac, Thelma Klussman, and Sally Wilhoit. Modena Lewis served as adviser to the club.

AN EPIGRAPH FOR MERMAIDS GONE— THEY DIED WITH THEIR CATALINAS ON

FOUNDED in 1938 by a group of students and a faculty adviser, the Nereidian Club has become an active organization on campus. The purpose of the club is to promote interest in aquatic sports and to provide an opportunity for those interested in swimming and diving to display their skills.

Membership in Nereidian is attained through tryouts. Held each year in the fall and spring, these tryouts include tests on strokes, diving, and underwater swimming. The girls who try out must have completed their Senior Life Saving course. They are judged on their proficiency by a point system.

In the spring a large water pageant is presented. This year the pageant was given for three days to the students, faculty and townspeople. The club sponsored the annual intramural swimming meet. Southgate triumphed and won the much coveted plaque, while Pegram placed second. Nereidian also sponsors the Speed Club, which participates in the National Telegraphic Swimming Meet.

This year Nereidian had as adviser Miss Holton. The officers for the year were: Leni Lester, president; D'Arlene Brink, vice president; Dayne McGiehan, secretary; and June Glenn, treasurer.

PUBLICATIONS

ACADEMIC freedom in the various publications of the University has become a tradition on the Duke campus. Censorship has given way to voluntary restraint and good judgment upon the part of the various staffs, a system reflecting the democratic outlook presented to the student body by the printed word.

The publications include the Chronicle, the weekly newspaper; the Archive, the literary magazine; the CHANCELLER, the yearbook; the Duke 'n' Duchess, the humor magazine; the Duke Engineer, the engineering magazine; and Special Chart, the nurses' newspaper. Supervision of the Duke publications is carried out by the members of the Publications Board, chosen at a general yearly campus election. Together, these publications present an inclusive coverage of the many activities and facets of college life.

Pub Row, the well-known habitat of these literati, is always a busy place; deadlines to meet, typewriters to borrow and pictures to develop. Miraculously, through all the hubbub and noise, the publications always come out on time to the satisfaction of the student body.

PUBLICATIONS BOARD

THEY CHECK THE PUBLICATIONS CEMENTING PUB-ROW'S RELATIONS

THE Publications Board, established in 1924 and reorganized in 1935 by the Executive Committee, controls all student publications on the campus; it discusses and decides on the various problems that arise concerning the policies of these publications. Perhaps the principal job of the Publications Board is that of electing officers for all publications. The Board also arranges for the division of profits among the editors, business managers, and assistant editors of the various publications.

The Publications Board consists of the following members: six men from the Junior and Senior classes elected by Trinity College; four women from the Junior and Senior classes elected by the Women's College; three faculty members appointed by President Flowers; and three editors and three business managers of the publications who are ex-officio members with no voting power.

Those people wishing to run for a major office in publications must be in the Senior Class unless the faculty members decide, under unusual circumstances, to consider a member of the Junior Class. The candidate must file a petition in Dean Herring's office. No student may be editor or business manager for more than one year.

Dean Herring was reelected to the office of chairman of the Board, and Pat Way served as the secretary.

CHANTICLEER EDITORIAL STAFF

*FOR THE BEST HOUSE OF THE YEAR
WE SUGGEST THE WALL PAPER HERE*

IN addition to the fun and friendship associated with Pub Row, the printer's ink also involves many hours of hard work. What goes on behind the scenes to create the CHANTICLEER is seldom fully realized by the student body. The job begins in the summer, when the editor starts working on the dummy copy, and continues in the fall and throughout the winter until the editorial staff succeeds in presenting the annual to the students in the spring. The completed book is a volume containing every phase of student life, both serious and whimsical, organized in such a manner that one may relive the incidents of the college year through the pictures and articles he finds within.

During the war years the CHANTICLEER editorial jobs were manned by the women. This precedent is fast becoming established. This year's editor-in-chief was Pat Way; Associate Editor, Joan Richards; Co-ed Editor, Nora Cleaver; Copy Editor, Mary Hendricks; Photography Editor, Fay Finley; Typing Editor, Jean Hull; Caption Editor, Bob Mitchell, assisted by Martha Beck; Sub Heads, Diane Forrest, Jean and Joan Fontaine. The sports section was handled by Jim Hopkins; Student Life by Kay Van Nortwick and Beth Kuykendall; Fraternities and Sororities by Bob Mitchell and Martha Beck. Filing was under the direction of Jo Fulcher.

CHANTICLEER BUSINESS STAFF

WE "GIVE 'EM THE BUSINESS"
AND THEN THEY GO TO PRESS

THE man who handles the business end of the CHANTICLEER deserves a great part of the credit for the successful production of the yearbook which is presented in the spring, since he is responsible for the financial status of the annual. His job begins early in the fall when he and his staff direct the business concerned with taking the class pictures, one of their largest undertakings.

The great size of the CHANTICLEER's advertising section necessitates much correspondence, banking, accounting, and "heeling" on the part of the whole staff. No sooner have the class pictures been finished than the business of getting ads must be started. This project continues throughout the year. Not even when the staff distributes the book to the students in the spring can it rest, for then the billing must be completed, letters must be written and all the last-minute details connected with rounding up the job must be taken care of.

CHRONICLE EDITORIAL STAFF

THE CHRONICLE EDITS THE NEWS
THEY SING THOSE DUKE BLUES

THIS year's Chronicle Editorial Staff, under the direction of Editor Johnny Baldwin, attempted to give more inclusive news coverage to all important university activities and events, working with the spirit of independence, impartiality, and decency.

Although a two-issue-a-week Chronicle was planned, shortages of skilled printers and printing equipment forced the editors to continue the newspaper on the weekly basis followed since 1943. Editorial policy was directed along forthright and courageous lines; due praise was given to campus organizations and university policies, and merited criticism was made where the staff felt necessary. The "Letters to the Editor" column was expanded to make the Chronicle a more representative voice for the students.

Under Johnny Baldwin, the editorial board included Clay Felker, the Associate Editor, who assumed a large part of the responsibility for technical work, copy editing, layouts, and editorials. Charles Sydnor, the Assistant Editor, served as a liaison between the Chronicle staff and university officials. Managing Editor Art Polier supervised the large staff of reporters, also carrying out important story assignments. Co-ed Editor Bunny Mall directed the largest co-ed staff in the paper's forty-three year history, assisted by Gene Richardson, Mary Ingwerson, Marcia Norcross, Mary Robinson, Polly Povejsil and an active staff of upperclass and freshmen reporters.

Sports Editor Jack Foster, assisted by Al Bitker, Jim Hopkins, Pete Moriarty and a large staff, including cartoonist Bob Gibson and Art Editor Bill Stars, kept students informed of the active athletic year. Photography Editor Charlie Carver and columnists Yandell Smith, Al Tallman, and Carl Burgert contributed to the versatile publication. Other top West Campus staff members included Music Editor Joe Wells, Lewis Hodgkins, Tom Langford, and Al Highsmith.

CHRONICLE BUSINESS STAFF

MONEY MATTERS TAKE THEIR TIME BROTHER, CAN YOU SPARE A DIME?

UNDER the direction of Business Manager Jack Quaritius and his assistant Bill Houck, this year's Chronicle Business Staff made possible the publication of a better newspaper. By providing effective service for advertisers, the group met all expenses and produced a consistently superior publication for the entire campus. The staff, which included many of last year's members, efficiently managed all matters connected with the financial end of the organization, from the soliciting of advertisements to the circulation of 4,100 Chronicles printed each week.

Advertising Managers Logan Bruce and Julius Gwyn directed the active downtown advertising staff and prepared the copy for publication. Circulation was under the management of Phil Neal, who was responsible for the complete distribution of the paper. Paul Marx handled the mailing of the many out-of-town papers. Charlie Dayton was in charge of campus circulation, assisted by an unusually large group of Freshmen workers who carried the Chronicle to the various campus houses and dormitories each Friday evening. The circulation on East Campus was handled separately from that of West Campus. Mary Jeanne Bradley, assisted by her staff of freshmen girls, was in charge of the circulation on the East Campus. Also for the first time the Nurses Home was included in the weekly distribution of papers.

Staff members were promoted according to their ability and interest by the Business Manager and the Co-ed Business Manager, Margaret Carter. Jack was elected prior to the beginning of the year by the Publications Board and Maggie filled the vacancy left by Nancy Moesta.

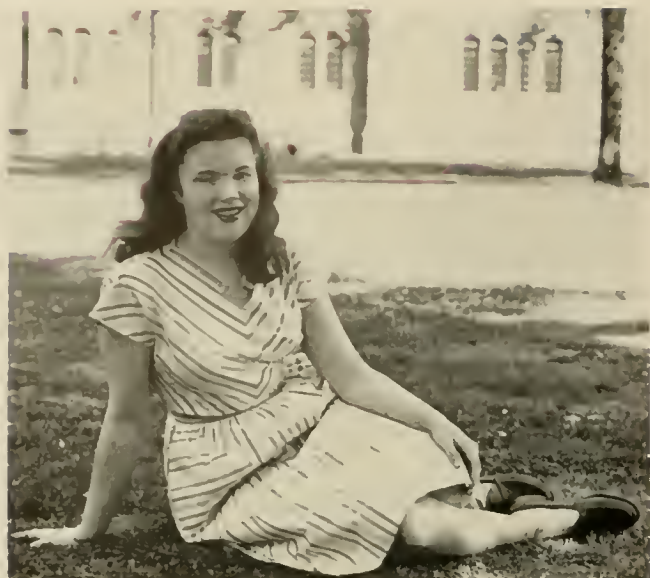

Increased and more effectively written advertising, an efficient campus circulation system, and a larger out-of-town circulation were the factors which combined to purchase necessary office equipment, to meet all expenses, and to produce a Chronicle which was financially in the black.

The Business Staff combined with an efficient Editorial Staff has again published the type of college newspaper that the students want.

THE ARCHIVE

JOAN ANGEVINE, Editor

THROW IT OUT WITHOUT REMORSE YOU NEEDN'T PASS THIS COURSE

THE Archive, Duke's literary magazine, was founded November 1887 to serve the contributors by supplying an outlet for Duke's creative ability and to serve the readers by printing the best of Duke's output. This year, under the editorship of Joan Angevine, the Archive strived to carry out this purpose. The editor's staff included: R. D. Loomis, Associate Editor; Art Polier and David W. Fick, Assistant Editors; Frank Trechsel, Art Editor; Betsy John Hurley, Exchange Editor; William Jennings Bryan, Business Manager; Marg Colvin, Co-ed Business Manager; Dean Rhodes, Circulation Manager; Bill Dillard and Darryl Jones, Assistant Business Managers; and Walt Bishopric, Advertising Manager.

The Archive celebrated its 60th anniversary in November of last year. Included in the anniversary issue were contributions of several of the Archive's most prominent past editors. Poems by George Zabriskie, R. P. Harriss, Ed Post and Kiffin Hayes were featured, while Richard Austin Smith donated a short story. Also included in this issue was an article on the development of the Archive from its beginning to the present time by Ted Furber, a present member of the staff, and a drawing depicting famous writers by Clarence Brown of the art staff.

Features in the magazine included "Scraps for the Literati," a monthly article by R. D. Loomis on the goings-on in the literary world, both in and out of Duke, a musical column, "Jazz Notes" by Norm Schnell, and a book review. Another new feature was a prose sketch in each issue on outstanding professors, written by Marcia Norcross. The Archive planned to use articles of campus interest throughout the year, such as "Football and the Team" by Harry E. Beaudouin, which appeared in the September issue. An innovation in this year's magazine was a reduction in the size from 9 by 12 to 8½ by 11½.

Prominent among the main contributors was Guy Davenport who had both stories and art work appearing in the magazine. The North Carolina Collegiate Press Association chose his story, "Lucullus Has Accomplished Much" as the Best Short Story of the year. Members of the art staff were Clarence Brown, Pat Wimberly, George Perkinson and Margaret Meeker.

The Archive offers excellent experience for those planning to continue in this line of work after college.

DUKE 'N' DUCHESS

ONE BIG "YAK" AFTER ANOTHER—
ONLY DON'T SEND IT TO MOTHER

DUKE'S "All American" humor magazine, the Duke 'n' Duchess, edited by Pete Maas, which received prominent mention in such national publications as Look magazine, the New York Times, Cosmopolitan, and King Features Syndicate, has completed its second successful postwar year. Though the D 'n' D is in its infancy when compared to the other university publications, it has aroused great interest and acclaim on both campuses. Scoffing at national and campus institutions, and satirizing college affairs, the Duke 'n' Duchess continued to give its readers top notch humor and laughing material. Widely discussed articles like "Illegal Cabin Party," "Hold It Mabel," and the "Duke-Carolina Bug Race" gave the magazine its punch. Pete and his undaunted staff didn't stop short of interviewing Burlesque queens, poking fun at the Chronicle, or sending a staff member on a pseudo around-the-world trip.

Perhaps the outstanding originality in the

Pounding typewriters to make the deadline, Maas' staff included Assistant Editors Robert L. Wilson IV and Clay Felker, and feature writers Polly Povejsil, Carlton Fleming, Art Steuer, Marcia Norcross, and Libby Akers. With the pen and ink were Co-ed Editor Lucile McLean, Art Editor Clarence Brown, Bill Bradbury, Guy Davenport, and Tom Love. Aptly handling the flash-and-shutter work, Photography Editor Walt Wadlington supplied the camera angles. Sue Bohn managed the office. On the money-and-worry end of the publication, Business Manager Walt Parker capably steered the Duke 'n' Duchess financially through six issues, aided by Advertising Manager George Orr, Co-ed Business Manager Dot Harriss, Circulation Managers John Blissell and Jack Bergstrum, and Exchange Editor Mary Lou Kern.

DUKENGINEER

TECHNICAL JARGON THRU 'N' THRU
ALL OF THIS AND "LUB" TOO!

THE DukEngineer is the engineering students' magazine, written by them and for them and published quarterly. It prints articles of a technical and semi-technical nature on civil, mechanical, and electrical engineering subjects, the great majority of which are written by the students themselves. In this year's magazine, an attempt was made to lighten its contents by running more articles of a semi-technical rather than purely technical nature. In this way the magazine was made to appeal to freshmen and sophomores and not just to the more advanced engineering students.

The DukEngineer does much toward coordinating the various clubs and fraternities connected with the Engineering School in that it reports on the activities of each of these organizations. These organizations include the A.S.C.E., A.S.M.E., and A.I.E.E. In addition it has an alumni feature which keeps the students up to date on what graduates of the school are doing, and maintains a medium for tying the alumni together and maintaining contacts between the alumni and the college. An interesting feature of the DukEngineer this year was the News Hi-Lights section in which appeared a pictorial spread showing recent technical advances in many fields of engineering. It also publishes articles concerning the many opportunities open to engineers in the postwar world. Another page to which all engineer readers turn is the last page which contains "Lub," the humor page of the magazine. In "Lub" appears humorous anecdotes of the life and trials of a Duke engineer.

The DukEngineer is supported by advertising and income from subscriptions. The men who serve on the staff receive nothing for their work, but do the job for the good of the College of Engineering. This year the DukEngineer was headed by Bill Gautier, Editor-in-Chief; Bill Olive, Managing Editor; Len Thompson, Business Manager; Bob Hazel, Advertising Manager; Roger Cook, Circulation Manager; and Bill Jahnke, Art Editor. The faculty adviser was Professor C. R. Vail.

Up until this year, the DukEngineer has had its offices on Pub Row along with the other Duke publications, but with the completion of the new Engineering Building, it has moved completely to the new building. Because of the better facilities in the new office, future issues of the magazine should prove to be of a higher quality.

NURSES TELL US IN THE CHART ALL ABOUT THE HEAD AND HEART

THE Special Chart publication was established in 1942 to inform the student body of current events in the School of Nursing and to bring the students closer together by printing articles of interest in both school and social life.

The staff is chosen each year by the retiring staff, though the paper is willing to accept at Manager; Sally Prevott, Book Reviewer; and Miss Ruth Hunter, Faculty Adviser.

As a publication devoted exclusively to topics related to the School of Nursing this paper is sure to have lasting success in its field. The paper is entirely controlled by the nurses themselves, one method of guaranteeing certain success. It permits nurses who are interested in journalism to pursue these interests during their three-year training period. Besides this the Special Chart records events in the student life of the nurse, both in the hospital, extra-curricular activities and social life. Although one of Duke's newest publications, it has had a successful development and provides a source of amusement and enjoyment to the nurses.

The Special Chart has no Publications Board governing it; it is entirely on its own, and is aided only by Miss Hunter, the faculty adviser. Since the nurses have so very few hours of spare time to themselves, it is even more remarkable that they should devote as much of that time to editing a magazine as they do.

Novita Burroughs was elected the editor for the coming year.

any time the articles of those people not directly connected with its publication.

The Special Chart is published bi-monthly in mimeographed form. It includes comments on national affairs, alumnae notes, student activities, and editorials on any new advances in the School of Nursing. Students welcome this opportunity to express their opinions on present-day developments.

This is the fifth year in the history of this publication, and a great part of its success is due to the untiring efforts of B. J. Duncan, Editor; Mary Lee Hodges, Business Manager, and their staffs: Joy Pratt, Art Editor; Carol Kerr, Social Editor; Pat Van Cleve, Circulation

NAVAL R.O.T.C.

*BLUE AND GOLD—THEIR PROUD NAME
NAVY BOYS EVER STAND IN FAME*

GOING into its second year of peacetime training operations, the Naval R.O.T.C. was augmented by the addition of seventy-six freshmen. The upperclassmen, chiefly sophomores and seniors, had much to tell about their summer training cruise aboard the heavy cruisers U.S.S. Oregon City, the U.S.S. Albany, and the carrier U.S.S. Leyte accompanied by several destroyers. Tex Burson, Senior, visited Princess Elizabeth and Philip Mountbatten at the Royal reception following the announcement of their engagement. He was with some of the midshipmen from Annapolis who went to Northern Europe. The students from Duke who went on the summer cruise aboard the various ships sailed to Trinidad, Guantanamo, San Juan, Bermuda, New York, Argentina, and Newfoundland. Everyone seemed to have had a good time including Dean Manchester who went with the eleven sophomores aboard the U.S.S. Oregon City which toured the Caribbean.

With the members of the unit refreshed, sunburned, and "salted" by their cruise, and with the freshmen all eager to start the long journey toward becoming Naval officers, fall studies got into full swing. Classes were taught in seamanship, communications, gunnery, and engineering. The students practiced the theory discussed in class in these courses by working on the equipment kept in the Naval Armory which is located in the Indoor Stadium. Battle conditions are simulated as much as possible in order to give the student the "feel" of combat operations with this equipment. Military drill is taught during two drill periods a week when the students march in uniform. During the winter period of inclement weather, the drill periods are converted into additional laboratory periods. It is at this time that much of the practice on the equipment is done.

The Navy, responding to the social traditions of the Fleet as well as that at Duke, sponsored a formal Ball. The Navy Ball, held this year on Saturday, January 10, was one of the social highlights of the year. The students in the unit selected a queen by popular vote. The queen, Miss Jana Hanser, was crowned by the Professor of Naval Science, Captain A. M. Kowalzyk, Jr., the night of the Ball. The Commodores Club, the student's social organization, handled the arrangements for the Ball.

The R.O.T.C. unit is not lacking when it comes to intramural sports and extracurricular activities. They sponsored teams in all the major sports covered in the intramural program, and they entered teams in the national rifle and pistol matches held by the Navy between the fifty-two colleges and universities which main-

At left, the Chief Gunners Mate of the Duke R.O.T.C. explains the intricacies of a modern torpedo in the Naval Armory as part of the gunnery instruction given to the students. At right in their orientation class these students are shown being taught how to tie knots by the "Boats."

Aboard cruise ships members of the N.R.O.T.C. practice gunnery and fire control methods. Above the students are operating the training and pointing devices on three-inch and five-inch guns. All sophomore and senior R.O.T.C. students in the "regular" group attended these cruises

MEN'S INTER-FRATERNITY COUNCIL

OTHER FRIENDSHIPS ARE FORGOT BUT THEIRS WILL ALWAYS BE HOT

THE past year has brought new changes to the fraternity organization here at Duke. The credit for this can largely be placed upon the capable leaders of the respective fraternities and the smooth coöperation of the council officers: Chuck White, president; Scoot Llewellyn, vice president; Fred Ferris, secretary; and Wally McMahon, treasurer.

Starting from scratch the council, under the guidance of Robert Eldridge, drew up a new constitution and a set of rushing by-laws which it hopes will be permanent.

Aside from the main council function of governing the eighteen fraternities on campus, the council sponsors, each year, at least one campus-wide dance which brought Billy Butterfield to Duke last fall. Also in the fall, the council, with Phillips Treleven as editor, published their first freshman handbook since the war.

In the spring, the council set about to organize The Shoe and Slipper Club in order to bring to the students of Duke the "Big Name Bands" which they want for their dances.

WOMEN'S PAN-HELLENIC COUNCIL

*THEY'RE SISTERS UNDER THE SKIN
THOUGH THEY'RE NOT OF ANY KIN*

THE Pan-Hellenic Council started the year with a new six weeks' rushing plan. This period was culminated in October with sighs of relief as Freshmen and transfers pledged the sororities of their choice.

The Pan-Hel Scholarship Cup was won by Alpha Epsilon Phi. The selection of the winner of the Pan-Hel Scholarship, which formerly was in the hands of the Council, was turned over to the University Scholarship Committee.

A revised rushing plan was approved and the Pan-Hellenic Handbook for new students was published for the second year.

With the Spring semester, the social activities of the Council began. A dance was given in February, followed by a breakfast for the Council. In April, each sorority could be seen practicing daily for the non-competitive sorority sing.

All in all, it was a successful and active year under the able leadership of president, Jane

THIS was the year that gin rummy finally hit the Beta section, all the Beta boys became proud uncles, and the ferris wheel turned beautifully to the surprise of the brothers. The year began with a bang and did not end with a whimper although the moans of Eastman may have made it seem that way. This year we finally got rid of the "Doctor," but it seemed that Wally would be around for a few more centuries. Dick Bowles presented Linda to the chapter, and Lee had his quietest moment of the year, saying only two words at the altar. Bob Bowles tried for an additional ten feet to become another Warmerdam. "Silent John" Livingstone, our bartender, argued violently against Newman and his "No Booze and Christianity" Slogan. "Sandy" Flynn could not decide whether to keep his mustache or not, and Bernard was studying for Phi Beta under new management. Heartaches became "Gi Gi Head" Dennerline's theme about the same time that "Hasty" Hill began to ponder, while Bugg remained our most constant lover. Nazor smiled at "Gawdy" but hit the ceiling when "Porky" was thrown at him. Gilbert aged ten years trying to find a decorator while Gochnauer added twenty each time anyone teed off at him. Maschmeier took "Mother's" place and several of the vultures wanted to take Ellis' place. Gallant continued to take a beating about his convertible.

McClain had his favorite tune also . . . I'll be waiting at the gate, Highsmith (Hiya Baldy!). Sugg and Rudisill spent the year in a double decker, thanks to their roommate. Bill "I'll handle it for you" Yon had a tough time handling himself. "Hopeless" Sprague stopped gambling, and to the delight of every one "Coach" Doig never got around to showing his scrapbooks. Cecil, the little giant, led the boys to Baltimore and Grandma for a big week-end. "Dimples" Griffith and "Stone-face" Strickland ran like mad dogs across country, but Ray stopped running to Chapel Hill. Here comes Guinee with his neon-noggin smouldering. The back seat of Bridges' car was said to set sex back about fifty years, but Nichols didn't have to worry about back seats. "Sandy" Davison's interest in medicine was limited to one nurse while Pierce was interested in getting some hair back on his head. Fieldson continued to raise hell with the peace of the chapter room, and Garber stumbled about as usual. "Snake" O'Connor didn't have any moonshine all year, and Chidester, Cooper, and Reyle quietly plugged away. Herriott had no objections to the name "Tyrone" . . . "Sherry" Sherwood was one of the vultures, and the Kumans took care of each other while Highsmith worried about a fraternity publication. Things were getting back to normal, and the Betas were taking advantage of it.

Clary—air force vet is chief exponent of prohibition in the ranks—ask to see his pledge card—will someone please buy him a new stomach—and then! . . . Groshens—frat prexy—came south for the winter and found a new home. What more could a carpthagger ask for, except maybe a belle to go with it! . . . Dannals transferred from Stetson and brought a pretty wife with him—still working hard on that apartment, smile-brother-smile when we have that house warming . . . Freeman—handyman with that quill and paper—eager beaver in the outfit—has an unusual liking for school teachers—next year maybe? . . . ALTHOUGH weakened numerically by an extremely large graduating class, the Delts returning to school last September found that any lack in quantity was more than balanced by an abundance of quality. There is more to that statement than just simple fact, however, and to know the Delts better, perhaps we should call the roll. "Gorgeous George" Boswell opens the meeting with three raps of his R.O.T.C. sword. "Gentleman Jack" Murray immediately puts a motion on the floor concerning the "windy" conduct of Vic "Base-a-ball" Corrado. In the midst of the confusion, "Lover" Mohlenkamp sits quietly, glaring at "T.B." Scollard, who is in a corner counting shekels. "Bongo-Bongo" Shipley arrives a few minutes late, having spent the afternoon in Durham searching for "Bicycle Billie." Order is finally restored only to be broken again as "Willie-Willie" Wilhoite requests that smoking be permitted during the meeting. Tom de Shazo attempts to protest but is quieted by Bill Hann who waves a "Pepsi-Cola" bottle in front of Tom's face. Bill simply cannot be separated from his bottle of "Pepsi." Waiting patiently, Jack Matlock is at last given the opportunity to call the roll . . . Ray Adam is present physically. Mentally, he is still trying to determine a fool-proof way to "shoot the moon." . . . "Golden Arm" Lapp is, as usual, spending the evening at Aycock . . . Hank Bedell and Fred Miller, sterling ends of the championship Delt football team, are present . . . Tom Lockwood is preparing for another journey to Washington . . . Hank Bartells is undecided . . . "Mutt" MacDonald and "Jeff" Taylor are dreaming of Cornell and Greensboro respectively . . . "Rollo" is in love too—with Stymie . . . "Van" has solved the mystery of the disappearing records. It seems that Dick "Little One" Reardin has acquired an unsatiable taste for shellac since the Delt Sing . . . Clancy Warta grooming himself to succeed Jimmy Dorsey . . . Bob Myatt is a cinch to assume the starring role in "Mr. District Attorney" . . . George Lundstrom, Joe MacDonald, and Walt Ollen, the N. Y. sharpies, are getting the Plymouth in shape. It won't be long now men . . . Tom Keevan is still looking for a beauty course at school . . . Who is going to fill the basketball shoes of Jack Hatcher? . . . Unanimous opinion says that Jim Cahow has it all over Sinatra. The kid's got a voice. . . .

There you have the Delts. They're all good men, and we're proud to have them in the Delta Shelter. Long will we cherish the fond memories of lasting friendships and carefree hours. There is no typical Delt, for each man is an individual man in our unit of characters—characters, that is. Yet each such unit is incomplete without the whole in which he figures, for each is a complement to the rest. Delta Tau Delta—home of friendship and bond of brotherhood.

AND so another year starts for old KA. Things haven't changed very much. Seth, Rat, and Ligaments still spend most of the day, and the night, playing bridge with anyone who has a little money to lose. The real "Turb" and his knock and red-dog games are going strong, too, but 'Awkins and Pizon still seem to prefer gin. Rollo's new game of Clubs is also popular. The new chapter room looks just a little bit like Monte Carlo Casino. "Chaz," Ray and Zeno spend what little time they can spare from East studying organic chemistry and complaining about it. The old Scout (and All-time all-time Greenie) is champion of the Poll at the end of the first round while Harve brings up a short last, but the second round may be different. Football trips have been interesting this year, especially Baltimore and Atlanta. Fish, Max, Scout, Jeter and McClennon seemed to hate to leave. This married life seems to agree with Fletch, Jim, and Sambo pretty well; at least we don't see them around the section very much now. The football players are waiting impatiently for the end of the season to roll around, so the cuss boxes can be opened to pay for a large beer party. Everyone else is waiting, too. Should be another quite colorful affair. Hope we can schedule the next intramural football game for an afternoon when our star guard, blocking back, and tail-back don't have labs. Have to keep that unscored-on record. It's going to be hard, but we'll make out O. K. Coach Tubby White is making up plays for his team, and Coach Eirich is stealing them for his, but the "C" team relies on its desperation pass, and it never fails. Fearless Freddy's private coaching staff is giving him advice on the Carolina game. Homecoming was fine; Clark showed all the boys a colorful time, even Turb and Schaf were impressed. KA's were well represented in Nu Upsilon Tau Sigma—congratulations, Yknip. Casper (Who's Who) Holroyd is hard at work keeping the Big Blue going. Jawn, T. Hughes, and the Blond Blaster—"Put that 'L' in there"—are partying tonight, and Scoop, Jim, and the Bean aren't getting too much sleep. Hot Fleming and Rollo are staying up late too. Tabby is supervising the next social function, trying to get Harrington back from Chapel College and Don back from East at the same time to do some work. Speaking of being off, Rem and Hillman go to Greensboro every weekend, and Jim Summers and Propst are away fairly often, too. But Harve, Eirich, and Rands are still over to East every night, almost. The meeting will now adjourn for ten minutes to reconvene at Hartmann's or maybe No Hope Country Club. See you there. We want to let all the alumni know that the gang is still doing business at the same old stand in house G, and we will be glad to see any of you drop down this way some time.

NEXT year will see many new faces, but the old members shall not be forgotten. We'll never forget the gruesome twosome, Barrett and Baradel, along with the "Hook" Turner going out to the Hartman's Theatre. East Campus will certainly miss Scout Houghton and Cuz Whalen, Cuddly-Bear Booth, and our Sexy Prexy Sanders. We'll surely miss the good averages of Christian and Robbins. E. P. "Senior President" Bethune will send us a few chickens from his and Anne's chicken ranch. Chief engineer Virgin is in charge of construction of the coops, and Lonnie Hudson is to be the contact man. Old Coach Meara will miss Jeske at end, but we hear he is grooming Steamer Stanley for the vacant post.

Lowell Jackson and Don Clarke will replace the smooth line of tongue and pen of Karl Nygaard. Maybe by press time, D'Alonzo, Erickson, and Willy Kalkbrenner will have all but wrecked Barry Westover's piano. DePuy, our California addition, is learning fast, while Barnett, his roommate, decided it best to get pinned. Then there is "curving" Cy Matheson and "crooning" Lionel Bailey. Glover is teaching Murph and Boger the art of handling freshmen co-eds. We see Glaze, only between trips to Alspaugh, while Stewart is just in a continual trip. Dick Winn and Bill Gray insist that they are studying at the library, while Dimangos and Sutton think about it.

Charlie Rose, Lou, and Shank, the truesome threesome, have had it, but O'Leary and Forrest, with their whiskey tenors, still carry on. Jacokes and Clark are dating Nightingales, and Coward married one.

Our married members, Pettit, and end Freddie Hardison, are seen around the section from time to time as is pledge Willie Taylor, also a member of the ball and chain gang. George Swalchick drops in once in awhile to give us the lowdown on the messenger service.

"Bubbles" Holcroft, still looking for a fourth for bridge, while Gilliland is looking for a ride to Millers. Admiral Doescher and Mosier play a wicked game of gin rummy, while Hawes is content to sit and count his pennies. Scarborough and Stewman sit back and lament over their love life. Nickel on high spade.

Homecoming found many welcome old grads back. It is nice to see the spirit of Kappa Sigma still aflame after college days are o'er. Those of us that were still here after the first semester were honored and proud of the fact that we could participate in the celebration of the 75th Anniversary of the founding of Kappa Sigma at Duke, this being the second oldest chapter.

We play hard, work hard, love our school, our fraternity and everyone—including East Campus, Watts Hospital, and both nurses' homes—everyone!

TO your High Honorable Majesty, Zeus: I, Mercury, your humble messenger send this miserable note to tell you of your realm of Greeks. One of your provinces, Gamma Theta Zeta, shows itself in the oddest of ways.

When I entered Temple D, the province was jumping. Odd sounds came forth from a musical box. Fingering the ivories was Boogie-Beat Stauff. Savage rhythms threw an air of mystery over the temple. Brother "I'm sent" Holland waved his arms in hideous mannerisms and screamed wildly. Billows of aromatic smoke poured forth from the jowls of Dave Searrow, "Morganthau" Searrow sifted pieces-of-eight and screamed hoarsely, "Dues, dues, all mine." Between pops of his bubble gum, Leviathan Bronson crooned the lyrics to the pagan song. (Dancing among the scattered "bridge" altars was the Keeper of the Orchids, Twiddy.)

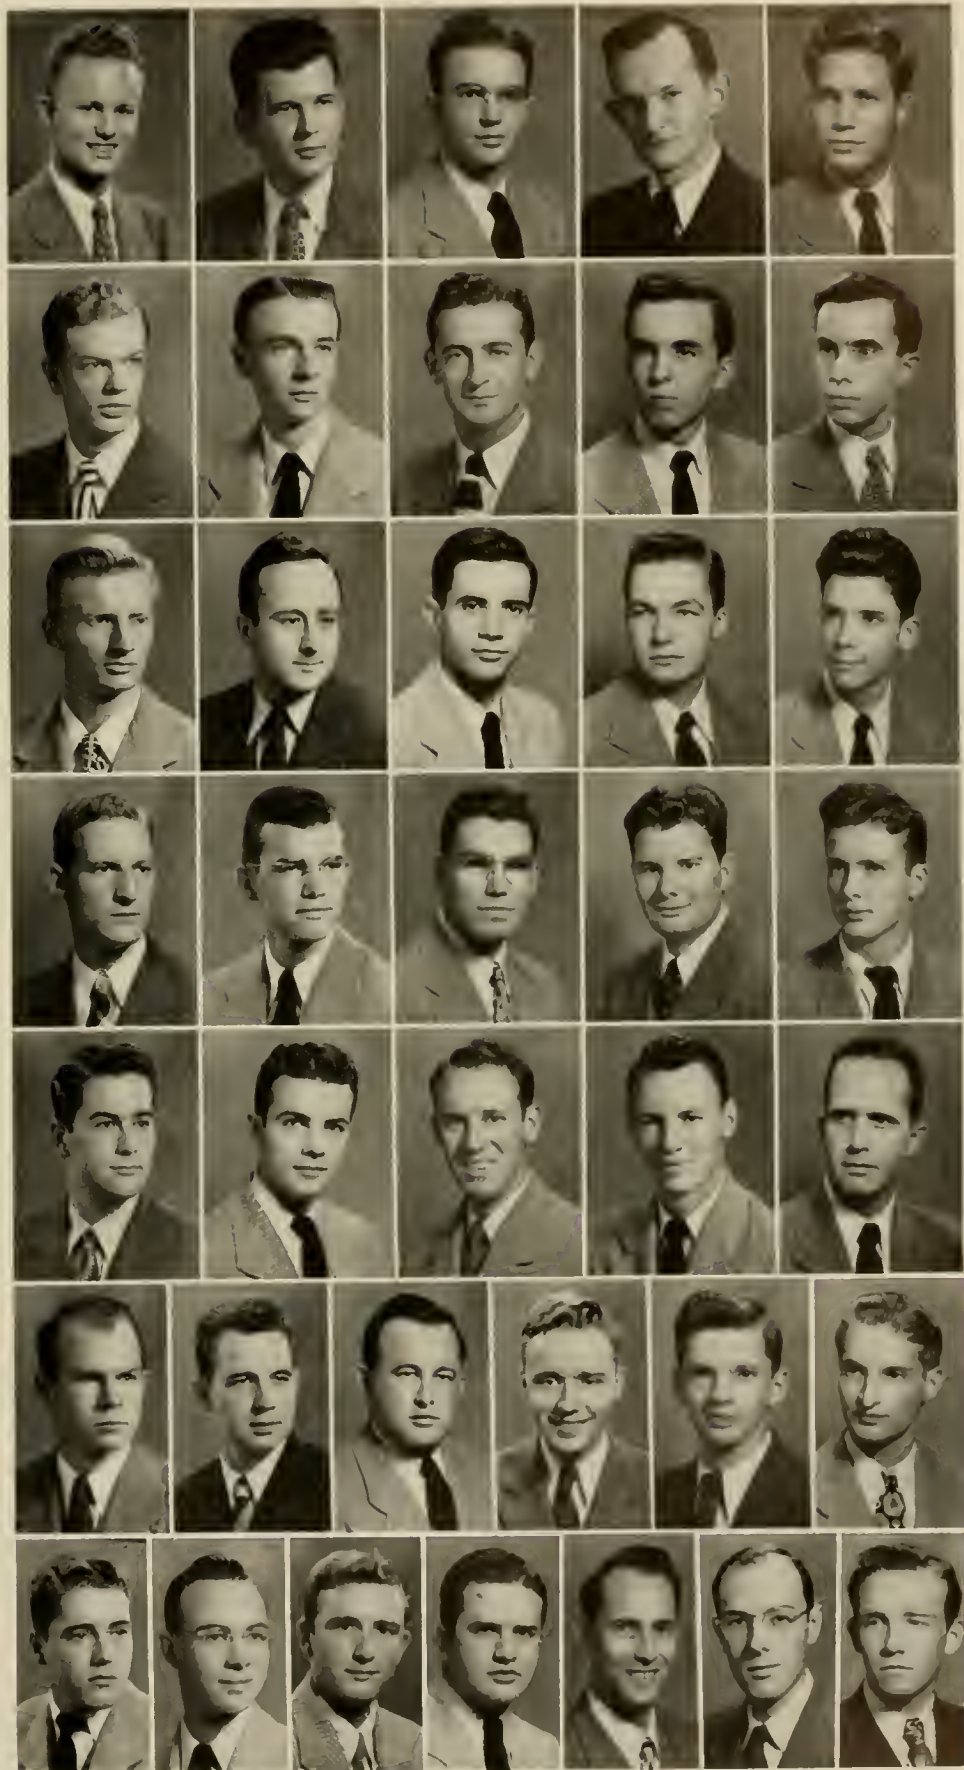

At one of the altars was brother "One-Motion" Brooks, sorrowfully crying "Please adjourn, fellas." I turned and saw the astrol-ogist, "Rain-in-the-face" Howe, pouring forth volumes of unsavory language.

Horried by this unusual ritual, I left the sanctuary and entered the chamber of the drones. High Lama McAlduff was chanting his formula on womankind. Seated near him was "She's-my-Tomato" Freeze, sipping from a pint of the nectar of roses. "Stem" Edwards sang "Home, Home, with a Range!", while "Halloween" Lemmon just grinned. Standing over a cauldron of brew "Chase and Sanborn" Gill called threateningly, "I made it and I'm glad." Beside the cauldron was "Drone" Elderkin. His eyes rolled while he gleefully sang, "I'm pinned—oh, boy!" This jargon was Greek to me; he was obviously delirious. Near him was "Nine-months" Warren shouting, "T'aint logical—'spension, 'spulsion, and other lawful penalties." Clinging to the ceiling was "One-a-week" Browning. People never speak to him, only of him. Beneath sat "Night-mare" Knight whining, "Where, oh where can my game tickets be?" My brain was intoxicated by these antics, but a most fearful roar brought me to my senses. Into the light appeared "Kentucky Tavern" Harwood. His eyes spewed fire . . . he belched smoke and bellowed "whoopce!" The smoke died down; there was Red Suit Nelson floating in its wake.

Suddenly I was greeted with a water-pistol load of shaving lotion. Before me stood the blond menace, "Bogart" Drewry. "Die," he cried and was off. I sat down wearily upon an altar stool. "Two-bit" Gray stood beside me yelling, "I gotcha." I reeled from the temple and came upon an oasis known as "Red's." As I fell into a booth, some well-aimed suds caught me full. Leering from behind his schnapps, was "Raleigh boy" De Cosier.

Chief, I have but one thing to say—"I quit."

JOE DUNCAN, President

LOOK around the “Phi Delt squirrel cage” any day this year would show “Gramps” Duncan futilely trying to rally the sages into a coherent group. “Porky” Alexander is relaxing his ever-growing waist line, kibitzed in his bridge game by “Nick-T Brain” Carter rallying a few dollars in laundry debts. The MacDonalds, “Momo” and “The Rat” (the latter complete with coat hanger) are seen, torn between tennis and the sack; “Boob” Baldwin, taking time out from yellow journalism, recites a few 5-line limericks, egged on by “G. Laidlaw” Smith, of SGA fame, and “Christian Al,” former Y.M.C.A. white hope. “Rock” Williams discusses Horner’s columns with “Sticker King” Jackson and Bob Zahner as Brennan whistles “Old Kentucky Home” and “Scoot” and “Bub” vie for the floor in the discussion of Michigan’s finest. Armchair politician “Pop” Groff hunts for a few quality points, aided by Tad Moore, of “sincere 1.5” notoriety.

Phi Delta Theta’s only “educated Guinee”—“Dago” Perini—tells of his fall football spotting experiences. “Spook” Boyle saunters in, followed by Phi Bete key twirler “Muss” Musselman, heir to Penna.’s apple butter fortunes. Bainbridge and Ken Williams join card sharks Walker and Stallings in a few fast hands; Bell strolls in, impeccable as usual; Junior Brice proclaims Charlotte’s beauties to anyone who will listen, drowning out “Nobby” David’s Florida sunshine spiel and “Dorse” Dorsey’s Pittsburgh smog salestalk; “Arch” Felker and “Predictions” Foster discuss sports writing.

Jim Groome swaps football notes with McGinnis and Hanlon as “Huddy” Meacham, fresh from his library steps 8 a.m. rendezvous, tells the latest I.F.C. dirt. Jahnke, Frederick and Phil Moore compare. Colin McLarty and roommate Lee Smith dive into 107, the section’s mousetrap, as Rementer hustles for the bus to town; Yandell Smith mutters something about rooters’ hats, and heads for Giles. A rustic touch is added by the chapter’s two “men in Green,” Kiefer and Jesse Miller. Footballers Chambers, Perkinson, Reese, Skipworth, Younger, Bryant, Eslick, Davis, Gibson, Gleason and Manager “Pinky” Duncan relax, as “Hogan” Hodgkins blows a few crescendos on his tuba.

Married men Braungart and Starks discuss dishwashing versus dusting, as Abe, Chritton and Welly MacDonald work up a show train with Branham, Dellenbarger, Lynch, Schmahl and Robertson. Loomis prepares a few “Literati” scraps as Jouannet, Lentz and Cheek compare wrestling and basketball stories. Miller is “out on waivers” as “Sleuth” Jung hunts for a psychological clue; Lively and Patton catnap, fair prey for a hot-foot from “Que-Ball” Gardner and the Chattanooga twins, Jones and Wright. Thus, another year in the “barber shop” rolls to an informal, raucous close.

ROGER NEIGHBORGALL, President

WHAT with the frequent hitchings among the brothers, the status of the organization as a "brotherhood" is almost questionable. The boys at the O. K. Grut house seem to have a tendency for the fatal step; however, there are a few who claim they won't succumb to the lure of married life. For instance: Anderson, "shining head" of the Glee Club, dashing between accounting labs and the choir loft . . . "Horizontal" Blissell being on the chapter room couch day-in and day-out . . . Baird and Johnson, each claiming to be the handsomest Phi Psi . . . Treleaven, Junior wheel extraordinary running Chronicle, Union Party, and Phi Eta Sigma . . . Parson Banks, courting with tennis racquet and Ford . . . our rep to the Cafe Rouge, cigar-smoking Mason . . . Wilson and his wandering pin . . . Bergstrom dating women with cars . . . Graham doubling for the free ride . . . Paddy Kirk coming out only on St. Patrick's Day . . . "Lovable" Putnam: "Women are like trolleys, one every ten minutes" . . . handsome Weddington, another baggy-eyed engineer . . . Hal Jackson receiving no extra IM points for sacrificing his incisors to the Sigma Nus . . . Griesse forsaking books for East . . . Hazel always showing up with East's most beautiful . . . D. Roosevelt Evans, laughing-boy and drummer deluxe . . . Prexy Rodge Neighborgall, gift to the track team, All-Southern . . . Edwards, our rep to soccer and acrossse . . . the fraternity’s donation to the Women’s College of U. N. C. and the fraternity’s gift to intramurals . . . Charlie Way follows the urge to St. Mary’s . . . We won’t forget Rusty Tomlinson and his famous last words—“don’t throw cigarettes on the rug” . . . our secretary Warren Kelley is counting the days until he can hand the pen over to another joker and take the last row seat. Al Bingham, the nurse’s home pride and joy, continues to toil over those lab reports . . . and “Rix” Mallonce, another engineer, finally got the tiger made for Homecoming. We can’t forget Al Smith or the jokes and wisecracks he is so capable of relating . . . Bob Rich filling in with his very dry wit . . . Lane Yelverton, our “Gallon a Day” coffee drinker, is always having his own problems . . . Dave Turpin, the treasurer, never tires of placing those “4” by “5” white bills on our doors . . . Clyde Yancey is still talking about his poor sore foot . . . Bob Parrish may be called the engineer who got lost in economics. Paul Shea, our dependable intramural player, and side kick to Al Smith . . . And last but not least, Murray Huntoon; one never knows what he will spring next. Thus these Phi Beta Kappas, lovers, jokers, engineers and all the rest make up the Phi Kappa Sigma Hall of fame which has blended Phi Kappa Sigma into a well rounded brotherhood, and will be emblazoned on our minds for the years to come.

IN our panorama leave us on to House E. At the bulletin board is Ken Miller checking the stamps on unclaimed letters . . . Evans tacking up a list of absentees . . . the odor from the pantry addition of the Saddle Club indicating chow time at Hook's and Tilley's . . . Trechsel, "the Culbertson Kid," abetted by Duke Borden, in demonstrating the old squeeze to Hank Sitton and Read Mason . . . Tommy "the Kid Clothier" Alt casually catnapping on the sofa . . . In one corner "Geechi" Brown perusing the Rebel comics . . . we are run down by "Legs" Heiss, Petit & Pepper looking for another pinochle fiend . . . jarred by "Wild Bill" Clardy shifting furniture . . . Excuse the Blonde Brush, among friends he's called Sandy . . . Bob Mann summing up the situation . . . Ken Gould disorganizing same . . . Crevasse allowing what the trouble is and Bob Ward passing him dry handkerchiefs . . . Ike Craun, the weekend wanderer, itching again . . . Bill Smith giving the Yankees his Southern drawl . . . Pershing, calling for just one more—tomato juice . . . "Slits" Bryan warming up his jet racer assisted by CO₂ monkeys "Pipe" Parks, "Curley" Seely and "Influence" Joyce, not to mention "Lover" Walton . . . In the showers of discord we find Allsopp (tenor), Mitch (melody) and Chase (mellow baritone) . . . Alexander fingering his tie—a saxophonic complex

. . . "Dug" Ausbon, the fastest thing on blisters . . . Barrett and his Toni wave . . . Yarborough splitting a hair . . . "Teddy Bear" Hackett—the man who knows . . . The Lip McMasters and Buddy McLean monotoning their ukeleles . . . A brief visit, but enough to learn that the spirit is still here.

BOB ELDREDGE, President

"Of all the ones that near perfection,
Stainless without gloss.
Sigma Chi is my selection.
We revere its cross."

SO RING out from the portals of "E E," the words of one of Sigma Chi's most beautiful songs. This song exemplifies the strong brotherhood which exists among the members of Duke's Beta Lambda chapter.

On approaching the Sig quarters, probably the first voices heard will be those of "Giss Again" Mieczkowski and "Tarzan" Jackson, yelling for "Como" Palumbo . . . On entering the doorway, the first persons seen are the "Moose" and Chuck, talking over "woolic-booger" prospects . . . On down the hall are the Byrd twins, whom their girls can't even tell apart, and Leake, Lyle, and Kirk, the Tupelo trio of football fame.

On second deck, one needn't go further than room 207, home of "Hairless" Marshall, "Pin-up king" Chillingworth, and "Lover" Hopkins, for this is the second chapter room . . . prexy Eldredge comes in after a spat with Bunny and slaps a blanket fine on the chapter . . . Irishman Kelley comes in, trying to choke a laundry bill out of "Pony" . . . then, in come "Long Bengggg," Worm, Curly, and Stark of basketball fame, mapping plans for the defeat of Carolina . . . then "B.S." Williams makes his grand entrance, with tales of his latest conquest on East . . . "Strangler" Loucks tells how he "pinned" the girl from the University of Maryland . . . "Old Man" Welshans, cane and all, feels fine after a "Day with Helen" . . . Welch comes in and leads the boys in a few cheers, assisted by Jones and Dayton, but they are interrupted by Shehee, who claims that the noise effects his CHANTICLEER book work . . . Scholars Gamble and Swanson voice their approval . . .

"Coach" Thomiades enters, bemoaning the fact that his softball team won't be too good, for half the fraternity plays varsity baseball . . . Vaughan and Hall, tails et al, drop in for a snort before taking off for the Saddle Club . . . Polier and Sydnor enter upon the scene with the latest scoop for the Chronicle, followed closely by Parker, giving away old copies of the Duke 'n' Duchess . . . Brewer and Woodley practice golf in the corner . . . "Baldy" Aumen comes in to remind everyone of his football exploits . . . Snuffly and Tee, unable to be present, send word that they have purchased an interest in Hartman's . . . Farrell and Hutchinson are seen rambling through the CHANTICLEER for glimpses of new prospects on East . . . Carter enters, trying to talk through the foam.

On and on the proceedings go, UNTIL, Johnson, Porter, Buchanan, and Boggs break up the session with a call for "All out for Reds."

COLBERT SMITH, President

A THIRTY-NINE year history—encompassing two world wars, Prohibition, Repeal, and the New Look—is something to boast of. Sigma Phi Epsilon has given to the world for better, and not, we hope, for worse over three hundred men making up a potpourri of professions, vocations, and dispositions. Here is the Sig Ep Saga circa 1948:

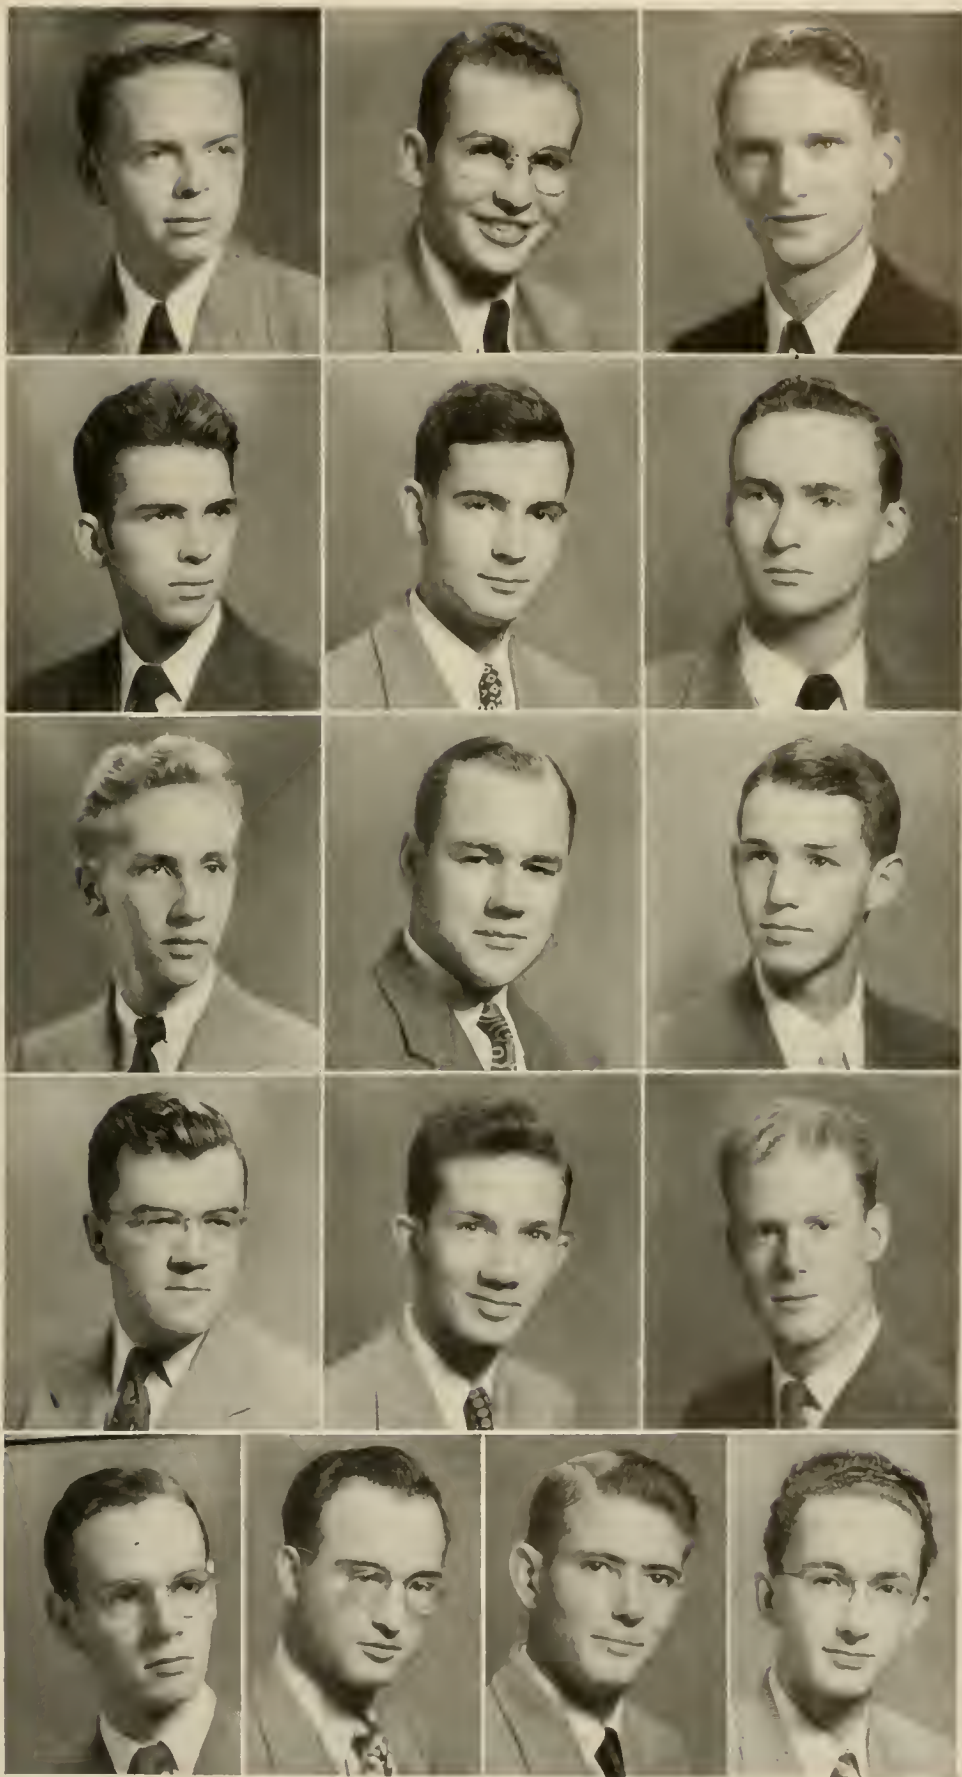

Seniors fall into two categories: those who graduate with a family ready made and those who graduate ready . . . Hitched: “Andy” Andrews and Ned Potter . . . wife and child each . . . Henry Smith . . . married during spring vacation. . . . Unhitched but ready: Dick Arnest . . . habitual residence: sofa in Alspaugh next to pin-up Sue Oatfield . . . intentions: psychiatry . . . Don Rothey . . . future builder of bridges (probably with built-in cinema theaters and milkshake bars) . . . Jim Chambers . . . Georgia’s gift to the business world . . . and to any hair restorer who would like to experiment . . . Joe Daniel . . . waging a war against time in order to get into Med School at the end of his junior year . . . progenitor of many homespunisms . . . “Lord help us to git right” . . . Ed Best victim of motor madness . . . disciple of Freud (in theory) . . . Stu Hoppin . . . personification of the Boston accent . . . “I bid two hahts” . . . Dwight Isenhour . . . proud poppa of bouncing Ike, Jr. . . . distinguished from the general by his middle

Buddy Wechsler, President

THIS is the incredible story of 29 men. 25 years ago, these men were mere nothings, associating together in an establishment known as House T. Lipsitz—today received Presidency of the Cadillac Car Company. Susman won the National Rifle Championship today, wearing red tie, yellow saddle shoes, and purple pants. Gerstein starring in Broadway Comedy “My Brother Wore Striped Pajamas and Told Lousy Jokes.” Wechsler—brilliant surgeon leaves field to enter accounting office. Levin—multimillionaire gives secret to success: “You can squeeze blood from a turnip.” “Pony” Satlof—finally plays one game of Hearts without taking the Queen of Spades . . . Kirsh—posing for cartoonist Ham Fisher as “Humphrey and the Baboons.” Richman—marries Lord Buckingham’s daughter in London. He says, “I think she likes me.” Cohen—appears before Supreme Court today to try to inject more sobriety into proceedings. Rosenfeld—big gambler—took $1,000,000 loss with much calmness as a hibeophrenic schizophrenia. Brandt—sold his 1,674,321st pipe today. 1,674,320 were sold to former fraternity brothers. Other pipe was bought by his wife. Kinler—un-anonymous President of Alcoholics Anonymous attributes success to super-saturated college life. Goodman—only mediocre student in college, amazes intelligentsia with criticism of electrical wiring of Brooklyn Bridge.

Shapiro—enters hospital for psychiatric treatment. Thinks himself the original “Laughing Boy.” Shapiro—in court on charge of polygamy. Has 14 children and no wives. Yudell, Rauch—caught by police in Fifth Avenue book store. They were collaborating on scheme to infest Duke U. with beautiful women. Glass—head saxophonist at Johns Hopkins Hospital, and adviser to ZBT chapter at Duke U., tries to be serious at meeting and is impeached. Wolf—mysterious and WGAS. Berne—elected to National Board of Advisers to AEPhi sorority. Frey—Supreme Court Justice donates $4.62 from his stationery sideline to improve ZBT chapter room at Duke U. Pumpian—elected most outstanding man in America. He possesses qualities of intelligence, beauty, charm, and personality plus literary genius. Rosen—caught at sea on the sinking Lusitania last week—found hiding behind smokestack issuing steamboat calls to all other ships at sea. Harriss—amazed medical science by bursting stitch left in him for 25 years. Silver—playing pro football at the age of 43, introduced new play; an intentional fumble, recovered by him. Feder—appointed U. S. delegate to Palestine-for-the-Palestinians committee. Dworsky—held a gala affair at his home for youth group. Nabow—after 23 years as undergraduate engineer changes to Business Administration. He says: “Why didn’t I think of this before?”

DONNA TODD, President

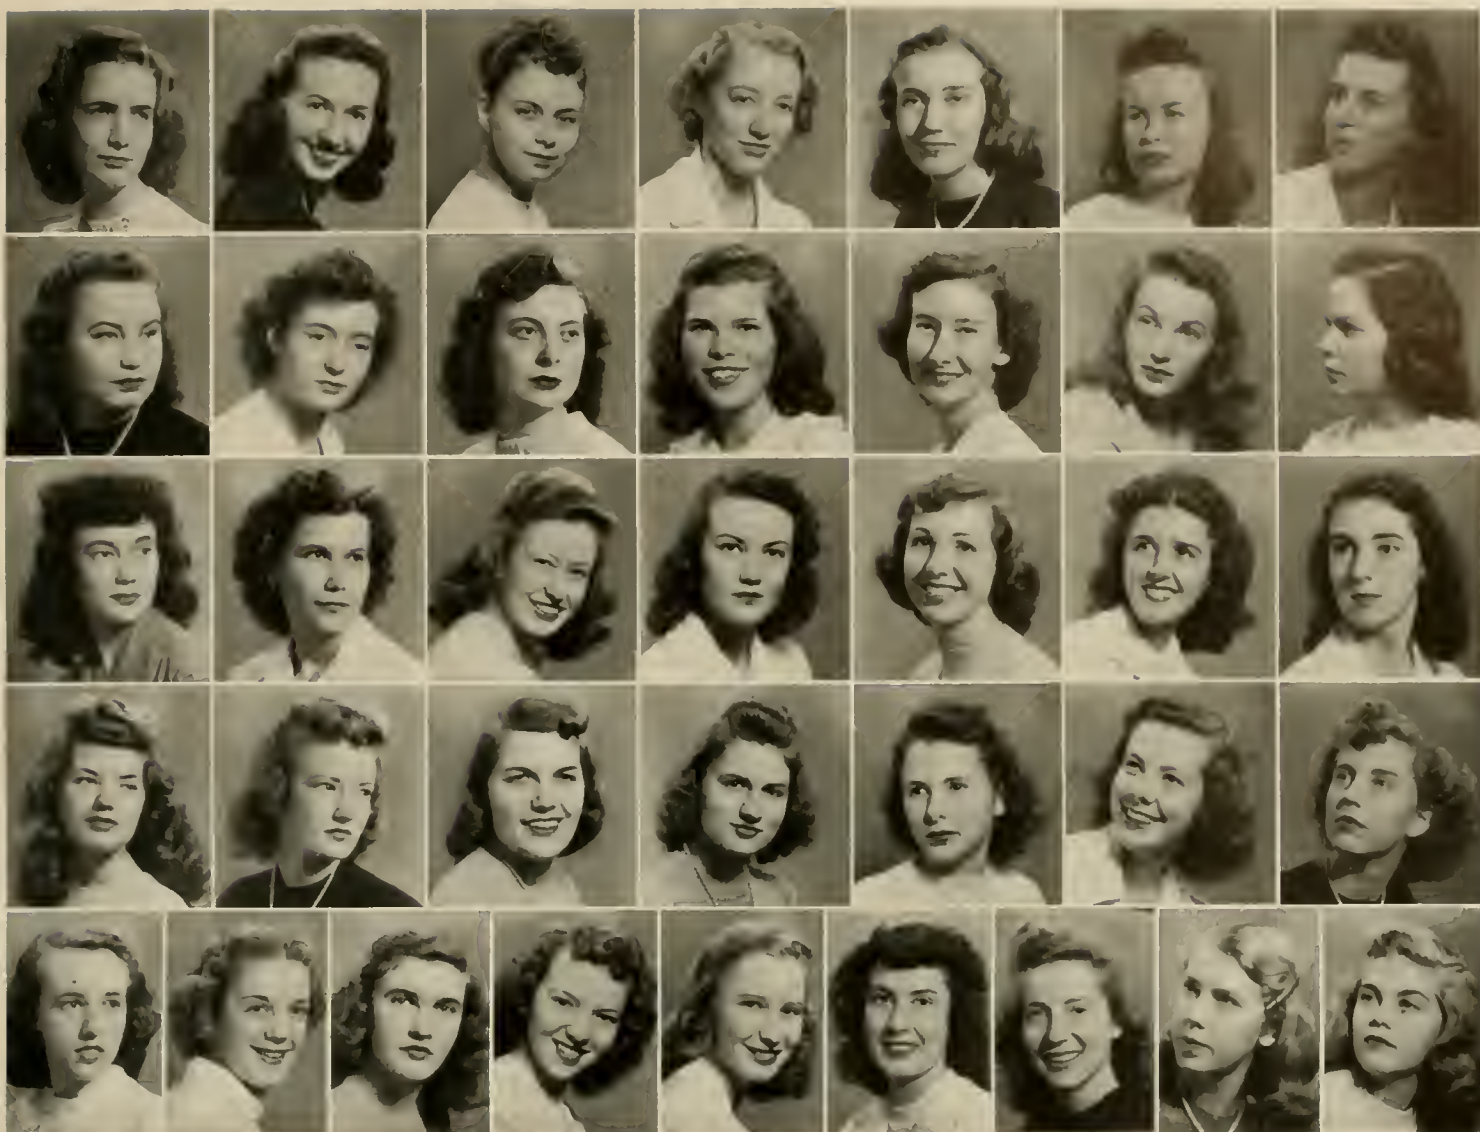

FORMER W.A.A. Board member and amateur golf champion Donna Todd had little time for the fairways this year—Johnny and her Alpha Chis kept her pretty busy. They say that prexy's boudoir came to be known as "Mordecai Annex" by the gals. In spite of majoring in Chem, our own brain child, "Wee-zie" Gourney, was named to Phi Beta. From the far-off land of upper New York state, "Wee-zie" personifies that good 'ole Yankee efficiency. Speaking of Yankees (if one dare do so) brings to mind our representatives of the Nutmeg state, Betty Jackson and Jeanne Wilkens . . . both inveterate knitters. Could it possibly be socks for a Sigma Chi, Jeanne? During her sojourn as chapter treasurer, Jackson had need of that sense of humor. Trying to keep everyone happy was the seemingly hopeless job of M. J. Simpson, member of Student Coördinate Board—and also of Publications Board. Also was Beta Upsilon's second vice president. Wonder if she ever got all those "rees" acknowledged, poor gal. Or if she ever got to see her "Room" more than fifteen minutes a day. Roommate Helen Mercener was constantly flitting as Chairman of Judicial Board. Merco, member of Phi Kappa Delta and White Duchy, heads for a teaching or writing career,—we won't say which it will turn out but look for her name in print one of these days. Big print. Mamas to the freshmen were Shirley Keel and Margaret Mecker, Alpha Chi's F.A.C., the second term for Margaret. Our artist Mecker wielded the brush for Duke Players and the Archive as well as for chapter parties . . . was vice president and pledge trainer. Lambda Chi pin-up Keel served as corresponding secretary for Beta Upsilon. "Woody," from Hahpoint (said with proper accent, please) joins the orange blossom parade in June, lucky one. "Girl of the Golden Shoe" we call her . . . never seen without it. Songbird Lila Magruder's clear voice will be missed by the Choir and Triple Trio, not to mention the dear old fraternitee. Another needle clacker . . . Louie won't ever need to buy a sweater. The dry wit of 'Raine won't ever be equalled . . . last of the great triumvirate of Wright, MacMurtrie, and Moore. Ann Ransom, our Georgia peach . . . sweet as they come, if we make a pun. Always seems to be at lab. Wonderful at basketball. Sigma Chi pin-up Sally Bagley acquainted us all with John, to our pleasure. His gal certainly has the old wim and vitality . . . never in a blue mood. From way over in Southgate we have Winn Kern, Social Standards and Bench and Bar member. She also will soon hear the sound of wedding bells. Two other lawyers in the bud are Norma Little and Nancy Griffin . . . both in Bench and Bar. Norma did a grand job as social chairman of the chapter.

PEGGY FOREHAND, President

HERE it is spring again and time to give you another review of our Alpha Delta Pi show . . . another year of great success here on our Duke campus . . . lots of fun, good times, and of course a worry here and there . . . such as when new props were expected every day during our top performance of the year—finally arriving in the nick of time . . . somehow though, with all the grand sisters working together everything came out fine . . . but enough of this dilly dallying . . . on with the show . . . here we are in 205 Pan-Hel House and with the help of station WDU we bring you the “ADPi Hour” . . . featuring beauty, brains, personality . . . in the spotlight is our mistress of ceremonies Peg Forehand who keeps our show on the road . . . ably assisted by Savage who instructs our new troupers in the whys and wherefores of this new life . . . future stars discovered by talent scout Rose Ann Jordan who really did a terrific job . . . Armistead handles the booking with Scar taking care of the correspondence . . . Rose Marie always busy at her job of keeping figures in trim . . . Alda handling stage setting with much valuable assistance from Alyea on the props . . . script writers are Lib Barrett and those two lovable roommates Jane and Jean . . . Gwaltney, Query and Tommasi are the brains behind the organization . . . Boyer and Witt do their best to keep everyone in line . . . and here’s lovely Sally Waddell singing “My ATO Man” to get the show started off right . . . we want to pause now for just a minute to introduce Julia Toms, our Pond’s girl—“She’s lovely, She’s Engaged” . . . the melodious strains of “Oh You Beautiful Doll” sound the cue for the entrance of those Darlin’ dancers of campus wide fame Harriet G., Rolland, Anna Wolfe, and Jan . . . maybe . . . to continue after that interruption “Nothing Could Be Finer . . .” than Shirley Field and the Sorority Sisters, Jean May, Allison, Stew, and Betsy Nick who add to his harmony . . . Let’s now have a few words from Duck, Gene Harris, Nancy McCleod, and Harriet Thigpen who have been wearing the diamond for several years and have repeatedly seen our girls giving the best performance . . . now it is our great pleasure to present to you our one act play entitled “The Story of Successful Co-eds” or “They Wear the Diamond” . . . directed by capable Claire Flowers and starring “Ad Lib” Murray, and an all star cast including “Peppie” Beppie, “Deb” Courtney, “Saucy” Rossie, and “Fancy” Nancy R. . . . Here is Woodbury to present their captivating “Bride of the Month,” Queen Buffa, who disproves the old saying that beauty and brains don’t mix . . . Anna Lee and Rita Vee conclude our program with this jingle, “The secret of our success—it isn’t hard to see—that it pertains to friendship, love, and loyalty.”

SHIRLEY FINKLESTEIN, President

“WHEN the good old gang gets together again” next semester, not only will there be bridge games, but also sorority suppers, open-houses, cabin parties, and dances. We’ll sit around and recollect the wonderful formal at Hillendale . . . what fun we had decorating . . . and the satisfaction we felt the night of the dance for a job well done . . . Memories . . . Memories . . . Estelle and her orchid, Helene and that black satin, Baby and Norm, Fink and Marty, and the debut of our six new pledges—Judy, Dot, June, Leta, and Carol . . . Doris, our town girl . . . Then our terrific stag banquet—the night we all let our hair down and enjoyed good food, good gossip, and good singing . . . the showers for the engaged ones and their surprised looks at the mix-masters . . . the pledges desert party for the actives . . . and the open houses for the fraternities, Carolina, North Carolina State and Duke all represented . . . the Spring cabin party and the usual rain, but this time there was an added attraction—a flat tire—and a luvlee half-mile hike for all, only to find that we had left the food back in the truck . . . and then there are the more intellectual memories . . . quizzes, term papers . . . the winning of the scholarship cup for the fourth time in succession; our phi-bete girl—Leah June; our songster’s recital; our annual coffee for the faculty.

Of course, next year won’t be quite the same without some of the old gang around. Helene won’t be at the cabin parties to sing “Paradise” or to give us a behind-the-scenes look at Doc Blanchard and Bishopville. Nor will prexy Fink or Sara Rose, who got their A.B. and M.R.S. degrees simultaneously, be with us to tell about wedding plans. Sonia won’t be dividing her car between Bob and the sorority; nor will Shirley, Ohio State’s loss and our gain, be here to scribe. And having gone on to higher stakes in accounting, June will no longer be pinching pennies for Alpha Epsilon of Alpha Epsilon Phi.

But we’ll still be hearing Roz say, “I just talked to Howie and the car may be ready tomorrow”; Leta and her “Hey, Honey!” and her ambitions to be another Katherine Cornell; Nancy with the laughing face; Ida and her Sunday morning breakfasts in Brown; Estelle, her Spanish songs and American beaux.

Leba will put down her Sandals gavel and go on from there; Bobbie will still be willing to be a first, second, third, or fourth for bridge; Fay and Goldie will still be turning out those terrific creative writing stories; and Helen Rosenman will be “beating out the boogie on the bench.”

These are the girls of the green and white . . . We’ll be “Faithful Forever” to their memories . . . and another year goes happily by. There’s lots to look back on, but much more to look forward to in Alpha Epsilon Phi.

JACKIE HUTZLER, President

ANOTHER year has rolled by . . . out with the old, in with the new . . . every year better than the last and this one no exception. In summary, the passing parade . . . on to bigger and better things. With the passage of time little memories of each will stick in our minds and with them a feeling of friendship which we think will never be surpassed.

First we will remember our president, Jackie, with her long hair and impressive horn-rimmed glasses . . . Kirt with such charm and poise training the pledges without cracking a whip . . . naive Polly, busy vice president of the "Y" . . . Raenelle taking role and funny education courses . . . Wilhoit, always good for a laugh or a party . . . Connie Lummus swamped with WAA and freshman group . . . Blackard FAC and fancy-free . . . personality Godwin, vice president of Pan-Hel . . . best roommate Kirt ever had . . . what a team !! Susette, Social Standards, putting her best foot forward in the smoothest manner . . . Jane, the slowest gal we ever did see, always with Johnny . . . Pecot, WSGA and Sigma Chi wife . . . Milly, Southgate's vice president . . . Jonesy—pep like dynamite . . . Bo, married to Phi Psi, returns to complete the original pledge class of the seniors, who move onward, still aware of what a great bunch they are and leaving their best with you.

Spotlight now on juniors . . . we see the Shaws, wheel Pat and cog Connie . . . Fay Finley snapping pictures all over the place for CHANTICLEER . . . Bleckley dividing time between freshman group and Delt . . . Clever Beach from St. Pete and roommate, Nixon, a mighty fine girl, give lots of smooth singing to Southgate . . . Glenn keeping books for Nereidian and sorority . . . Hamill constantly with the same dark man . . . Mickey, our "Blond Bombshell," going to choir with ATO pin-up . . . Anne with her Rock of Gibraltar . . . Ella Ann singing "blues" . . . Harding writing letters . . . Helen liking food, bridge, and a good time . . . and Kathy, our favorite brunette.

Next the sophomores . . . Diana with the raven locks . . . Wendy, sweet and sincere . . . Wilks' dry wit . . . Bobbie busy painting mirrors . . . Jean Holland, our china doll . . . Cin-Cin Huyler who loves big week-ends . . . Roommates Fran and Jean . . . a blond and a redhead, a terrific pair . . . Marilyn Myers wondering how to keep up the sorority average and still have fun . . . Emily, a dear at all times.

Marty, Linnie, "Fun," Dot, Mary, Jean, B. J., Pat, Betsy, Nancy and Elly—our pledges of whom we are so proud, and we know after exchanging their silver ivy leaves for gold badges, they will make wonderful actives.

In closing, we shall not forget the people and parts of college that have been most dear to us. And so we propose a toast—"One that shall bind us heart to heart until we meet again."

ETHEL HOWE, President

DROPPED into the smoke-filled den of iniquity the other day . . . sister Deltas . . . Ethel Howe lifting the sofa again—"terrible arrangement" . . . Dot Miller, efficiency herself, "we've got to organize" . . . Merle Rainey peeking from behind her fuschia socks . . . ANN MARKIN, President

"Soft and low by the glow of the fire-light,
Let us dream to our heart's fond desire,
Of days which now in memory seem lingering and sweet,
The joy we share in sisterhood wherever we meet . . ."

IT'S Wednesday night, and as each D.G. comes in, the fire in the grate is conducive to dreaming of days that used to be and talk of days to come.

Prexy Ann drops in for a few minutes, although "Epe" is probably waiting outside . . . Tracy blows in with the cry "Second, third, and fourth for bridge." Cherry and the Fountaine twins (we still don't know which is which) complete the bridge game.

Pendle offers her SGA approved witticism to the conversation, but Muriel's humor is all in her face. Lib is off on a slow globe trot of world problems, while Burke is relating the major maladjustment of man's mentality (psych. to the unlearned).

"Mama" Kansteiner has our 18 pledges well in hand, and still finds time to write to Bill in Scotland. While she's doing that, Mary and her crew bring on the food and drink. We haven't had anything stronger than ginger-ale since that cider on Halloween! Grace is doing a good job on the pop corn . . . none burned so far.

Arkie sits in the corner . . . must be making plans for that June wedding, while roommate Hap talks about the out-of-town man (men). Pat also has her mind in other places, New York state to be exact.

Pat Moore is talking in a squeaky voice about something . . . must be naming all her home towns. Nesmith is discussing her recent visitor from New York . . . Bloom comes in with some little slips of paper and that look in her eye . . . must be last month's bills due.

Henri starts us out in a song . . . a D.G. tune first, but then she reverts to her favorite, "The White Star" . . . At this point Doris sticks up for the Lambda Chis and Jus has a hard time placing her loyalty.

Mary Jo starts playing the radio-vic . . . nice records Joan Beltz bought . . . everything from "Concerto in C-Sharp" to "Feudin' and A' fightin' " . . . Donna's contagious laugh floats above the music as Bobbie tells her a funny one.

The fire brings out the sparkles in Susie's ring, as she and Avie sit recalling the fun they had painting murals on the mirrors for the rush parties . . . Burns is talking about last Saturday night as Kinsey knits that last row . . . Tiller (now Mrs. Young) is off with Hubby.

Sticking her head out the door, Georgie sees the Choir Bus waiting, so the songsters leave.

Just about this time we all leave, singing in our hearts . . . "Delta G., our fraternity."

DEAR Diary:

This year has been Theta year. I hope you don't mind if I talk a little about them, because I want you to know them as well as I do.

First of all, Jan returned to be the Chapter Prexy . . . Number Two gal Prather helped the pledges (and Tallman) . . . Beano discovered other people were in Charlotte besides relatives . . . Coldwell swore she could use Psychology in knitting . . . D'Arlene didn't have to ask Santa for a "Scooter" . . . Energetic B.J. tried to get harmony from discord . . . Presh robbed piggy-banks to get change for those calls to Sumner . . . Pat babbled about Burlington Mills . . . Leni moaned about love, went on a diet again . . . Stollings mothered Brown, lost the maternal instinct when it came to Tom . . . T. Wright extended Durham hospitality . . . Marcia fiendishly counted SGA's money, almost hocked her Sigma Nu pin when she came out short (never!) . . . Temp got her curtains up just as it was time to graduate . . . "Simpleton" Becker discarded the roller skates for a red rug . . . Sis maintained college started with the Junior Class . . . Sallie (Dr. Jekyll) tried to forget "Mr. Hyde" of Baltimore . . . Martha got up at 5 for that 9:20 class . . . Hanks was getting used to black robes . . . Klenke hated the man that invented Political Science . . . Hedden grew attached to the Library steps and her Lambda Chi . . . Noble carried on as Number One party girl . . . McWhorter thought in terms of swords, shields, and "spears" . . . "Reams beams at Bill" . . . Hendricks got off campus for a day . . . Edie "crawled" her way to fame in Nereidian . . . Rushing hid from Junior Bazaar, Cosmopolitan, and the other magazines that were after her . . . Harryette's time was consumed Moe and Moe . . . Jeanne White looked for "the man" between trips . . . Lillian and Gunner enjoyed life before he celebrated the centennial . . . Fulcher proved to be the Theta "purl" at knitting . . . Lorry resembled Rembrandt . . . Madge Slaughter, the White Cross caught'er . . . Aldridge eyed the Phi Beta key . . . Happy sought a cure for "itching eyes" . . . Pressing preferred Colgate to Irium . . . Callihan casually brushed aside the men that swarmed around her . . . "Miz" Mims was constantly under a strain, she said . . . Geitner screamed "I'm through with men—again!" . . . Margie chuckled to herself, Birmingham style . . . Mary Lou asked "Really?", only to discover someone had been kidding her again . . . Alison-with-the-sunburned-face . . . Jean Ann learned the whys and wherefores of Duke life . . . "Rawhide" Ferguson was right behind her, wondering why everyday couldn't be party day.

That's the story of the Thetas, Diary, for the '47-'48 year . . . They had a new room but it contained the old familiar faces.

TAL THOMAS, President

THERE is a place beneath the earth—the home of beauty, brains, and mirth, where dwell a youthful band of ladies happy in their KD Hades . . . from the room I can see in the hallway ascending the old creaky stairs Tal, with gavel swaying, engrossed in the KD affairs . . . some laughter, and then some silence, and I know by that merry sound that Edie is holding a conference with the pledges all gathered 'round . . . a sudden rush from the hallway; Penny comes breathlessly in, she's embezzled so much money she's pawning her KD pin . . . the meeting called to order Dot reads minutes and roll, but the confusion greatly increases as the business begins to unfold . . . Betty Kuhl is a freshman adviser, if her freshmen listen, they'll soon be wiser, and if they follow Kilgo's ways they'll be doing make-up for all the plays . . . Sully, Bassett's prexy of summer school, really made them toe the rule, and Slim spends time on West's Pub Row setting reporter's hearts aglow . . . Hunter's mind is on her physics, at least she so affirms, while Nobles leads her freshmen in no uncertain terms . . . Marion gathered props on high to cop a place in Theta Alpha Phi, while Rothrock left her SAE 'til she could get a Chronicle key . . . Anna dashes to the gym to join in the Nereidian swim, and Hurley's tops at leading cheers, she has them standing on their ears . . . Tinnin as summer school beauty queen was the realization of everyone's dream . . . Lutz's fraternity pins number two, but they're from the same man, and she vows she'll be true . . . Summer has finger in every pie, and co-ed ball plans are flying high . . . Cromer is known for her smile and her song, good friends and cheer to her belong . . . Brim is another KD wheel as FAC secretary, she's sure to appeal . . . Arnold's appeal is in another direction, everything about her will pass your inspection . . . Rhudy with her friendly smile makes Social Standards rules the style, while Rankin, our Junior class scribe loses minutes on the steps of the libe . . . Liz is such a busy lass as vice president of the Junior class, and Celia with her lilting song leads the merry KD throng . . . Pat dwindles in, late, as usual, detained by her pin-up campaign; Tom follows closely behind her telling how Bob she did tame . . . Westbrook aspires to a Phi Beta key, for her, it's as simple as ABC . . . Fonvielle would rather be in style, buys Glamour, Harpers, and Vogue by the pile.

There you have each KD girl; when you see her you will know. Just take a glance 'round campus and you will surely see, any place where there's work or fun, a happy, proud KD. Our sophomores and pledges are cute as can be, don't take our word for it, come over and see, we really aren't bragging or throwing a line when we say that our KD chapter is really fine.

KAY LAUER, President

THERE'S a key to my heart, there's a key to my past . . . from the song of the same name . . . then there's the little golden key . . . symbol of the Kappa Kappa Glamour girls . . . here's hoping it unlocks the door to a wonderful future . . . do you remember the Frey dynasty? . . . when Marge said it couldn't happen to a nicer group . . . then there was our own prexy Lauer and her Thank-God-It's-Friday club . . . we could tell when the seasons changed by Speed's poison ivy . . . Aunt Harriet—we'll miss her next year . . . P.J. kept trying to think up new Social Standard's rules . . . Maggie's private pin-up which didn't affect her Phi Beta average . . . Phil's annual performance at the Bassett house sing . . . Caswell being casual about life in general . . . Marg, our Phi Delt girl, making plans for a spring marriage . . . McKennon and Hank . . . Dritt being discreet . . . Polly checking the Aycock in-and-out cards . . . Mickey leading the cheers for Duke and Sigma Chi . . . Ginny, our double for Cleopatra, wonders why everything happens to her . . . Cile's Pub Row activities and attempts at fiction . . . Barbie's extensive wardrobe . . . roommate Joannie bumming cigarettes, and being faithful to the SAE's even though it's time to give up . . . Manley not dating because she had a Pika pin . . . Betty Betts collecting silver . . . Jewell having songs dedicated to her on the radio every day . . . Dede and the garden

"I 'VE got a little Phi Mu girl way down in sunny Dixieland"—sixty of them, to be exact, and all possessed of sixty different personalities and wrapped up in sixty different interests.

Here are Patee and Hena comparing Phi Bete keys . . . Jenifer Harrison dividing her time between Jack and Ze Danse . . . Blissett sneezing . . . Betty Sue Harward of SGA parading across the stage in her black robe . . . Mitzi, Mamie, Priss, Marie, and Jim looking like angels in the Choir . . . Bobbie Blackham forgetting about Glenn when appointed business manager of the Handbook . . . Teena Wagoner hiding behind horn rimmed spectacles . . . Reynolds and Vahey proving brains can be funny . . . Reske and Tennent recuperating from big Atlanta weekend . . . Spoon telling true-blue Davis that the PiKA's are wonderful . . . Pat Hull, Thelma Klussman, Mary Norton King, and Jeanne Outlaw still favoring the blue and gold of ATO . . . Hinson and Wolf beaming over pledge from Charlotte, Anne Flinton . . . Ivy Baldwin and Kathy Bixler proudly displaying diamonds from their men of Rutgers and Carolina, respectively . . . Nancy Alberts slaving away on the CHANTICLEER . . . Dianne Forrest loves to "pahk her cah"—a Nash, that is! Jim McRae finding New York exciting—more so than Florida or Durham . . . Mitzi with a song in her heart . . . Liz, Sarah, Betty Jean, and Nina Sue waiting for the Union doors to open

. . . Jean Kelley eyeing all the pledges for basketball possibilities . . . Eloise Parker knocking herself out for Social Standards, the "Y", the sisters, and Sigma Chi . . . Busy Sandal, Jane Suggs, just knocking herself out . . . Lou Osteen clutching the Phi Mu pin while she has that "C" average . . . Joye Tilley being welcomed back to the fold . . . Dot Skene working on philanthropy project . . . Doo Seeley knitting for Bev but being friendly with Engineers . . . Jane Caldwell getting distracted from presidential duties of Junior "Y" and FAC work by thoughts of Hugh . . . Shirley Blue lending Jane support as vice president of Junior "Y" . . . Betty Baker beaming maternally over Phi Mu pledges in Giles . . . Gay proving to be a real Sister . . . Ginny and Joanne looking like twins and cute enough to eat . . . brown-eyed beauty Kay Mayhew seen with Bill Duncan . . . Betty Arrington and Anne Bronson making a cute twosome from Durham . . . Penny Barker and Patsy Heflin causing a riot in the Town Girls' room . . . Betty Woodward praying as Pat knits her first sweater . . . Mona making good grades . . . Suzanne Conoly, Ivy Watson, Joannie Sloeum, and Jane Prestwich, more Giles House beauties . . . and Mary Jane Smith mothers them all in the pledge class.

We are all as one in spirit in our efforts to make our school a better place and our group a stronger bond.

ALL hail the heavenly host—Pi Phi host that is, with archangel Carnegie tearin' the strings from her harp tryin' to keep the angels truly seraphic and cherubic, but pulceze! All too often she finds they're just her "angels in disguise"—Vice arch Sal gal Bell (they call her frivolous)—toujours true toothe Phi's and Pi Phi's; intermediary for mundane affairs, Julia Pinnix pens nebulous reams to central, transfers interest in earthly things back to Dook; scroll caller Lill George checks angels present and accounted for up in heaven, and wrecks test tubes on the campus below—you can't call your cloud your own 'til Molly Goddard has her due(s); scouter for potential party-Pi Phi's—oops—celestial wing-wearers, Mary Ann Atkins also finds time for big Blue and Navy Blue; Angel Weedie polishes merited key stars in her halo; Beauty Angel Mary Ann Duncan confuses the host by holding both harp 'n' sword and shield, while awaiting the June chimes; hard slavin' Slaven, with truly ethereal ideas on Settlement School sales—they actually work tho'; Who's Who in heaven's roster as well as Duke's and best coördinated angel in the upper realm—that's Jo Rae; good queen Bess, and angelic K.A. ROBIN VALENTINE, President

The Sigma Kappas are a versatile gang,
They start every year off with a bang!
To predict what next they will do
Use the following for your clue:

WE find B. J. Hathaway playing school "marm" . . . Anne Cato swapping Aycock for a shack a little bit south of North Carolina . . . and Wilma Roberts tightening the sisterly bond by donning Brother Ben's pin . . . Jean Brown still pinned to her Beta—poor Richard . . . Celia "Our Blanche" McElroy starring in the great Duke Players production "The Male Animal," with Alice and Mary McLeod seen around the set, and B. J. Hathaway serving as Co-ed business manager . . . Marty McAdams pinned, engaged, and with a convertible to boot . . . those two dear 'old Aycock buddies, Jo Barron and Monic Franklet (south end section, third floor, that is)—Jo, torn between her two great loves—journalism and poly sci, of course, and Monic furiously knitting argyles—for whom?? . . . "Pigtail" Blizzard, Jayne Cosby, Mary "I finally made my average" Kornfeld, and Thalia "Touche" Siaches enhancing Chapel Choir and Glee Club with their angelic voices . . . Mimi Copeland pinned to a Phi Psi—this time . . . Jean Kilmer is undoubtedly the smallest member of Pegasus . . . pledge trainer "Crack the Whip" Clardy on the loose with a diamond in her jewel box . . . Becky Burrum, writing men nad biographies of cats . . . Alice Martin and Lobo Willoughby engaged ('nuff said) . . . Ann Woodward and Pegram president, Dot Meredith, a couple of gym hermits . . . Mac Ludwig and Bev Smith taking off for New Orleans . . . Alice holding tenaciously to her name "I'll make it to meeting on time yet" Chamison . . . President Valentine being seen with the wearer of an orange sweater, thus accentuating her red hair . . . Rush Chairman Kathy Queally befuddled by Kappa Sigma as well as Sigma Kappa . . . our talented pledges, Ann Barnett and "Shep" Lambert fast becoming orientated in pub row . . . Brains Helen Mapp and Anne Smith bolstering the chapter average . . . Pan-Hel rep "Mac" Nelson turning the chem lab upside down with Lettie Lois Saylor and Mickie Streicher competing with her for the cherished title of "labby" but lovely . . . our pledge Jane Blakley already sportin' a diamond . . . and Nancy Warren always ready to pitch in and help—especially in the food line . . . "Cece" McDonnell taking the bull by the horns . . . our North Carolina "peach" Georgia Leventis and her roommate—Charlotte Best . . . those goldfish from our "Deep Sea" rush party are still kicking in many freshmen's rooms . . . we'll remember the supper after the Carolina game.

Under this outward guise of frivolity there exists among the Sigma Kappas a group united in work as well as in play.

LYNN EELMAN, President

“WITHOUT A Song” could never apply to the Zetas. If you heard someone wailing “I Wish I Had Never Met Sunshine,” it was bound to be Fran Bird or Mary Lou Shippey; or if it was “I Wish I Had A Girl Like You for SAE,” then it was probably Prexy Lynn Eelman or Beauty Queen Lindy Stivers. FAC Dunson and Walker, who sing monotone instead of soprano, knew just one song—“Georgia on My Mind”—and “Atlanta, Ga.” held a year-long attraction for Parky and Zitt.

“And the Wheels Went ‘Round and Round”: Pan-Hel President Jane Bruce and her inevitable “Did you hear about?”; and Phi Kappa Delta Emily Boyd and “I’ve got to hurry, but have you seen Don?” Southgate’s Betty Bob was always hearing “I’m confessin’ that—”

“Peg o’ My Heart” could be no one but Peg Smith. Dunson, Reap, and Rumble graduated from the “Onesie, Twosie” Class and needed adding machines to keep in order the finances of the Senior Class and the “Y,” and Zeta. Watlington could be heard warbling “Mountain Dew” when she needed inspiration for her creative writing class.

Marcia Crane is too far from home to sing “California Here I Come” very often. But Bibb has enough energy to keep up with the “Chattanooga Choo Choo.” Rusty and Bobbie, Jo and Lynn manage to bury the war between the states most of the time, but when Rusty teases “Did you eat yet,” Bobbie screams “New Jersey was never like this.” “The Last Time I Saw Paris” is still a lively topic of conversation for Joan Tate and Pat McNamee.

“Cocktails for Two” would hardly be an approved social function, but no one could object to the Pledge Dance at the Wash Duke. And open houses for the ATO’s and the cabin party were definitely approved by everyone. Corresponding secretary Reap was kept so busy that she complained that she scarcely had time to write any “Love Letters.” Sid Bunn was far too sleepy to appreciate “Carolina In the Morning.” Rush Chairman Lindy Stivers heaved a sigh of relief when at last she could say about rushing: “It’s All Over Now.” Talented pledges Lindsey and McNamee can sing “Deep Purple” in the best mountaineer fashion, so that not even the composer would recognize it. And exams, with all of us praying, “I’ll Get By.” Spring saw Lynn planning “An Apple Blossom Wedding,” and Rusty, Dot, and Jo looking forward to hearing “Manhattan Serenade.”

FOOTBALL 1947-1948

AT the beginning of the 1947 season the hopes of the Blue and White's coaches were all but bright for the coming fall. Many of Duke's outstanding players of the past season had graduated the preceding June leaving only a small nucleus of partially experienced players from which the Old Master, Wallace Wade, had to mold his team for the forthcoming season.

When All-American Clarence "Ace" Parker, who probably has been the greatest athlete ever to graduate from the University, returned as backfield coach, the Blue and White started to use again a modified mode of aerial offense for the first time in almost 10 years. In 1937 Parker was captain of the football team and All-American quarterback.

Another highlight of the past year was the new ruling by the Southern Conference that made it the last year that Freshmen could participate in Varsity Athletics. In the future they will only be allowed to play Freshman ball.

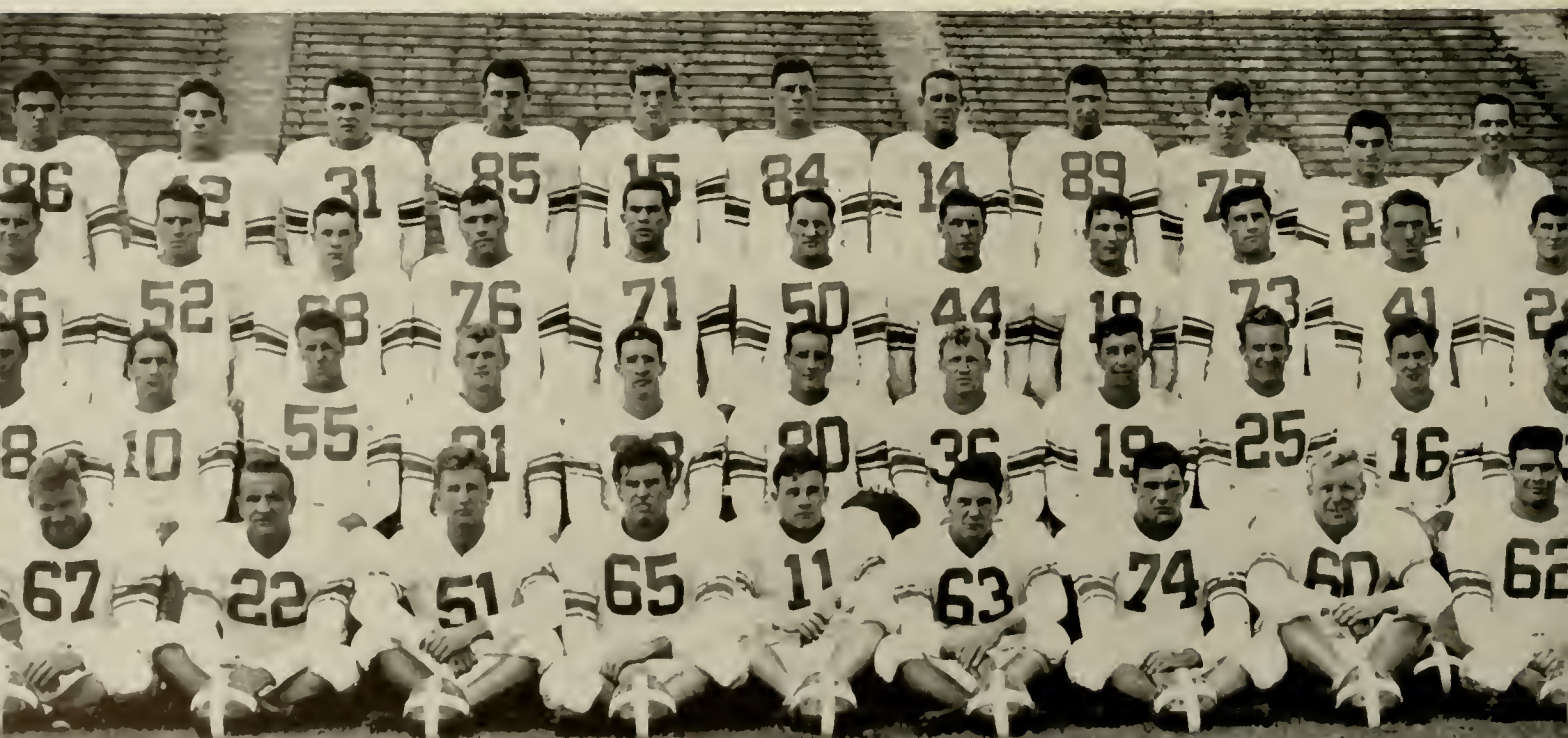

Even though the forecast of preseason results appeared to be "in the red" for the Blue Devils, they surprised even themselves with the creditable results which they kept turning in weekend after weekend, only to suffer their first defeat in their sixth game at the hands of Georgia Tech. The amazing fact still remains that on the day preceding this game they were rated as the 10th most powerful team in the nation. Another record that will go down in the books is that Duke's Freddie Folger ranked among the top three punters in the nation, and the team had the highest punting average in the country. Several of the Devil men received places and honorable mentions on the various All-American teams published throughout the nation. Thus it can be said that it indeed was a successful season from all respects.

The chief difficulty with which the coaching staff was faced was that of finding capable and suitable substitutions for their perpetually injury-riddled team. Early in the season they were confronted with the task of replacing the two starting tackles, three starting backs, and one starting end. This they did by bringing men up from the ranks and preparing them at a moment's notice. Surely it cannot be denied that both the coaching staff and the players gave their utmost of effort and coöperation and by doing so, turned in results that astounded everyone.

Wallace Wade, head football coach at Duke University, resumed his coaching career two years ago after four years in service in the second world war and with a brilliant record of victories in his career as coach. His last full season at Duke had ended with a perfect record and a bid to the Rose Bowl.

For outstanding service in the Army he received the Bronze Star Medal and the Croix de Guerre. He also has the European Theatre Campaign Ribbon with four battle stars, the American Theatre Ribbon and the World War I and World War II victory medals.

Captain Ben Cittadino and Coach Wallace Wade

Wade held his first coaching position at the Fitzgerald and Clark Preparatory School, then to Vanderbilt and in 1923 he became head coach at Alabama.

During his twelve seasons as director of football at Duke, his teams have won the Southern Conference title six times.

Director of athletics on the Duke coaching staff is Eddie Cameron. He served last year as backfield coach of the Blue Devils. This position is now taken by "Ace" Parker. Cameron, a graduate of Washington and Lee University, is one of the greatest all-round athletes ever to come from that school. Formerly, Cameron was head basketball coach, and he has won Southern Conference titles three times.

Renewing one of the greatest gridiron rivalries in the nation, the season was brought to a close by the Duke-Carolina game. The largest crowd ever to witness a regular season game in the South was present. 65,000 fans jammed Duke's spacious horseshoe stadium to see this struggle between the arch rivals of long standing. Thus another exciting and successful season of football at Duke University was brought to a close.

DUKE 7—N. C. STATE 0

ACCORDING to most magazines and newspapers, the Blue Devils were considered to have one of the weakest teams in Duke history. The real strength and spirit of the Devil aggregation, however, was a relative mystery and one which could only be solved by the Dukesters initial performance against a strong, highly-rated Wolfpack eleven. By the end of the first half of that bitter contest, Duke fans knew that whatever the Wademen lacked in skill and experience they made up for in fight. Twice the battering Wolfpack drove deep into Duke territory, once to the 8 and once to the 16, and twice a powerful Duke line held fast. Both lines, in fact, when on the defensive, exhibited a little too much power for the backs and by the end of the first half there was no score.

Duke's game-winning break came late in the last period when State, failing to gain on the ground, took to the air. State's Wetzell Bowe threw a long pass which landed in a cluster of Duke men and out of this melee emerged Louis Allen, great defensive tackle for Duke, who galloped 40 yards to paydirt. Paul Stephanz, sophomore fullback, converted and Duke thumped out its first decisive victory of the season, 7-0.

In the first game of the season, the North Carolina State Wolfpack team travelled to Durham, only to be defeated by the Duke Blue Devils, 7-0. Eisenberg (71) dashes in to aid Duncan in the tackle of a State player as State fights desperately to score against their long-time Durham rivals.

DUKE 19 — TENNESSEE 7

Duke players Viau (27) and Mulligan (10) rush in to cover a Tennessee pass receiver. Before 50,000 fans, the Vols played host to the Devils in their stadium at Knoxville, but failed to be the victors over the fighting Blue Devils from Durham. Tennessee won last year's encounter, 12-7.

BADLY crippled with injuries, but game as ever, the underrated Devils again invaded the win column by toppling a hard fighting, but outclassed, Tennessee eleven.

Early in the second quarter, Freddie Folger, who sparked the Dukes in their previous win over State, went back to kick on the Tennessee 43. Instead of kicking, Folger swept around end for 25 yards. The next four successive plays brought the ball to rest on the Tennessee one and on the next play Stephanz bucked over.

Duke scored again before the half when Lawrence Karl recovered a fumble in the end zone, making the score 13-0.

In the third period, Buddy Mulligan went through on a handoff for 57 yards and 19-0.

The Volunteers were not yet licked and recovered a fumble on the Duke 4. Becker plunged across on his second try and Sabol's conversion was good. A host of Duke reserves played the remainder of the game which ended with Duke victorious 19-7.

DUKE 14—NAVY 14

THE Dukes were denied their third consecutive victory when a powerful Middie team came back in the last 8 seconds of the ball game to effect a 14-14 tie.

After a scoreless first half which saw the Middies threaten once and Duke four times, the Devils finally drew blood. Taking over on their own 26 after halting a brief Navy drive, the Dukesters, led by Fred Folger, marched all the way in ten plays. Stephanz's conversion was good and Duke led 7-0.

Not to be beaten so easily the Middies took the ball on the kickoff to the 24 and moved the ball to paydirt after a hard drive. Navy converted, and it was all tied up at 7-7.

Midway in the final quarter the Blue Devils, after failing to score twice from Navy's 7 and 24, put themselves in the lead by a razzle-dazzle Folger-to-Austin pass which netted them 6 more and combined with Stephanz's extra point to put Duke in front 14-7. On the kickoff Ben Moore, Navy back, gave the Middies a flare when he returned the ball to the Navy 46. With several bullet passes, the Middies found themselves on the Duke one with only seconds remaining in the game. Hawkins plunged over and it was 14-13. Willis came in to kick the point, and the game went down in the books as a 14-14 tie.

The Blue Devil is not afraid of the famous Navy goat, especially when the Devil knows he is held firmly by the two Navy attendants.

On October 11 at Baltimore, Coach Hamilton and his middies played host to the Blue Devils in what proved to be the most exciting game of the season. Tommy Hughes breaks from attempted tackle by Navy man for a touchdown which was recalled because he stepped out of bounds.

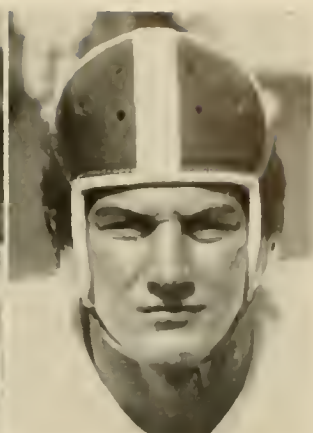

DUKE 19--MARYLAND 7

CAPITALIZING on end Jim Hardison's recovery of a Terrapin fumble on the Duke 27, the Devils, led by Stephanz, Mulligan, and Folger advanced the ball to the Maryland 14, where Folger, on a first down, dropped back to pass. Unable to get rid of the ball because of a bad pass from center, Folger raced around left end with the aid of some hard blocking teammates and went over standing up. Stephanz's placement was short and Duke led 6-0.

The Blue Devils' second score was set up in the second period when Fred Folger jumped high into the air to intercept Turyn's pass on his own 21 and then galloped 54 yards up the side line to the Terrapin 24. George Clark, out with an ankle injury since the first game, replaced Folger and returned to his old form by first smashing through the line for a yard, then hitting Buddy Mulligan with a bullet aerial good for 18 yards, and finally rounding end from the 5 for the second score. The Iron Dukes led 13-0 as the half ended.

Hughes

Maryland's lone score came late in the third period on Turyn's bullet pass to Simler from the 11. The finishing touches for a decisive Duke victory came from an intercepted pass by Tommy Hughes, and the score remained 19-7.

DUKE 13--WAKE FOREST 6

ON November 25, a spirited Blue Devil gridiron machine invaded Groves stadium, home grounds of Wake Forest College, for the Deacon's homecoming. The Baptists, riding high with four consecutive wins and without a loss on their record, were heavily favored to defeat the lighter boys from Durham. A record breaking throng of 25,000 fans looked on, and thousands were turned away as these two Southern powerhouses met.

Things looked bad for the Devils when Wake Forest took the opening kick-off and marched to the Duke fifteen, before being repulsed. The game then settled down to a battle of the lines until the Deacons scored two minutes before the end of the third quarter. Not to be denied, the Wadesmen took the kick-off and marched sixty-eight yards for the tying marker. Then, with one minute and twenty seconds left in the game, George Clark raced around his own left end from four yards out for the winning touchdown. Then the Deacons took the kick-off, and with desperation passes, moved deep into Duke territory. However, Fred Folger intercepted a Deacon pass on his two yard line and, on a sensational run, pranced to the Wake Forest eighteen where he collapsed from sheer exhaustion.

DUKE 0 — GEORGIA TECH 7

ON November 1, the unbeaten, but once tied Blue Devils rolled into old Atlanta, ready to do battle with the Yellow Jackets of Georgia Tech, rated as the best gridiron machine south of the Mason-Dixon Line. The Blue and White lost a heartbreaker that day, 7 to 0, in a game played in a steady downpour of rain on a field which resembled a river.

The Jackets scored on a lightning thrust the first time they obtained possession of the ball. Taking over on their own 37 yard line, the Wrecks marched 63 yards to the only touch-down of the day. It took a miraculous aerial catch to provide Tech with the winning margin.

Duke completely outplayed their heavily favored opponents the rest of the game, and failed to cash in on several scoring opportunities. Midway in the first quarter, the Blue Devils advanced to the Tech 3 yard line before losing the ball on downs. Again in the second quarter, the Devils missed a first down by inches on the Jacket 4-yard marker.

Fred Folger played an outstanding game at the tailback spot before retiring with a broken nose during the second period. His successor, Howard Hartley, went on to exhibit his best performance of the season.

On a rain-drenched field in Atlanta, Captain Benny Cittadino carries the ball for Duke on an end-around play. Folger (16) and Stephanz (25) race to get clear of their blockers. Georgia Tech handed the Blue Devils their first defeat of the season, and they also held Duke scoreless.

The University of Missouri's Tigers were the opponents for the Devil's Homecoming Game. Duke man Stephanz (25), spinning through, endeavors to pick up yardage for the team. The Tigers proved too powerful for the Devils and handed them their second defeat of the season.

DUKE'S Blue Devils were practically blasted out of their own stadium on November 8, when a swashbuckling bunch of Tigers from the University of Missouri, flashing offensive dynamite from the split-T formation, roared over the Blue and White by a 28 to 7 score, to spoil the feature attraction of homecoming festivities for a crowd of 30,000 spectators. Those 28 points were the most ever scored in one game against a Wade-coached Duke team.

The first quarter was scoreless, although the Devils got as far as the Missouri five yard line, but after that, the Tigers seemed to roll at will. Taking Folger's short punt and returning it to the Duke 34, the Missourians quickly scored their first touchdown.

The Devils struck back quickly, as Clark, leading a power drive for 79 yards, sped the last 14 yards around his own right end. Stephanz kicked the tying point. Missouri struck again after receiving the kickoff and was never stopped. However, Folger's 50.7 punting average was one of the highest in Duke football history.

DUKE 0—SOUTH CAROLINA 0

IN a game played in the bitter cold and a driving rain, Duke's Blue Devils and South Carolina's Gamecocks battled to a scoreless deadlock on November 15. The highly-favored Methodists, minus the services of Mulligan, Wall and Perkinson, who were out with injuries, never got their power offensive rolling, despite the fact that they once went as far as the South Carolina twelve yard line. They recovered a Gamecock fumble on the Carolina twenty, but failed to advance, and late in the fourth period, the Devils got the real break of the ball game, when Ed Austin pounced on a South Carolina fumble on the visitor's six-yard line. However, after advancing to the four, Lee Hoshall fumbled on second down, and Carolina's Woolbright recovered on the ten.

It was the typical ball game, which results from the soggy conditions of a playing field. The two big lines, living up to all advance praises, snarled back and forth at each other all afternoon and completely overshadowed the performances of the backs.

Paul Stephanz and Fred Folger were the best backfield threats for the Big Blue, while end Ed Austin played perhaps the best game of his career. Ted Marshall and Whitey Davis were other outstanding linemen.

Playing against foul weather conditions on a wet and muddy field at Duke Stadium, both Duke and South Carolina were held in an 0-0 deadlock. Herlong (18), on a reverse from Stephanz, tries to pick up yardage as Young (52) rushes in through a maze of Carolina men to assist him.

DUKE 0—UNC 21

ON November 22, Duke closed her 1947 football season by playing host to her ancient rivals from Chapel Hill, the University of North Carolina's potent Tar Heels. Performing before almost 60,000 fans, the Devils, playing a spirited game, were completely outclassed by a Carolina team which, unraveling a versatile attack behind an almost impregnable line, racked up its sixth consecutive football victory. The injury-riddled Blue Devils fought hard all day, but were simply outclassed by the more powerful Tar Heels.

The first quarter was scoreless, but the Tar Heels really started rolling in the second stanza. Sparked by their great All-American candidate, Charlie Justice, who played his best college game, the Heels scored two quick touchdowns, added a third early in the second half, and concluded the scoring with a field goal from the Duke twenty-two yard line.

After going through half their season undefeated, the Blue Devils had been defeated three weeks in a row, previous to the Duke-UNC struggle.

These two teams, with their traditional rivalry, have produced some of the most colorful and exciting games in football history. The Blue and White have the upper hand when it comes to an overall record with sixteen wins, four losses, and three ties.

Upsets in this series have been plentiful. The biggest came in 1935 when Carolina's team was headed for the Rose Bowl with an undefeated squad. After two defeats, Duke's Blue Devils returned to the headlines with one of their greatest victories—a 25-0 score over Carolina.

Justice, star Carolina player, receives a pass from fullback Walt Pupa, later proves to Duke that he lives up to name of "Choo-Choo."

Choo-Choo Justice, who failed to maintain his startling 46-47 record, had improved constantly with every game, and, at the time of the Duke-UNC struggle was rated among the nation's leaders in punting and passing. Justice, assisted by two of the nation's leading fullbacks, Walt Pupa and Hosea Rodgers, led the Tar Heels who were placed against a battered and crippled Duke team.

Thus, the 1947 Duke football season ended with a record of four wins, three losses and two ties.

ATHLETIC RECOGNITION

FROM the realm of athletic participation at Duke University, each year several players are chosen for their outstanding sportsmanship and play on the field by football coaches, sports writers and football scouts. Among those honored by places on the various honorary teams for the 1947-48 season were:

To FRED FOLGER: Honorable mention All-American; Associated Press All-Southern first team; United Press All-Southern first team; voted most valuable Duke player by his teammates. He had the second best punting average in the country.

To ED AUSTIN: Honorable mention All-American; Associated Press All-Southern second team; United Press All-Southern third team.

To WILLIAM DAVIS: Honorable mention All-American; Associated Press All-Southern second team; United Press All-Southern second team.

To AL DEROGATIS: Honorable mention All-American; Associated Press All-Southern second team.

To FLETCHER WALL: Associated Press All-Southern third team.

To LOUIS ALLEN: United Press All-Southern first team.

To ED KOFFENBERGER: Now a graduate of Duke University, he was All-American in Basketball and Lacrosse for two years. He received the Teague Memorial Award which is given each year by the Carolinas A.A.U. to the man voted by sports writers as the outstanding amateur athlete in North and South Carolina. Also voted the most valuable Duke athlete.

To JIM MCNAIR: Co-champion of the Southern Conference in Golf.

To ROGER NEIGHBORGALL: Champion of Southern Conference quarter-mile and half-mile dash. He had been invited by many of the major invitational runs in the country including the Sugar Bowl and New Orleans. He had made outstanding record in these runs.

To DOUG AUSBON: Southern Conference broad jump and 100 yard dash champion.

To the Relay Team—LORING YOUNG, BILL SCUPINE, DOUG AUSBON, and ROGER NEIGHBORGALL: Southern Conference mile relay champions. They also won the mile relay championships of Florida and Carolina relays.

To THE FOOTBALL TEAM: They had the highest punting average in the country.

THE WHITE SQUAD

COACH Bob Cox's Junior Varsity battled its way through a tough six-game schedule and emerged with another successful season this year. Besides a superb squad of men, Coach Cox had two very fine assistants who took over the reins whenever he was scouting the Varsity's opponents. Coach Carmen Falcone served as backfield coach while Coach Francis Harrison took over the forward wall.

On September 13 the Jayvees journeyed to Highpoint where they met a strong contender for the North State championship and fought to a scoreless deadlock. The Blue Imps threw up an iron defense, but due to the brevity of their practice, they were unable to generate a sustained offensive drive.

The next outing for the Imps was against State College here at Duke, October 3. A fifty-yard pass from Skipworth to Jones set up Shaffer's touchdown from two yards out, and the scoring was over. Though the score was only 7-0, it was Duke's game all the way.

On October 11 the Imps lost to Navy at Annapolis 27-20. Navy scored four times during the first half and led by an overwhelming score of 27-0 at the half, but the Imps came back fighting and reduced the margin to 20-27.

Next the Jayvees played the previously undefeated V.P.I. "B" team at Blacksburg, Virginia, and won a hard-fought, muddy game, 13-7.

Against South Carolina the Imps threw overboard the single wing and adopted Missouri's "split-T." With exceptionally good running and a line which allowed the gamecocks only thirty-eight yards, the Imps played their best game of the season.

The season's finale was a heartbreaking loss to Carolina. Although Herb Hipps caught a pass which put Duke out front 7-6, the Tar Heels pushed across another touchdown to forge ahead in the closing minutes of the game, 13-7.

BASKETBALL

WHEN Coach Gerry Gerard issued his first call for basketball practice early in November, he was faced with the problem of replacing three of the greatest stars in Duke basketball history. Gone from the powerful 1946-47 club were All American Ed Koffenberger, and All Southern Stars Garland Loftis and Bubber Seward. The only two first stringers returning were Dick Gordon and Ben Collins; and it was around these two men that Gerard began building his 1947-48 club. After trying many combinations, Coach Gerard came up with a club composed of Doug Ausbon and Ceep Youmans as the forwards, Ben Collins at center, and Dick Gordon and Frank Godfrey at the guard slots. This Duke squad, while not setting the world on fire, has given a much better showing than most Duke fans ever expected it to.

The Big Blue opened the season on December the sixth by traveling to Winston-Salem, where they encountered the strong Haines Hosiery semi-pro outfit. The Devils got off to a great start, but had to fight off a terrific last half rally before winning 64 to 55. Ceep Youmans with 19 points and Ben Collins with 17 points, led Duke to victory. Ausbon and Gordon played great floor games.

On December 13th, the Blue and White traveled to Charlottesville, Virginia, where they lost a rough poorly-officiated game to the Cavaliers, 49 to 39. Duke, minus the services of injured Gordon, fell behind in the early going, and never caught the Virginians.

The Devils opened their home schedule by coming from behind to down a scrappy band of hoopsters from Hampton-Sydney College, 59 to 45. Big Ben Collins led the Duke scorers with 15 points. Two days later the Gerard-men ran roughshod over the McCrary Eagles, a semi-pro club from Asheboro, North Carolina. Collins, Stark, Poplin, and Hughes led Duke in the 71-34 victory.

On December 19th, the Big Blue traveled to Lexington, Virginia, where they played their first Southern Conference Game, as they rolled over Washington and Lee, 72 to 59. Tommy Hughes with 18 points and Collins with 15 led Duke to victory.

Returning from Christmas vacation December 30, the men of Duke put on a terrific scoring punch to wallop Haines Hoisery 70-46, as Hughes garnered 20 points. Coach Gerard used several combinations of players, and each seemed to click with percision as Duke continued to run up high scores on her opponents.

On January 3, Duke entertained the Tennessee Vols in an exciting game in the indoor stadium, and the boys from Knoxville walked off with a 62 to 58 victory over the Devils.

On January 5, the Dukes met and defeated the University of Maryland in Durham, 53 to 42 as Collins led the offense with 12 points. The next day Davidson pulled a big upset by downing the Devils 44 to 42 in an exciting battle in Winston Salem. Duke was decidedly off form.

Two days later the Devils were playing before almost 19,000 fans in New York's Madison Square Gardens. Here the Gerardmen fell before a potent New York University 77 to 56. Ben Collins, Duke center, was very much off form, scoring only one point during the entire skirmish. N. Y. U.'s Don Fourman pumped 35 points through the nets.

Two days later Duke stopped off in Philadelphia Convention Hall to play the Temple Owls. Despite Collin's 25 points, the Devils were edged, 58 to 54, by Temple in a hard fought exciting game.

On January 14 the Dukesters returned home,

Geep Youmans and the rest of the Duke five try to defeat George Washington University, but they are finally overpowered 48-47.

In a mid-January game with Clemson, Scarborough of Duke gets ball from Clemson (20) as Duke men Gordon, Wallingford, and Godfrey join the battle. In the same game Ausbon (10) jumped for the ball, and Martin (12) and Hughes (9) wait to receive. Clemson was defeated 80-47.

where they lost their fourth consecutive tilt, this time to George Washington 48 to 47. This game, one of the most exciting ever played in the Duke gym, was not decided until the last 20 seconds, when George Washington converted a free throw. Then, with one second left to play, Duke's Bill Martin missed a free throw and chance to tie the game. Ben Collins secured 21 points to lend the Duke losing cause.

Two days later Duke ended her losing streak by walloping Clemson College 80 to 47. Youmans, Gordon, and Hughes led the Duke scoring parade, while Coach Gerard used a total of 16 men in the easy victory.

Taking time out from exams, the Blue Devil cagers entertained V. P. I. on January 24, and walked off with a 52 to 45 victory in a very uninteresting, slow game.

On February 4, the Gerardmen traveled to Annapolis where they engaged the midshipmen from the Naval Academy. Navy rallied near the close of the first half and slowly pulled away to win by 56 to 46. Duke missed 14 shots from the foul line, enough to assure victory had Devil hoopsters sunk them. On the way home the Big Blue stopped off at Williamsburg, Va. where they stopped the William and Mary Indians 45 to 36. Duke, led by Ceep Youmans, took a big lead early and was never headed.

On Saturday, February 7, the Gerardmen journeyed to Chapel Hill for the first meeting of the year with Carolina's Tar Heels. 'Doped to lose by at least 10 points to the White Phantoms, the Devils surprised everyone by outclassing their rivals completely for the better part of the game, only to fold up after Hughes fouled out, and lose the exciting contest 48 to 42. Collins gathered in 18 points for the Devils and Dick Gordon played a great floor game.

On February 10, the Blue Devils practically assured themselves a bid to the Southern Conference Tourney by edging Wake Forest 47 to 45 in a thrilling ball game. Collins and Gordon again were the big guns for Duke.

Duke then roared ahead to lose to State by only one point, to defeat Carolina, and to reach the finals against State in the Tournament.

Every player needs relaxation, as basketball stars Dick Gordon, George Godfrey, and Ben Collins prove in a friendly game of cards.

TRACK

THE 1947 Blue Devil Track Team made a splendid record in track events, by winning three out of six dual meets, taking second place in the Southern Conference, winning the relay event in the Florida relays, and taking second place in the Penn Relays. The team was built around Doug Ausbon and Roger Neighborgall, sensational track men with a score of excellent records to their name.

Ausbon was high scorer for the second consecutive year, and Neighborgall was second. During the course of the season no new records were established by the Blue Devils. The team was coached by Bob Chambers, and Neighborgall was captain. William Robinson was manager. Letter winners for the year were D. Ausbon, R. Bowles, J. Colvin, P. Dunham, R. Gardinier, R. Gardner, L. Jackson, C. James, R. Neighborgall, L. Scioscia, B. Scupine, J. Spearman and L. Young.

On March 24, getting their season off to a big start, the Blue Devils captured their first meet against U. S. C. by 75 to 51, in spite of the wet track and wind. Duke won top honors in the following track events—the 220 low hurdles, 120 high hurdles, the half-mile run, the 220 yard dash, the two mile run, the 100 yard dash, the 440 and the mile run. In the field events, Duke placed first in the pole vault, broad jump, discus, high jump, shot put and javelin. The two outstanding performers of the day were Ausbon and Gardinier; Ausbon had three firsts—the broad jump, the 100 yard dash, and the high jump; Gardinier, the discus throw, the two mile run and the shot put.

Roger Neighborgall, as usual, won the quarter mile and half mile run.

Traveling to Gainesville, Florida, for the Florida Relays on March 29, the Dukesters won the relay event with Young, Scupine, Ausbon, and Neighborgall. They also copped three other firsts in the meet—the broad jump, javelin, and sprint medley relay.

In the U. N. C. Relays, Duke finished third behind Carolina and N. C. State. The cinder-men from Durham gathered five firsts—the mile relay, the sprint relay, broad jump, the 440 and the high jump. Colvin took honors in the high jump in a three way tie for first, Ausbon cleaned up in the broad jump and the three relay teams won the sprint medley, the mile relay and the 440 yard relay.

To open the 1947 home track season Dukesters played host to the Wolfpack from State. Duke emerged victorious in their second dual meet, 17 $\frac{1}{3}$ to 51 $\frac{2}{3}$. Doug Ausbon was, without a doubt, the outstanding performer of the day, gathering 15 $\frac{2}{3}$ points from the 100 yard dash, high jump, 220 and the broad jump. The biggest upset of the day came when Dick Gardinier threw the sixteen pound shot 44'10" to win the event. In the previous week he had been beaten by Jim Byler of State. Up to this point in the meet, at the end of eight events, Duke had led by only three points. Other events and their winners were: the mile run, Spearman; javelin, Dunham; the high jump, Colvin; the 880, Neighborgall, and the pole vault, in which Bowles, Colvin, and Jackson, all of Duke, tied for first.

Chambers' track men made a wonderful record in the next meet with Virginia. They took nine first places and grand slammed four events—the pole vault, shot put, quarter and half mile. Doug Ausbon was again the leading scorer with twelve points to his credit, followed closely by John Colvin who had ten.

In the Carolina A.A.U. Duke placed third; again behind Carolina and State. They received top honors in the javelin, discus and pole vault.

Franklin Stadium in Philadelphia was the scene of the Penn Relays where Duke's relay quarter copped second place in the class B college mile. Army came in first and Manhattan third.

Ausbon again led Duke for the third time as top scorer, with $12\frac{1}{4}$ points in the Duke vs. Georgia Tech. meet. Captain Neighborgall was one point behind Ausbon with $11\frac{1}{4}$. In spite of the final score, $76\frac{3}{4}$ to $54\frac{1}{4}$, Neighborgall turned in a brilliant performance. Even though there was a driving rain, he completed the quarter mile in 49.6 seconds, later running the half mile in 1:58 and then running anchor man in the mile relay.

Duke lost in its battle against U. N. C., 83 to 48 with Neighborgall the leading scorer for the Devils. He accumulated ten points by winning the 440 and 880. Other firsts which Duke won in the meet were the 100 yard dash, the pole vault, and the mile relay.

In the Navy vs. Duke meet, Navy was victorious, 98 to 34. Duke had four out of twelve firsts with Neighborgall winning the 440, Ausbon the 220, Jackson the pole vault and Gardinier the discus.

The four leading contenders for the Southern Conference emerged almost as expected in the final results with Carolina the winning team by 83 points, Duke second place, 42 points, Maryland third, 26½ points, and N. C. State with 26 points. Duke winners and their events were: Neighborgall, the 440, Ausbon, the 100 yard dash, Neighborgall, the half mile, Ausbon, the broad jump, Young, Scupine, Ausbon and Neighborgall in the mile relay and Jackson in a four-way tie for first place in the pole vault. Ausbon had scoring honors with 15¼ points, with Neighborgall following closely behind with 11¼ points.

In the 1947 pre-season eye opener the Southern Conference Invitational Indoor Meet at Chapel Hill, Duke's wing-footers bowed to the University of North Carolina. Their team was led by Chunk Simmons. Duke's adept middle distance star, Roger Neighborgall, again turned in a top performance by aiding in establishing a new Southern Conference record for the sprint medley relay by running a fast half mile anchor leg of that event. He came back to the boards fourteen minutes later to win the Southern Conference crown in the half mile.

Although this year's team was not as good as the '46 team, it was comprised of several of the stars from the year's team, and the other men improved rapidly throughout the season. This can be seen by the accumulative results of the team. Ausbon, coming straight from the basketball court, without practice, won the broad jumping events throughout the season. During the course of the '47 season the Duke relay team was beaten only twice by Army in the Penn Relays and by Navy in a dual meet.

In addition to the honors copped in his participation on the Duke track team, Roger Neighborgall participated in the 1948 New Year's Day Sugar Bowl events in New Orleans, and also he will appear in several A.A.U. competitions in N. Y. and in various other cities in the U. S. He expects to try out for the Olympic team some time this summer. Roger's record proved him to be such an outstanding track man that he was Track Coach for Durham High this year.

In order to complete the well rounded facilities for their athletic plant last year, Duke added an outdoor wooden track.

Red Lewis' 1948 spring track squad attended the Florida Relays in Gainesville, Florida on March 26. Coach Lewis said that the outstanding strength of the Duke aggregation lay in the middle distances. The squad was also strong in the field event. Fifteen men from the Methodist Flats participated in the Florida outing.

1948 will probably see the Duke cinder path boys in excellent condition as they face a difficult season. Captain of the 1948 team is Loren Young, star middle distance runner for the Duke track team. Young has been particularly outstanding in the 440 yard dash but has participated in the 220 yard dash and was a member of the crack mile relay team which copped the Southern Conference title two years in a row.

The '47 mile relay team consisted of Roger Neighborgall, Doug Aushon, Bill Scupine and Loren Young. Besides their many individual honors, these track veterans collectively won the first mile relays in the Florida Relays, the Carolina Relays and the Southern Conference outdoor meet.

BASEBALL

SNOW covered the ground, but Coach "Colby Jack" Coombs still issued the calls for baseball practice early in February, and he was greeted by a huge turnout of over 150 aspirants for the 1947 Duke University baseball nine. Among this group of hopefuls were 14 lettermen, including Bob Houghton, one of the all-time great pitchers in Duke history.

After several weeks of indoor work, the boys moved outside, where Coombs began cutting the squad and building a team which at the end of the season was ranked with the best college baseball teams in the nation. Led by Houghton, George Clark, Henry Smith, "Bakie" Palmer, and Ed McCarthy, the Blue and White marched to the Big Four Championship, and turned down a bid to the National Intercollegiate Baseball Tourney, which was held during the summer.

The Devils began their season on the road during spring vacation. Their first game was on March 24 against Davidson, and the Coombsmen blasted the Wildcats by a 13-7 score. The pitching chores were divided by Casey, Stevenson, and Houghton, with Stevenson getting credit for the victory, Falwell and Palmer led the Duke batting attack.

The next day the Blue Devils continued their slugging by blasting Wofford College to the tune of 17 to 8. Chuck Wimbrow and Henry Smith hit homers, and Dick Strauch got credit for the victory.

Columbia, South Carolina, was the next stop, and the Devils met their first defeat, 10 to 5, at the hands of South Carolina. The next day Duke lost to Clemson, 10 to 9, only to get revenge on the following day, 13 to 11, as Bud Ayers, sensational freshman outfielder, clouted two home runs. John Falwell also collected a homer for the Blue Devils. This was the first defeat of the year for the Clemson Tigers.

Returning to Durham, the Dukesters plastered a visiting Villanova team 11 to 6 behind the excellent pitching of Brandon Davis, a freshman starting his first college game. The Blue Devils scored 7 runs in the eighth inning to win the contest.

The next day Michigan State won a 12 inning, 4 to 2 victory over Coach Coombs' men. Little Dick Strauch, starting his first game, went the entire distance and pitched his heart out. McCarthy and Ayers led the Duke attack.

Ohio University was the next opponent, and the Devils blanked the visitors 2 to 0 with Harold Stevenson getting credit for the win. Frey and D'Alonzo were the leading batting men for Duke.

On April 4th, The Ohio University boys turned the tabs on Duke by winning 10 to 5—scoring 5 runs in the 10th inning to break a 5—all tie.

The next day Duke traveled to Chapel Hill, where the Tar Heels won the first of four games between the two schools. Frey's triple and double were all in vain as the Blue Devils went down in defeat, 8 to 2.

Second row: Ayers, M.; Siers, C.; Taylor, B.; Cline, A.; Falwell, J.; Erickson, S.; Elliot, B.; Lindsay, H.; Strauch, D.; Karukstis, P.; Frye, B. Third row: Coombs (Coach), Lapp, B.; Plosica, B.; Shevick, J.; Miller, F.; D'Alonzo, A.; Casey, T.; Davis, B.; Lucas, C.; Kiley, T.; Dameron, J.; Phillips, A. (Manager).

Returning home, Duke lost another game, this time by 3 to 2 to Virginia. Paul Karukstis went the route for Duke and gave up 10 hits. Slugging Al D'Alonzo collected 3 hits in 4 trips to the plate to lend Duke's losing cause. Michigan made it four straight defeats the next day by edging the Devils 4 to 3. Strauch again went the distance on the hill only to lose another.

On April 9th the Devils ended their losing streak by defeating Cornell 4 to 1. Cy Mathe-son was in rare form, giving up only 4 hits.

On April 12th Duke defeated Wake Forest's slugging Deacons 4 to 2 before over 3,000 fans in Coombs park. Houghton went the distance for Duke, and Art Vann led the Devil hitters with 2 for 4.

On April 18th the Coombsmen edged Carolina, 5 to 4 in a thrilling 11-inning game pitched by Bob Houghton. Henry Smith, with 3 for 4, including a home run, led Duke's attack. Houghton scored the winning run in the 11th, after leading off with a lusty double.

The next day the Devils traveled to Raleigh, where they were blanked 5 to 0 by North Carolina State. Frye and Ayers were the only two Duke men to get hits off of State's Curt Ramsey.

Bobby Baker, who was the bat boy for the 1947 baseball team, is the grandson of President Robert Flowers and son of Dr. Lenox Baker.

Baseball games attract a large crowd of East and West campus students to Duke Park throughout the Spring. Athletic books cover admission. Games have been held at the Park since it was built in 1931. Before that time all games were held in Haines Field on the Women's Campus.

Ed McCarthy, Catcher

The Blue Devils next defeated Wake Forest, by a 4 to 2 score behind the sterling 7-hit pitching of Dick Strauch.

North Carolina State made it two in a row for the Duke nine the next day, by winning 6 to 5 with two home runs in the eighth and ninth innings. Houghton was charged with the loss.

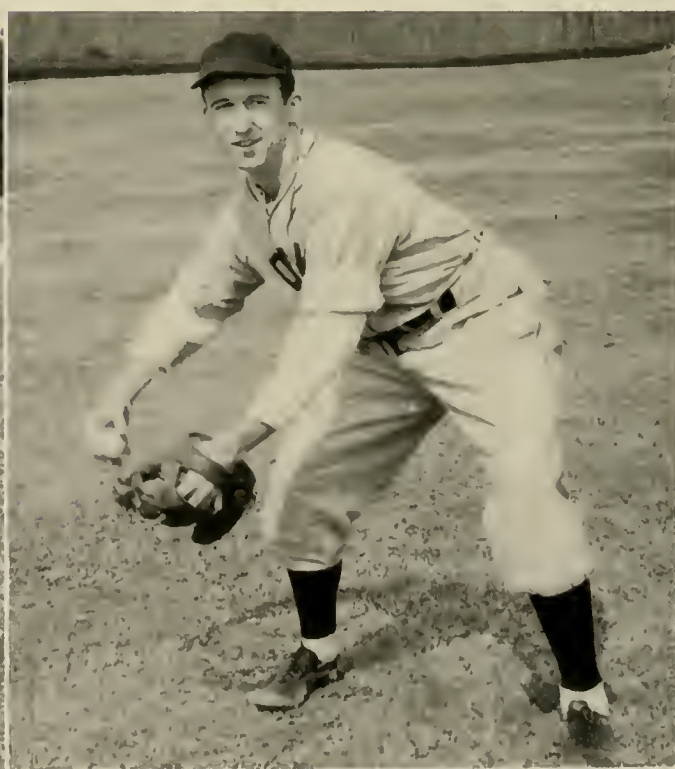

On April 26, a proud Naval Academy team bowed to the Blue Devils 6 to 1 as Paul Karukstis pitched a beautiful 4-hit game. McCarthy and Falwell led the Duke attack.

On May the 1st and 2nd, South Carolina invaded Methodist Flats, and lost two games to the Devils, 11 to 5, and 6 to 4. George Clark, Henry Smith, and Art Vann were the leading sluggers for Duke in these two victories. Duke won her fifth consecutive victory on May the sixth by slaughtering Davidson, 13 to 6. Smith, Clark, and McCarthy led the 16-hit Duke attack. The next day, North Carolina State put an end to the Duke win streak by defeating the Devils for the third consecutive time, 8 to 5. The Coombsmen secured only 5 hits and committed 7 errors.

18th, and when the fire works were over, Duke had won 8 to 5 with slugging George Clark leading the attack.

Two days later Duke traveled to Wake Forest where they defeated the Deacons for the 4th consecutive time. Ed McCarthy, with 4 hits, led Duke in her 12 to 8 victory. The next day Duke walloped Carolina in a 15 to 7 victory as Bob Houghton pitched great ball. Clark, Vann, D'Alonzo, and Falwell led the 14-hit Duke attack.

Three days later, on May 17th, Duke's Blue Devils won the Big Four Championship, by again defeating the Tar Heels, 7 to 2. Houghton relieved Karukstis and saved the game and championship for Duke. Clark, Falwell, D'Alonzo, and Frye, each with two hits, led the Blue Devil attack.

Second baseman Jerry Frye reached the top of the Big Four batting race in the early part of May with a .476 average—55 points higher than his closest competitor.

spite the loss of Bob Houghton and Bakie Palmer. On hand again are Dick Strauch and Paul Karukstis, who saw much service on the hill last year, and Jim Hopkins, veteran moundsman of the 1945-46 teams who left school with eye trouble last spring. Also returning are Al D'Alonzo, Stu Erickson, Jerry Frye, Bob Lapp, George Clark, Bud Ayers, Red Lucas, Johnny Falwell, Henry Smith, Cy Matheson, Brandon Davis, Carl Lindsay, and others. Not much is known of the freshmen prospects, but Tom Powers and Rem Lane have recommendations from major league scouts.

With this wealth of material, there is little wonder that this year's baseball nine is the pre-season favorite to win the National Intercollegiate Championship.

Coach Jack Coombs, who was at one time one of Connie Mack's ace pitchers, draws on years of experience when showing Duke's diamond men how to burn them in. With a successful record behind him, he is anticipating another good season this year.

GOLF

FIELDING one of the nation's best teams, Coach "Dumpy" Hagler's golfers took top honors in the '47 campaign.

With lettermen Bruce Davis and Captain Frank Garrett returning to form the nucleus of the squad, the Blue Devil linksmen not only outclassed their opponents in the regular season, but they copped the Southern Intercollegiate championship held at Athens, Georgia. Rounding out the squad, in addition to Davis and Garrett were: Fletcher Wall, Art Wall, Claude Long, Jim McNair, and Bailey Glenn.

The Blue and White team, showing amazing consistency, zipped through the seven-game season without dropping a single match; the victories included a 7-2 conquest of Penn, a $5\frac{1}{2}$ - $3\frac{1}{2}$ triumph over Navy, and a $18\frac{1}{2}$ - $8\frac{1}{2}$ victory over Carolina. Also losing to the Duke team were the other Big Four members—N. C. State and Wake Forest.

Although beating the Carolina golfers by three strokes to take the Southern Intercollegiate championship, the Duke team was the victim of a U. N. C. upset victory in the Southern Conference tournament held in Winston-Salem. Doeschler of North Carolina shared the individual honors of the tournament with McNair of Duke.

ALTHOUGH the 1947 edition of the Duke tennis team enjoyed only mediocre success, it gave promise of developing into a top-notch aggregation in the '48 season.

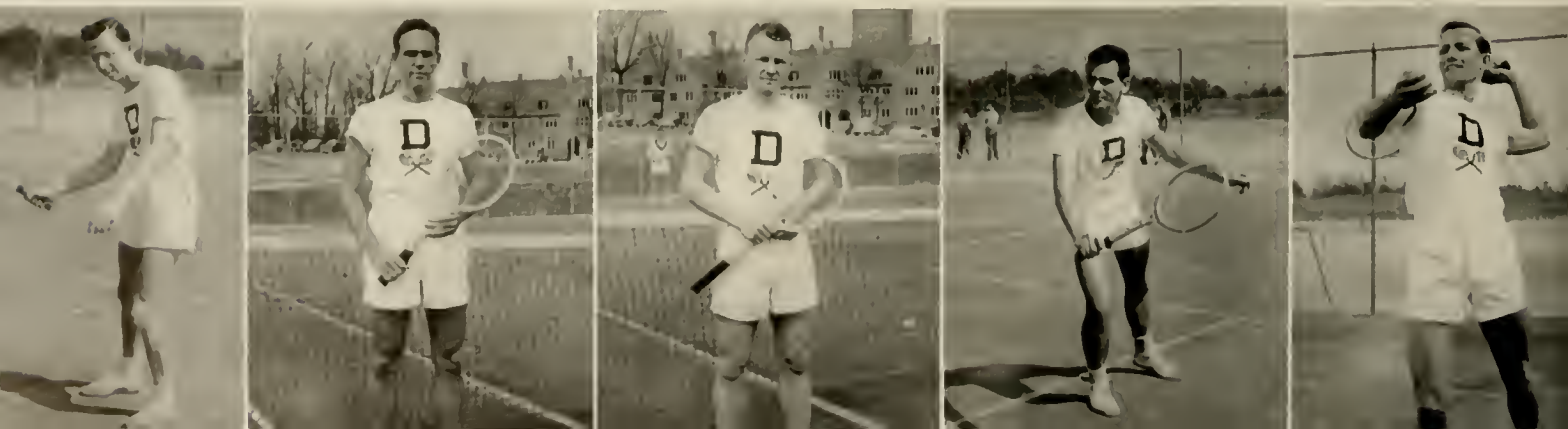

Getting off to a slow start, the team finally caught a winning spark and managed to cop several victories including wins over such teams as Wake Forest, N. C. State, and Navy.

After early season losses to Kalamazoo and Haverford Colleges, the Blue Devil netters bounced back to defeat Colgate University in a close match by a 5-4 score. In a match with the Wolverines of Michigan, the Duke team managed to take only one of nine matches, with Lew McMasters registering the lone Blue Devil victory. Traveling to Chapel Hill, Coach Cox's netmen could win but one match from the powerful Tar Heels. This was a victory in the doubles play by Ed Davis and Bob Chapman. Engaging the N. C. State team in Raleigh, the Blue Devils won easily by a smashing 9-0 score.

Also included in their list of victories were wins over the University of Richmond and Presbyterian.

SWIMMING

IN the 1948 swimming campaign, eight lettermen returned to strengthen the squad—Bill Adams, a highly dependable performer in past seasons and one of the top free-style swimmers in the East, Jim Stockslager, Ken Saturday, Gene Burrell, Rick Bronson, W. A. Brackney, Paul Gubbins, and Rex Neeley.

The greatest attraction of the 1948 meets was the initial intercollegiate appearance of John Conner, Duke's freshman diving sensation. In the Duke-University of Florida meet on January 17 at Durham, Conner set a record in diving competition with a score of 109.63 individual points, but the University of Florida won a close meet over the Dukesters, 42-33.

The Army's Cadets topped the Devilfish, 51-24, and a highly rated Yale team, led by record performers, defeated the Blue and White, 58-17.

The Devilfish had seventeen representatives entered in the annual Southern Conference meet scheduled at Chapel Hill for March 5 and 6. Carolina's swimming team, with a rating among the top three swimming teams in the country, was the favorite to retain their championship, while Duke was expected to fight it out with N. C. State for runner-up honors.

Conner (Duke), 1947 National High School Diving Champion, meets Jeuter (U. of Va.), 1947 National Prep School Champion.

Toward the latter half of its season, the Duke Swimmers pointed toward the Eastern Intercollegiate Tournaments which were also held in March.

A promising note for the 1949 season of the swimming team is the fact that fifteen of the seventeen man entry will return.

WRESTLING

CARMEN FALCONE, Coach of the Blue Devil wrestling team, was a proud man on January 17, for on that date his grunt and groan carpullers had surprised everyone with a sensational 19 to 6 victory over Maryland's Old Liners, who only the night before had defeated N. C. State by a 20-6 score. Not much had been expected of the Duke squad, but Falcone's charges gave notice that they would be hard to beat. In the Maryland match, Captain Mike Kusturiss, Wamsley, Harrison, Heiss, and Billmier won their matches for the Blue Devils. Kusturiss, who has lost only two matches in his college career, one of them by one point to the National Intercollegiate champ, looked sensational in his easy victory over his Maryland opponent. Jack Wamsley, sensational freshman from Oklahoma, ran up a huge score on his opponent, but could never keep him on the mat long enough to pin him. Howard Heiss, Duke's heavyweight who had never lost a match in college competition, almost pinned his man, but barely escaped the same fate in the third period before winning a 5 to 4 decision.

On February 3 the Blue Devils, badly crippled due to the loss of several starters, traveled to Raleigh where they met N. C. State. Entering the 165 pound match, the Devils led by 14 to 3. However, the Terrors took the last three matches to tie Duke 14-all. Wamsley continued his great work by pinning Martin of State twice. Kustruiss also won with ease.

On February 7, the men of Falcone traveled to Atlanta, Ga. where they met and walloped the Engineers by a 26-6 score. Kusturiss and Wamsley again were the most outstanding men for the Blue Devils.

On February 11, Bill Kemp, from North Carolina, racked up a fall in the unlimited weight to give them a 14-12 wrestling victory over Duke. Duke was leading by 12-9 in points going into the last match, but Kemp pinned Blue Devil Heiss after two minutes and twelve seconds of the second period. This match was Heiss' first loss in college competition.

At the time the year book went to press, the Blue Devil matmen, on the basis of their record, has assumed the role of favorite to cop the Southern Conference crown.

IN its second year of post-war play the Blue Devil soccer team, led by Captain Bill Kalkbrenner, came through with a successful record of four wins, two losses, and one tie. The team was ably coached by Coach K. C. Gerard and Dr. James T. Cleland of the Divinity School.

Starring on defense for the Devils were Walt Jakob, Bill Kalkbrenner, Jack Edwards, and Shin Tanaka, while "Chico" Craniotis and "Rod" Rigioni were leading sharpshooters in the scoring. Rigioni was one of the highest scorers in the country. The Devil goalies were Stuart Erickson, Seymour Clark and Harry Thommen. Thommen, who came out at mid-season, turned in an outstanding performance. Others in the starting lineup were Al D'Alonzo, George McGinnis, Arne Rostad and Scott Wheaton. Jack Heller, John Lau, John Spitz, Roy Alexander and Al Bitker also earned letters. Jacques Beaumont handled the managerial duties for the team.

On glancing at the home-towns of the players one might think that our Blue Devils were representing the League of Nations. There were players from Switzerland, Puerto Rico, Honduras, Trinidad, Japan, Norway and Turkey.

The season got under way Oct. 10 at Charlottesville where the Devils played the University of Virginia to a 3-3 tie. On October 15 they journeyed to High Point where they swamped the Panthers 6-0. Then came Navy at Annapolis on October 22, and the Devils tasted their first defeat. They were unable to score against the "Middies," who won 3-0.

The Duke booters met Carolina twice during the season. The first game was October 28 at Chapel Hill where the Tar Heels came out winners 7-2. But on November 12, the Devils came back to take the second game 3-1.

The Devil's last two games were played at Duke against High Point College and the University of Virginia. On November 5 they beat High Point College 9-2, and on November 14 they closed the season by trouncing Virginia 7-1. After these last games, Duke was rated as the best team in the South.

DUKE UNIVERSITY's cross country runners met seven opponents in the regular 1947 cross country campaign. In addition to the individual teams encountered by Duke's harriers, the schedule included the Southern Conference meet in Raleigh on November 17. The chances for outstanding success by Coach H. M. "Red" Lewis' Dukes were conceded to be very slim at the outset of the past year. In spite of these pre-season predictions, the cross country team did very well in every meet in which they entered.

The hard-running Duke harriers were defeated in each of their first two contests when they met two strong opponents in the Cadets of West Point and the fleet Maryland team. To the Army on October 10, the Dukesters lost by the score of 45-15, and on October 18 the Blue Devil team was beaten by the same score at Maryland.

The team's next attempt resulted in a 28-28 deadlock with the Midshipmen of the U. S. Naval Academy at Annapolis on October 25.

The Navy team alternated with Duke in placing runners across the finish line which resulted in the tie score.

Duke's first victory of the season came at Atlanta where the Devils whipped a strong Georgia Tech team 26-30. The Duke team, on the following week was defeated by the highly rated Tar-Heels of North Carolina, 20-36. The Blue and White then ran to victory over another non-conference foe, Virginia, 20-43 on November 7. On N. C. State's 4.1 mile course, the team was beaten by a small margin, 27-29. Duke ended its cross country season in a blaze of glory in the Southern Conference meet. Here, the Blue and White team garnered third place over a field of strong contenders.

The 1947 cross country team consisted of Roger Neighborgall, who was captain, Ollie Kendrick, Bob Strickland, Henry Bullock, James Crook, Loren Young, Jim Spearman, and John Ellsworth. The team was coached by H. M. "Red" Lewis.

DUKE'S 1947 lacrosse team, in spite of its rather mediocre record of 3 wins and 6 losses, was still ranked as the best in the South—south of Baltimore, that is.

Led by Ed Koffenberger, Tom Pettit, Lee Hoshall, and Jim Corrigan, the Blue Devil stickmen opened the season on April 5 in Duke stadium against Maryland, only to receive an 11 to 3 walloping from the Old Liners, whom the Devils had beaten the year before in the greatest upset in lacrosse history.

The Devils hit the victory trail two days later as they came from behind to topple Penn State 5 to 3.

On April 12, the nation's No. 1 team, Johns Hopkins, invaded Methodist Flats and handed the Devils a 12 to 3 drubbing. Leading by only one point in the last quarter, the team of All-Americans scored eight goals to ice the contest.

The Blue and White won her second victory of the season in her next outing, by coming from behind to stop Washington and Lee 5 to 3.

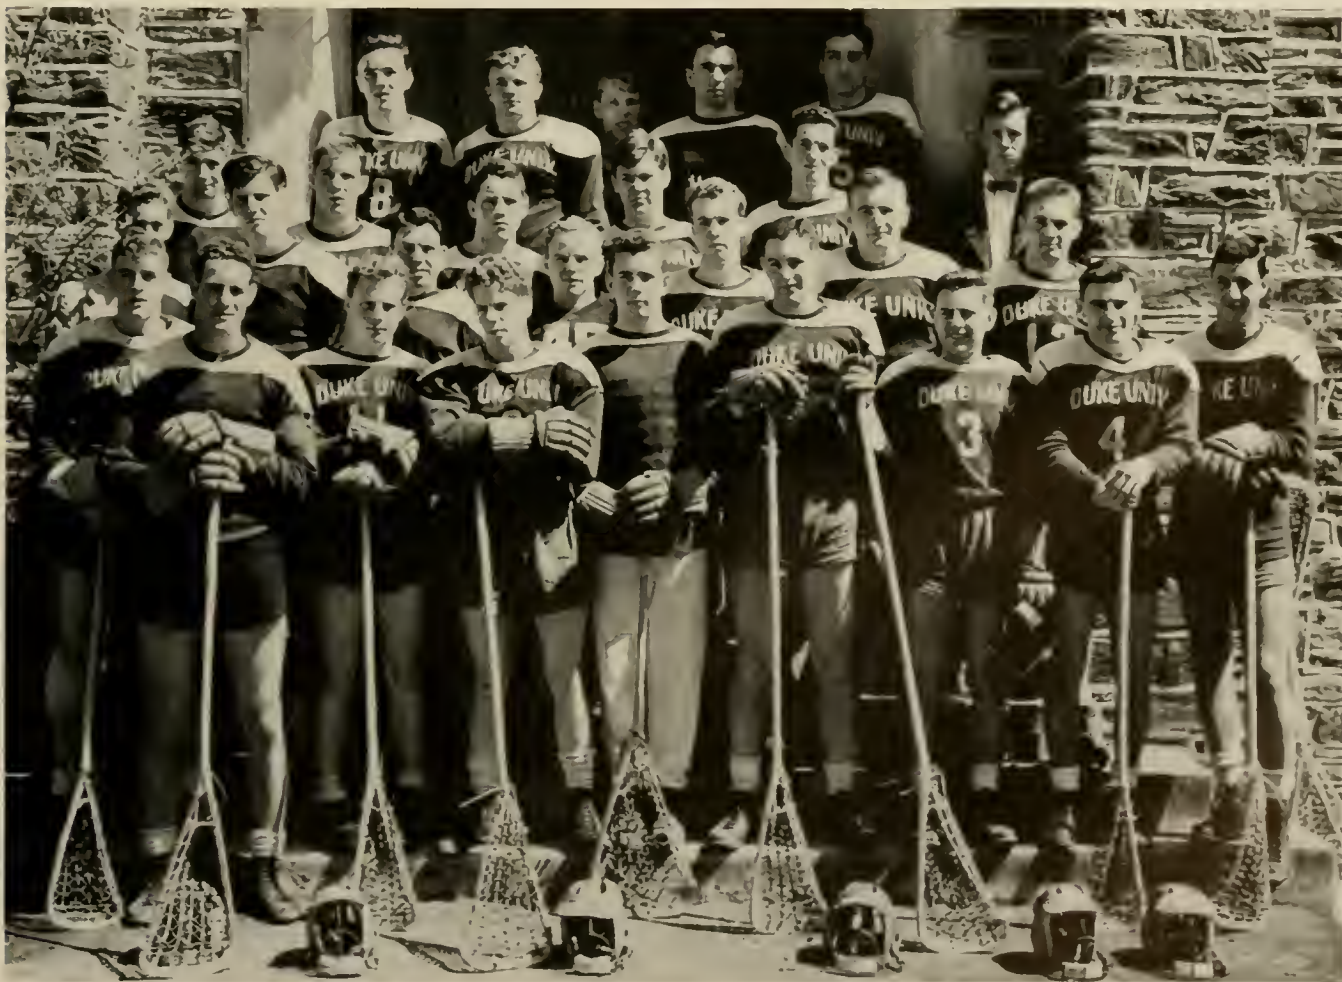

The Blue Devils then left on a northern trip, where they met and lost to Yale, 5 to 4, Princeton, 12 to 5, Army, 14 to 6, and Navy, 10 to 4.

On May 10, the Dukesters returned home to close their season with a 7 to 2 triumph over Loyola of Baltimore.

Jim Corrigan, Duke's early season high scorer, was injured in the Penn State game, and never reached top form. This was a severe blow to the Devils, but such men as Captain Tom Pettit, Lee Hoshall, Howard Heiss, Warren Huntsinger, Bobby Hermance, and Ed Koffenberger gave the boys from Durham a lacrosse team which was much more powerful than its record showed.

As the book went to press, the 1948 team was showing great promise, having won two games, lost one and predicting to only lose two more the rest of the season. The team was strengthened by such players as Hoshall, Heiss, Tubbs, Gene Corrigan, Moriarty, Eisenbrandt, Strott, and other valuable players.

INTRAMURALS

EVER since the return of organized Intramural Athletics after the end of the war great interest was shown by Duke students to put Intramural Athletics in its rightful place of prominence in campus activities. This has been possible only through the hard work of the Intramural Board, managers, officials, and the general student body. The variety of sports and degree and spirit of competition of Intramural Athletics on the Duke campus ranks among the highest of all universities in the country.

Under the direction of Ted Villanueva, Senior Intramural Manager, and Coach K. C. Gerard, Director of Intramural Athletics ably assisted by Coach Jack Coombs, facilities and tournaments were set up for touch football, cross country, soccer, basketball, volleyball, wrestling, boxing, swimming, track events, golf, badminton, tennis, handball, horseshoes, and softball. Handsome trophies were presented to the winners and runners-up in each division. The fraternity, independent group organization that compiles the most number of intramural points throughout the year receives a huge trophy which may be kept throughout the following college year. This trophy may be retained permanently if an organization should win it for three successive years. A permanent trophy is also awarded each year to the individual getting the most intramural points.

In one of the closest, hardest-fought touch football seasons in Intramural history, the Kappa Alpha fraternity became victorious. The Sigma Chi's were their closest competitors and were eliminated only after a playoff game in which there was no score; but the KA's had deeper penetrations into enemy territory—the system devised by the Intramural Board to decide playoff games that ended in a tie. The KA "A" team and KA "B" team, winners in their respective division, fight it out for the championship. The "A's" won, 13-0.

The KA and Kappa Sigs play a game of touch football for the high place in the division. The KA's triumph over the Kappa Sigs 6-0.

KA(A) team beat a gallant Delta Tau Delta team paced by Bob Lapp, 6-2, to enter the finals of the university playoff. The KA(B) team defeated freshman house "M" to enter the finals against their "big" brothers. In the game of fraternity brothers (the first of its kind in intramural playoff history), the "varsity" led by Harvey Hinnant, John Crowder, and Seth Vining emerged victorious.

Under the management of Sandy Worthington, first-place winner in the fall intramural cross-country meet, House M has completely dominated freshmen intramural athletics. Besides winning the university cross-country championship, it won both the freshmen football and basketball championships. Never before has a freshman house so dominated intramural athletics.

As usual the fall tennis tournament was won by a freshman John Ross, who defeated John Tapley in the finals. Both these men represented the Naval R.O.T.C. In the doubles event Dick Baker and Harry Toberio defeated Bud Sager and Ted Villanueva, Pi Kappa Phi.

The intramural wrestling championships were won by Craniotis, Moser, Orzano, Jordan, J. Walmsley, Harrison, R. Jeske, and Stone.

The intramural championship in 1946-47 was won by the Sigma Chi fraternity with one of the best intramural basketball teams ever assembled. The Intramural All-Stars also gained another victory over the Duke Junior Varsity, 34-32, in their annual game. In the 1947-48 season the Sigma Chi's, KA's, and SAE's were battling for the crown. The 1946-47 volleyball championship was won by the ATO's, who didn't lose a game. The KA's emerged as university swimming champions.

A short resume of the 1947 spring results shows that Buddy Hicks, KA, defeated Bill Griffith, Beta, in the tennis singles championship. In the handball singles championship Jim Austin, Sigma Chi, defeated Dan Dudenhoeffer, Sigma Nu. The softball crown was won by the Independent A.C., who were sparked by their ace pitcher Tom Lunsford.

On May 7, 1947 there was a Big Four softball tournament staged at Chapel Hill between the All-Star Intramural teams of Duke, Carolina, State, and Wake Forest. Duke came out triumphant in this double-elimination round, and a similar tourney is scheduled for Durham this year. All Stars on last year's intramural team were Lunsford, Hartley, Chase, Eslick, Folger, Owens, Biles, Crowder, Edwards, Inman, Perini, Roellke, Rover, Seward, and Whatton.

In the spring golf tournament the Pi Kappa Alpha team won. Spears of Phi Delta Theta, defeated Sid Larkin, Kappa Sig, to win the horseshoes title. This same Larkin was awarded the individual Intramural High Point Trophy for 1946-47 for winning the most numbers of individual intramural points.

Bob Taylor, SAE tennis ace and this year's winner of the William Senhauser Prize, easily won the badminton singles title by defeating Manley Stockton, Pi Kappa Phi. This Senhauser Award which was donated last year by the mother of the late William Senhauser, '42, who lost his life in the Pacific theatre of war on August 4, 1944, is to be given annually to the sophomore or junior in Trinity College or the College of Engineering who has made the greatest contribution through participation and leadership in intramural sports. The winner of this prize is chosen by a committee selected by the President of the University.

The personnel of the Intramural Department were: T. M. Aycock, E. M. Cameron, W. W. Card, Coach Jack Coombs, Coach K. C. Gerard, and C. E. "Ted" Villanueva.

Coach Kenneth C. Gerard in the Intramural Handbook stated: "Intramural Athletics not only develop the individual physically, but they train his mental, moral and social natures as well. Through this form of activity he learns the meaning of sportsmanship, fair play, and the sacrifice of self for the best interest of the group. The returns which come from his exercise cannot help but contribute to a more complete living. As a cardinal principle, we have established the fact that the facilities of the Intramural Department be always open to the use of the students."

The activities included in our intramural program are so varied that there is opportunity for every individual no matter what his level of ability may be as competition is graded. The intramural program at Duke University is a comparatively new institution. The project took immediate hold with the students here, and thus far it has been a decided success. It is hoped by the leaders of this department, however, that as the years roll by, more and more students will realize the comparative advantages which may be realized from an intramural program, and consequently they will support it even more wholeheartedly. Intramural Athletics have so many worthwhile qualities that it cannot be recommended too strongly that every student make it a point to participate in the program.

WOMEN'S ATHLETICS

PHYSICAL Education for women at Duke University is a story of development from a one-room gym in Southgate to the three story building used now with the accompanying facilities. Mrs. Julia Grout came to Duke twenty-four years ago as the only teacher of athletics. At this time gym courses were held in Southgate, and Mrs. Grout was here for the transition to the big gym and the development of a staff from one assistant to a group of nine efficient teachers. When West Campus was non-existent, and East Campus was occupied by the men, facilities for athletic participation was very limited for the female members of the student body. They were allowed to use the swimming pool and the tennis courts frequently, but as soon as the men moved to the other campus, and Southgate became the home of the engineers, the girls had full time use of the gymnasium. Now tennis courts, a swimming pool, students of the Woman's College. Girls are required to take three years of physical education, and the courses must include a rhythm, one team sport, and two individual sports. The freshmen are required to take an orientation and social hygiene course first semester and a body mechanics course second semester. Before the first exam period a motor ability test is administered to find those who need special help in motor skills and fundamental rhythm.

Mrs. Julia Grout, the director of Women's Athletics, received her B.A. at Mt. Holyoke and her M.S. at Wellesley. She was laboratory assistant at Wellesley before her job here. Mrs. Bookhout and Miss Lewis came a few years later, and are now assistant professors in physical education. Miss Lewis received her B.S. at the Woman's College at Greensboro and her M.A. at Columbia University; she is head of the Modern Dance Club. Miss Lewis has taken several courses in modern dance, and she is supervisor of practice teaching in athletics. Mrs. Bookhout received her B.A. at Randolph Macon and her M.S. at Wellesley. Miss McCall holds a B.S. from New York University. Mrs. Martha Swasey received her Masters from Peabody; she acts as a consultant to the Children's Museum in Durham. Among the new teachers this year are Lela M. Payne, who got her Masters from Columbia University; Frances Holton, who received her Masters from Texas State College for Women; Grace L. Webster, who obtained her B.S. at Bouvé, Boston School of Physical Education which is affiliated with Tufts College, and Luella Uhr-

The introduction of physical education as a major subject for those who wish to qualify as full-time or part-time teachers of Health and Physical Education was introduced four years ago and the department is very proud of their majors at present. There are eighteen majors, and three full-time teachers have been placed in public schools. Courses offered for these majors are such subjects as recreational leadership, history and principles of physical education, organization and administration, and methods and materials. The Nereidian room has been redecorated by this group and used as a lounge. They teach, assist, and observe in several classes here, and teach in two junior high schools and one senior high school in Durham.

The Athletic Department often brings prominent people in the field of sports to give exhibitions and help the students. Last year Pauline Betz and Sarah Cooke gave an exhibition tennis match and assisted the students by instruction in this sport. This year, Mr. Gene Gouing, renowned in the field of folk dancing, gave lectures and a demonstration, and a square dancing party was held in the evening.

The W.A.A., Women's Athletic Association, sponsors several activities and tournaments during the year. Freshman Week a picnic was held at the W.A.A. cabin for all girls on East Campus at that time. The Board gave clever skits illustrating the sports open to freshmen and told them about the Board, which is the governing body of the Association. A "Meet the Co-ed Dance" was held later in September with music provided by the Duke Ambassadors, to help the new boys and girls get acquainted. Everyone went stag, and the dance was a huge success.

On November 1, a play day was held at Greensboro. Swimming, archery and tennis tournaments were held, and Duke won all three. They were also victorious in a hockey game with Chapel Hill. Later in November the majors in the department went to West Hampton in Richmond, Virginia to see English hockey team which was touring the United States.

Kite Day is an event anticipated by all, and the date is kept in secret until the morning of the appointed day; then signs are posted all over East Campus to announce its arrival to the unsuspecting co-eds. Then all aspiring "kite-flyers" gather on the quadrangle, and the dorm with the best-looking and best-flying kite receives the prize. The kites are usually made by a committee of freshmen in each dormitory. This year supper was served on the lawn in back of Southgate by the Union, and all sorts of relay races were held.

Each year Nereidian sponsors an aquacade in the gymnasium. This is always an important and beautiful event. The pageant was given for three days to the students and faculty. Nereidian also sponsored the annual intramural swimming meet. The Speed Club is another group which makes up the Woman's Athletic Association. They participate in the National Telegraphic Swimming Meet every year.

A dance recital is also presented annually by the members of the Modern Dance Club. The dances are composed by the members themselves, and the recital is given in coöperation with the music department, the speech department and the art department. The costumes are designed by students in the art department.

Among the tournaments sponsored by the W.A.A. are the following: a tennis tournament for freshmen, inter-dorm and inter-sorority volley ball and basketball tournaments and a swimming meet for the dormitories. Also various competitive meets are held in archery, badminton and golf.

The Woman's Athletic Association, working closely with the department for physical education, plans a program of well rounded recreational sports for the members of the Woman's College. With a well organized association and the best in equipment available for use, the W.A.A. Board has realized broad development

The Board consists of the officers and the heads of the various athletic clubs. The members for 1947-1948 were: Susan Amsbury,

A basketball play day was held during March in Chapel Hill in which Duke won second place. On April 24, the first play day ever to be held at Duke was organized for ten schools from various parts of North Carolina.

On April 28 Greensboro was the scene of a W.A.A. convention for the purpose of organizing and reporting on the various events of the national convention.

The "Meet Ball" was sponsored in April in order to better acquaint the freshmen boys with the girls in the same class. Those attending participated in various sports, among them, ping pong, volley ball, and shuffleboard. It was the first time this had been tried and it resulted in better uniting the two campuses.

John Powers Chooses Beauty Queen

John Robert Powers

THE 1948 CHANTICLEER Beauty Queen was crowned this year at the Co-ed Ball held in November. Lovely Mary Ann Atkins, Alsbaugh junior from Paragould, Arkansas, was selected from twenty candidates by model agency director John Robert Powers of New York City. Mr. Powers, famed the world over for his beautiful models, had previously chosen the Beauty Queen of Duke University in 1940. He said in his letter to the CHANTICLEER, that "the winners . . . were selected on a basis of personality, character, and intelligence, as well as for natural beauty. My choice was influenced, of course, by my great interest in and admiration for the Natural Girl."

Mary Ann is a member of the Social Standards Committee, Ivy, Pi Beta Phi, and Dean's List. The Queen and her court were introduced by the master of ceremonies, Charles P. White, president of the Men's Inter-Fraternity Council.

The dance, sponsored by the Social Standards Committee, was based on a theme entitled "Midnight Masquerade." The decorations for the dance consisted of black streamers completely covering the ceiling; these contrasted with the white streamers and large silver masks decorating the sides of the gymnasium. Salon mounts of the twenty candidates for the 1948 Beauty Queen were displayed on either side of the throne.

The procession of Social Standards members and their dates opened the intermission ceremonies. The girls carried small black masks, decorated with tiny bouquets. Following these, the ten members of the Beauty Court were announced and presented. Mary Ann was brought in on an elaborate throne down the aisle formed by the Social Standards members and the girls in the Court. Amid an atmosphere of excitement and expectancy the identity of the Queen was revealed to the assembled crowd.

Mary Ann succeeds Buffa Garrett Entwistle, who reigned for two years as Beauty Queen of the Duke campus.

The pictures of the ten members of the Beauty Court follow that of Mary Ann on successive pages.

QUEEN OF NAVY BALL

Miss JANA HANSER

HIGHLIGHT of the annual Navy Ball, held on January 10, was the coronation ceremony of the N.R.O.T.C. Queen, Jana Hanser, Kappa Alpha Theta freshman from Clayton, Missouri, by Capt. A. M. Kowalzyk, Jr., U.S.N., Commanding Officer of the Duke unit.

The Ball, sponsored by the Commodore's Club, was held in the Union Ballroom and was a formal affair, closed to all but N.R.O.T.C. students and N.C.A.P. men. The Queen was chosen from a group of women, each of whom was sponsored by five men. Final selection was by popular vote of all N.R.O.T.C. students.

Following the nautical theme, the ballroom and bandstand were decorated to resemble a ship. The bandstand was decorated to serve as an elevated deck upon which the Queen was crowned.

Following the crowning, Jana was escorted down a gangplank from the bandstand and beneath an arch of crossed swords by Fred Chase, president of the Commodore's Club.

SIGMA CHI SWEETHEART

Miss MICKEY OLSEN

CHOSEN by secret ballot from forty-eight contenders, Mickey Olsen, Kappa Kappa Gamma junior, from St. Petersburg, Florida, was crowned "Sweetheart of Sigma Chi" at the annual sweetheart banquet and dance held at Hope Valley Country Club on December 5.

Early in the fall each sorority nominated two members and each dormitory nominated one. Wives and pin-ups of the fraternity members were also eligible, and these girls participated over a period of several weeks in a series of open houses and a dance at the end of which six finalists were chosen. These final contenders were Marilyn Bailey, Betty Becker, Jody Jones, Bunny Nicklas, Mickey Olsen, and Mary Jo Stroud.

The new 1948 Sweetheart was crowned by Bob Eldredge, president, during the intermission of the dance and presented with a cross of white roses and a silver loving cup. A larger loving cup was also presented to be used by her sorority.

FROM THESE CANDIDATES . . .

THIS year something unique was initiated by the Women's Pan-Hellenic Council in their annual dance. One candidate, chosen by each sorority, was nominated for the so-called, "Beauty King," or "King of the Greeks." From these thirteen one was selected by the student body of East Campus.

There was a great deal of publicity before the actual election to acquaint the East Campus co-eds with the potentialities of the muscle-bound Apollos. Pictures, together with the measurements of the selected thirteen, were displayed to the students. The dance was held February 21, and during intermission the candidates were presented, followed by the introduction of the winner.

THE KING OF THE GREEKS WAS CHOSEN

CHOSEN as the West Campus student epitomizing masculinity and charm, Fred Folger, candidate nominated by Alpha Delta Pi, won the coveted honor of King of the Duke Campus. Fred, brown-haired, blue-eyed Kappa Alpha from Mt. Airy, North Carolina was the star of the 1947-48 football team and had the third highest punting average in the country. Previously he had been one of the star punters of the football team, but he had not participated a great deal in the games until this year. He was voted the most valuable player by his teammates. For this he received the Noble Arnold Trophy which is presented to the football player receiving this vote every year by the manager of the Center Theater. Fred not only excels in football but is also a valuable member of the baseball team.

Vital statistics of the King include—height, 6 ft.; weight, 185 pounds; waist, 32 inches; and shoulders, 20. Now 21, Fred served in the U. S. Navy, as Aviation Radioman, Second Class from 1944 to '46.

Following the Greek theme of the dance, columns and entablatures decorated the West Campus Gym. Pictures of the thirteen candidates were placed on the wall over silhouettes of famous Greek statues.

After Fred was crowned by Jane Bruce, president of the Women's Pan-Hellenic Council, a life size portrait of him was unveiled.

*GOOD TO SEE YOU WHAT'S YOUR NAME?
GLAD YOU'RE BACK JUST THE SAME*

Suzette Wilson welcomes Johnny Morfit back at homecoming. Betty Ann Skaale deserts Southgate for Alsbaugh's prize exhibit. The last picture is a fine example of a new idea designed solely to thwart organized whistling among all red-blooded males. It's the New Look - New, but what do you look at?

Homecoming was celebrated this year with its usual gayly decorated dorms and cars. Judge Welch and a car load of Sigma Chi brothers get together with other students in the pajama parade starting at East campus and continuing through the streets of Durham to Five Points on the night preceding the big game.

COED BALL—NEW QUEENS CROWNED EACH FALL

Left: Couples applaud as Queen Mary Ann Atkins steps forth from her "royal box" assisted by Duncan and Shehee. Right: Seniors Jean Rogers and Ivy Baldwin and Junior Cile McLean wait for the entrance of the queen. They are three upperclassmen that were fortunate enough to obtain bids for the ball.

At intermission members of Social Standards form their figure along the line through which the concealed Beauty Queen passes. In the bottom picture the crowd strains at the leash in high anticipation of the crowning of the Queen, as last minute bets are made from "hot tips." Men sweat out bids to attend the Ball Nelson, Hutchins, and Morgan constitute the trumpet section of the Duke Ambassadors. Under their new leader, Tommy Farr, the Ambassadors maintained their great popularity with the students, as evidenced by the fact that they played not only for the Co-ed Ball but for all but a few of the dances this year.

DANCES

DANCERS WALTZING TO AND FRO IS SHE WITH HER FAVORITE BEAU?

The Women's Gym is a setting many times during the year for popular social events, sponsored in turn by each of the different organizations. Early in the season the "Y," as part of its program of welcome, gave an informal dance which was attended by both new and returning students with very great enthusiasm.

Each campus dance begins with a visit to the receiving line. At intermission fraternities gather into circles to sing favorite songs, as demonstrated below by the KA circle. Another part of the evening is spent at the bandstand, listening to specialty numbers, but dancing consumes the main part of the evening.

The informal dance given by the "Y" early this fall in the Women's gymnasium was a tremendous success as is very evident from the picture below. The three attractive girls from Alspaugh house snapped here as they enjoy the dance with their Phi Psi partners are Fran Bird, Mary Lou Shippey, and Helen Guest.

Jana Hanser, Queen of Navy Ball, dances with Captain Kowalzyk, head of N.R.O.T.C. unit.

Raenelle Bolick is escorted by engineer, Harold Jackson, to the pre-Christmas Engineers' Ball.

Students casually congregate on the steps of the Woman's Gymnasium after a late dance. The girls are given a half hour to return to their dormitories.

Jimmy Carr, Tommy Farr and Joe Biggers, Duke Ambassador Band members, drop in at Henderson's for a midnight snack before going back West.

RELAXATION

TIME TO REST FOR EAST AND WEST

Lila Magruder and Louie LaMotte take a breather and relax on the steps of the library.

On Sundays the Duke Chapel interdenominational services are well attended by students and faculty alike. Above picture shows some of the students as they go into the main entrance of the Chapel.

Following an old Duke custom of bumming rides between East and West campus, these couples wait at the bus stop for a ride that hasn't quite materialized yet. At right the Y.M.C.A. carolling a few days before the Christmas holidays attracted many students. The group sang before all the dormitories on East.

"Let it snow, let it show!" is the attitude of these two Duke students as they leisurely wait for the bus, put off its schedule by an early snow this year.

A co-ed walks bravely through the snow, a forerunner of the most phenomenal winter Duke has had in many years. The girl must be a Floridian.

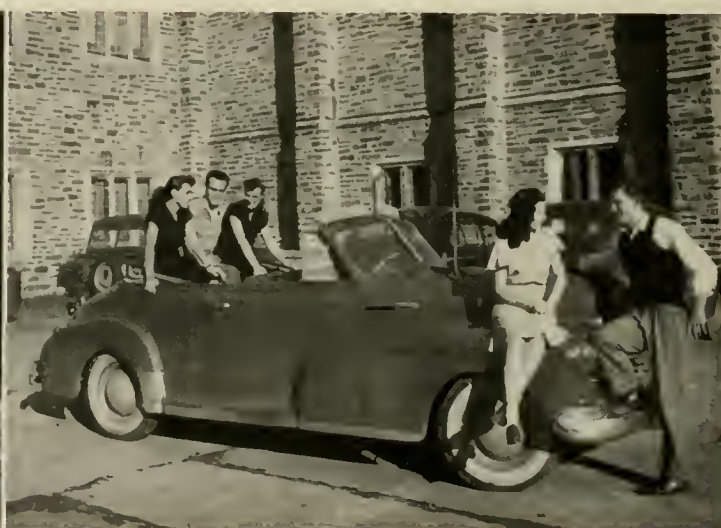

The famed Sarah P. Duke memorial gardens are a scene of perpetual beauty, but in the springtime they blossom forth into their full glory. Jim Austin and Connie Shaw will agree that this scenic spot provides a welcomed place in which students can spend their leisure hours away from the usual classroom routine.

CARS BACK AT DUKE AGAIN . . .

Varied is a day in the life of a car. In the daytime it sports pretty co-eds like Beane, Crook, Branch, and Kendall, who are shown enjoying the comforts of Bob Wilson's convertible. At right: With the pretty Duchesses gone even Mr. Wilson's press tag seems to make no impression upon the campus cops.

Under the watchful eyes of Bob Welch, head cheerleader the candidates for the squad work out. It's plainly shown that vocal ability is not the only requirement of a cheerleader. At right, the drawing power of a convertible is demonstrated by Jean and Joan Fountaine and Dianne Forrest, who attract the boys.

Bill Elias, Presh Divine, Jane Bruce, Jack Quaritius and Carolyn Bunn, attracted by the new Studebaker, play host to its owners from Rocky Mount. Such a convertible is a rarity on the Duke campus, and Dukes and Duchesses jump at the chance to break the monotony of riding the bus from West to East.

MODELS FROM 1948 TO 1910

Left: "Senior girls may have cars second semester." Finding themselves in that coveted position, two Jarvis girls spend Saturday afternoon grooming their prize possession. Right: Clarence Smith takes out time to demonstrate to Mickey Lundeborg the intricate mechanisms of a car parked in front of Southgate.

Not all the cars at Duke are new. Models from early touring cars to 1948 convertibles are seen daily on the campus. Some students delight in naming their cars, such as "The Dog House" above. Pete Maas glares jealously at Jack Foster who wishes he owned the car as well as the harem of four Bassett freshmen.

FOOTBALL PEP RALLIES

PEP RALLIES NIGHT BEFORE . . .

Before the Homecoming game with Missouri, the student body gets into the swing of the week-end with a pajama parade and pep rally. It started at East Campus and ended at the Freshman Field on West Campus with a bonfire built by BOS. The parade is a pre-war custom and was revived this year by BOS.

Left: Traffic was stopped for thirty minutes at Five Points as Southgate girls and pajama-clad boys cheer wildly. Right: Boys in high pre-game spirits follow antics of Bob Welch, the head cheerleader, seated on a traffic light at Five Points. They go through the "Blue Wave," one of the many Duke cheers.

NEXT DAY WATCH THEM SCORE.

PARTIES

DIGESTED WITH THE SAME OLD LINE*

Left: For their evening meal Sigma Nu's Ted and Stan take out two lovely Aycock girls Betty and Ann to Rinaldi's, the popular restaurant across from East campus that caters to Duke students. Right: Pete Rinaldi watches proudly as Marj Coldwell tackles one of his steak and french fry plates with gusto.

Left: Co-eds Kerr, Fleming and Hanks feel they are very fortunate to be taken to Miller's for dinner by their Pi Kappa Phi dates. Miller's draperies and carpets are unique in Durham restaurants. Right: Brown House girls Savage and Stollings escape the Union by being escorted to dinner at the Saddle Club.

Left: Barbara Anderson and Erskine Gallant park the Buick convertible and drop in at the Tavern of the Washington Duke Hotel for a sandwich and a cup of coffee. Right: Interfraternity council president, Chuck White, the Shapleigh sisters and Neal McQuire spend a very quiet evening at the saddle club.

Allen returns to add gaiety to the Saddle Club. Brother SAE's find excuse for party, while W. J. Bryan looks studious with horn-rimmed glasses.

The drinking rule is off, but Thelma Klussman sticks to cokes. Cherry Clark and Graham Pardee, at far end, lean forward to get into ATO group.

While East sits home, West stags it at the popular Saddle Club bar. Drowning sorrows in glasses of beer, stags crowd the bar and avoid the cover charge in the main dining room. Students help out behind the bar as well as in the check room, making them feel that the Saddle Club belongs to the college crowd.

Baltimore was the scene of numerous fraternity parties during the Navy game week-end. Most students stayed at the Lord Baltimore Hotel and ended up in private room parties, such as the Kappa Sigma party pictured below. A mass reunion was held after the game for students and alumni at the Hotel Stafford.

Above: A large table of Zeta Beta Tau's gather with their dates at the Saddle Club for an after-dinner party. Places such as the Saddle Club and Hartmann's offer the fraternities an opportunity to get together during the evenings, thus alleviating the no-fraternity-house situation which prevails on West Campus.

Above: Dukesters Dick Barrett, Totsy Tucker, Ray Lilley, and Doug Aushon are treated to an evening at the Saddle Club by "the folks." Ray, one of the three original owners of the Club, began the enterprising business last year, proudly watched it grow rapidly into the popular college hang-out that it is today.

Two Jarvis House roommates, Joan Richards and Cile McLean, take time out at Hartmann's to glance at the camera. Don O'Brien (O. B.) swallows the wrong way, while the experienced Pete Maas shows his brother Sigma Nu how it is done. A dejected stag joins their table for a sociable drink or two.

Pop Hartmann looks in on the SAE chorus line. Alger claims the beer is essential for tone quality, while Tommy Alt and Jim "Bubbles" Ramsey dress appropriately for the pajama parade that they heard was held earlier in the evening. At far left Norm MacDonald deserts Phi Delt party to get in picture.

Amid the smoke and beer at Hartmann's, the Phi Delt and friends, strengthened by the return of alum Jimmy Alexander (in foreground) cheer lustily in a pre-Homcoming game party. Hartmann's, fast taking the place of the famed Goody Shop, is the scene of many before-and-after football game celebrations.

Left: For a refined evening of eating, drinking and dancing, the Saddle Club takes preference. Right: But even the Saddle Club gets into the party spirit when SAE's honor the "since-departed" Norm Schnell, who shows up in his drinking uniform, and Larry Coe. Co-eds Caswell and Jones smile at W.S.G.A.

With the merry-go-round still spinning, KA's and dates show up for a party. At Aubrey's, the co-eds gather for hamburgers—or is it eatbergers? Co-eds Cove and Derr lay claim to the fireplace at the Saddle Club with their dates, while Blackham, O'Gorman and their escorts enjoy a quieter evening at a table.

At Hartmann's, the crowds gather ready for fun and food after the exciting homecoming game. Beta Maschmeier casts a beaming smile from the far end of the table upon his happy frat brothers and their dates. Right: At Sawyer and Moore's, on the quieter side of the frolic, the crowds gather for cakes and coffee.

PIERCING SCREAMS, A RADIO BLAST . . .

Part of the dorm life on East Campus is the old Duke custom of serenades. One of the prettiest pin-up serenades of the year was that of Lindy Stivers. Zeta sisters crowded into Lindy's room in Alspaugh to sing back to the SAE brothers of Howard Hartley. Sororities and fraternities practice hours before a serenade.

Above: Jimmy Carr and Fay Finley have a pre-Christmas party in Southgate. Each dorm is decorated with a Christmas tree and quantities of mistle-toe.

Top: Parlors of Brown are used into early morning hours for late cramming. Bottom: Brown co-eds prepare for bed after hours of beauty operations.

AT EVERY DORM THAT YOU PASS

Left: When "candy from home" makes an appearance in House N not all the combined forces of campus gendarms can suffice to quell the resulting riot. Note for women only: statistics prove six out of seven males prefer topless p.j.s. Right: Walt Wadlington and roommate relax the hard way—with books.

TO THE PARLOR TAKE YOUR DATE
RUN HIM OUT OR YOU'LL BE LATE

Mary Lee Elkins helps out on Giles House desk one night and watches some of the girls crowd around to read their messages, answer phone calls and glance at old Chronicles. The job of the desk girl is not envied when midnight rolls around on Saturday night and dozens of boys refuse to be moved from the parlors.

Left: Nancy Kester entertains in a corner of Southgate's spacious parlor. Southgate was converted into a girls dorm three years ago, is envied for its two big parlors and its game room that are used constantly by the co-eds and their dates. Right: Grady Stott prefers the company of Anna Wolf in Giles House.

Last spring, Laura Schwartz was crowned May Queen in the annual event. Due to the weather the elaborate pageant was held in the Auditorium. This year, the May Queen was Mrs. Bufla Garrett Putwistle, who was crowned at the Spring Co-ed Ball. Her Court of ten girls was also presented then.

On June 2, 1947, graduation was held in the West Campus Gymnasium. Originally, graduation took place in the Stadium, but later was moved to the Gym because of the heat. Graduates from Medical, Law, Forestry, Religion, Engineering, and Liberal Arts Schools all gain diplomas in the impressive ceremony.

BLACK GOWNS FILE PAST REACHING GOAL AT LAST

On the Saturday before graduation a reception for parents and graduates was held on East Duke Lawn in order to meet faculty.

The end has come. School days, which have been going on since the first day they can remember, have ended, and they are faced with the realization that they are now mature adults. As the graduates walk to the gym, they leave behind the fun and the worry that accompanied them through their college days.

FOR THE RECORD . . .

IN September, when the upperclassmen were breathing their last breath of summer air, a troop of 615 freshmen broke the silence of Duke University. Hopeful, eager-eyed and, for the most part, fresh from high school, they endured the harrowing experiences of Orientation Week with flying colors. Introducing and touring ceased for one day of placement testing which proved that the new class as a whole ranked in the upper quarter of the national average. Tests behind them, they watched the seasoned students return and all joined the hub-bub of college days—catching the last bus for class, eating a late breakfast in the Dope Shop, worrying over the coming quiz. They were introduced to the Sunday night Sing and “Bishop” Barnes, who, along with the “Y,” gave them a real inkling of life-to-be at Duke. Auctioneering and raucous singing floated from East Campus on “Stunt Night,” top honors going to Brown and Giles. Saturday night brought the first taste of freshmen dating, as boys on West came over to look at the “new crop” on East. Who got how many dates out of the Open Houses monopolized conversation after the boys had left.

Upperclassmen returned with news to tell and rumors to squelch. Coldwell wasn't married, Colvin and Chapman were engaged. Nell Bailey forsook a dorm to live in Epworth with her husband, Harold Criswald. Queen Buffa broke a million hearts by becoming Mrs. Entwistle, while freshman Love Lindsey arrived from Florida to compete for Buffa's title. The Fountaine twins returned to confuse the campus. “I've had it” was still being repeated by many die-hards, while “Near You” haunted the Dope Shop and dorms 11 hours of the day and night. Mary Grace gently but firmly informed the Phi Deltis that they would have to live in memories of their Sing last year . . . no more for them this year!

Wide-awake classes became phenomenal while North Carolina weather poured daylight dew upon falling locks and cheerful spots. A smashing victory over State opened the football season as well as bottles. Fraternities held their traditional after-game open houses and the old Duke spirit was reborn. SAE umbrella parties became the fad, especially before Pershing Smith had to make a speech in Public Speaking. Hendersons became a popular hang-out. Sally Bell and Mary Ann Atkins made the headlines by going down to Sawyers and Moores and arriving back at Alspaugh an hour late . . . what's in a clock? 175 sorority pledges received their bids after a whirl of rush parties at the Pan-Hel House. The new four-week rushing system brought favorable comments. The week-end became the highlight for the week. Slacks and blue jeans dotted the campus Sunday afternoons—cabin parties were in full swing. The no-drinking rule on East was abolished, and East Campus co-eds joined the “party train” to Reds, Hartmann's (and the lower level), the Tavern, Saddle Club, and Millers. Tuxs were decamphorized and hoops were unearthed as the BOS-Sandals dance marked a perfect beginning to the year's dance schedule. Goon Day with its blue ribbons and treacherous Rat Court came and went with no fatalities.

October also saw the eternal struggle for learning disrupted by the sound of drill guns striving to make way for new library facilities on West. The Navy Game in Baltimore replaced the Army game literally and figuratively. Baldwin and cohorts rented a barn in the Southern for the week-end, while the common bourgeois stayed at the Lord Baltimore. Llewellyn and Dorsey screamed for months about the $35.25 they were fined on the way back to Durham. Twenty-nine members of the intelligentsia were honored by being elected to Phi Beta Kappa. Bets were made on the forthcoming yearbook Queen, while the Billy Butterfield dance was being held in anticipation. Duke boys negatively eyed the “new look” sifting out among the girls fall clothes, and all discussed the position of the rooter cap. Meatless Tuesdays shattered the Union Lines as Rinaldi's became the refuge for the famished.

Social Standards had their spree of industry—calendar selling and elaborate Co-ed Ball plans kept them busy. Every one had their troubles. The Quadrangle Pictures faced a shutdown due to the lack of student support while the campaign against vandalism took the front.

An undefeated Blue Devil team met its first defeat in the opening November game with Georgia Tech. The game followers rolled in from the rosy peach state drenched and with wilted hope and Georgia rain. DiMona and Morfit were canvassing for "Campus Time" in Atlanta at the time of the game, "just by chance." Meanwhile, all hands were busy preparing for the Homecoming Game with Missouri. Mechanical geniuses and originality wizards went to work to make the house displays bigger and better. 200 Duke Fathers, from the freshmen class, were welcomed for the annual Dad's Day program, while the Durham jail welcomed the return of Jimo Alexander. The Tapper returned to take a spin at the drums with the Ambassadors once again, while "Slush-Pump" Allen returned for "a few" at the Saddle Club and Hartmann's. All in all, 2,500 alumni returned for the Homecoming Week-end and its festivities, which included class reunions, dances, and the game. The afternoon was climaxed by the announcement that the Betas and Alpaugh House won the Homecoming Decorations Contest. The Varsity "D" Club dance added the finishing touch to the big day as the out-of-town crowds rolled (!) homeward.

The lecture and concert series got underway with the performance of the opera "Madame Butterfly." The first lecture that was sponsored by the Student Forum brought the former Georgia governor, Ellis Arnall, to speak before a capacity crowd. The tapping of nine sophomore girls into Ivy and the five undergraduate men into Omicron Delta Kappa, thirteen outstanding students into the Order of St. Pat, and the recognition of thirty-two students for "Who's Who" proved that this was definitely the month for student honors.

Cosmopolitan and Junior Bazaar covered both campuses thoroughly in preparation for pictures and articles concerning life on the Duke Campus that were to appear in future issues. "Suitease" Simpson could be seen carrying Big Al DeRogatis' books for him after DeRo had a leg operation. The phrase, "How stupid can you be?" arrived early and stayed late.

The Duke-Carolina event brought 56,000 fans to the Duke Stadium along with a burst of criticism over the annual drinking dispute and parking facilities. Floats, courtesy of the Tobacco Festival, were presented at half-time, and Santa Claus arrived in time to bring the body of Choo-choo Justice out of his big bag.

The following week was filled with Thanksgiving festivities. The Co-ed Ball on the eve of the Holiday revealed the secret of the New CHANTICLEER Beauty Queen, Miss Mary Ann Atkins, after two hours of dancing to the music of Tommy Farr's Duke Ambassadors. Thanksgiving Day brought the Wheelbarrow classic and a large crowd to witness the race. The competing teams took off with screams of fear emitted by the not-so-self-confident riders. No bones broken, the expedition came to a finish with the Kappa Sigs leading by several lengths. The first Duke Players production, The Male Animal, provided added entertainment for many, on and off campus. The month ended with Dukites Jean Prather and Al Tallman being bound together by a ring, likewise Elaine Sullivan and Syd Larkin.

The year was rolling fast towards Christmas and thoughts of home. Mumbled "Silent Nights" were discerned in passing, and the weather man reported no snow on the 20th . . . everyone was happy, although procrastination mowed down an army of late term-paper victims. Time was taken off for holiday fraternity dances, such as the KA-SAE Dance, and the band concert and Max Schulman lecture drew a large crowd. Classes were dismissed for the ceremony commemorating Duke University Day on December 11, at which Henry J. Taylor, the journalist, author and economist, spoke. The Sigma Chis brought to an end several weeks of dances and open houses with the crowning of Mickey Olsen as Sweetheart of 1947-48. The leadership honorary Phi Kappa Delta tapped Dean Smith and W.S.G.A. president Marge Frey as its two new members.

For those interested, the Tavern at the Washington Duke put in a new line of wines. The CHANTICLEER darkroom overflowed, and the Duke Laundry had $3,000 worth of damage done. "Ballerina" was the song being sung. McKennon's fondest dreams came true with a ring from Hank. Hundreds of Duke men became mourners as Red killed his son-in-law, thus closing Red's popular hang-out. The Dean Baldwin Scholarship Fund was increased by a canvas of all dorms on East. Nurmi was still here. Mary Ella Rothrock received a ring that resembled the Hope diamond from Billy Hackett.

The Choir opened the Duke Christmas season with Handel's Messiah. The Duke Symphony Concert, the Madrigal's singing of the "Christmas Oratorio" and the presentation of the annual Christmas Pageant were fine inspirational services which instilled the season's meaning in all. The "Y" sponsored a candle-light carolling program on East.

The last week in December found the freshmen boys on West attending the last of the two Sunday open houses organized by the Men's Inter-Fraternity Council. "How many cars do you have?" and "How good are you at football?" were questions thrown at unsuspecting rushees. Princess Elizabeth's wedding was heard on the radio by all 6 o'clock A.M. risers. Frantic last minute packing began. Trips to the ABC Stores were made frequently. Finally the great day came when ready and waiting Dukesters hurried to airports, bus stations, and train stations. Clutched in their hands were Christmas cards they had forgotten to send, books they foolishly thought they would open, suitcases, and bags of ice—everything but the all-important ticket, which somehow had "just slipped their minds."

Christmas proved to be a big occasion for Marion Pecot and Bill Lowry, who said their vows during the vacation. Duke students in the northeastern area of the country gathered for a big night at the Meadowbrook. Sleds and skis were brought out in New York City as the record-making snow of 25 inches buried the City for a week, and commuters decided the broken tree in front of their house was too big an obstacle to overcome, thus remaining at home for an extra vacation. Milk and beer were at a premium.

We dragged in after Christmas, weary with good times and wishing for a few days rest, but back to the old grind. One could hardly see in the library for the glitter of new pins and rings. Elman-Martin, Cockrell-Jenkins, and Anderson-Duddenhoffer were a few of the many vacationtime-engagees. Then we sank even deeper into the books, making up for a semester's playing by stiff cramming at the last possible minute. Sales of No-Doze and coffee hit an all-time high as exams rushed in on a wave of sleet; bleary with benzedrine hangovers, we were blown into the torture chambers by icy winds and out again to haunt post-office and bulletin boards for the fatal hieroglyphics. Complaints were still being heard about the changed Psych exam and about the Psych exam in general. For two weeks we walked the razor's edge and then shot out into a baby blizzard, leaving all worries locked up in closets or drowned in the well known stuff one drowns such things in. Part of the campus scattered over the usual New York, St. Louis, Chicago, Florida range, choking down snow along with the vacation cheer, struggling through drifts to make it back for early classes as the rest huddled in the dorms catching up on much needed sleep, while East had the thrill of using the tunnel passages to the Union and defending themselves from a barrage of snow balls. "The faithful ones" on West struggled on foot to get to East and "their loved ones," then partook in many gay afternoons of sledding. Dean Brinkley in a dashing sweater and skirt, and Miss Wilson in a fascinating attire of jodphurs, were the hit of the campus. Cheers went up as a new dietitian came to the Union and the rescue of East and presented them with a buffet supper that might very well have been served at the Waldorf. Casper Holroyd celebrated his graduation by marrying Betty Ann Williams. The news of Mahatma Gandhi's death shocked the nation. Petrillo upset thousands of disc jockeys with his ban against the making of new records. The popular house counsellor in Aycock, Mrs. Grimsley, left the campus for another position. The Quadrangle Pictures pulled out of the red by presenting Henry V for two days. Joe Haddad, the Law Student, had West in an uproar with his recruiting for the Arab army. Both campuses spent many long hours guessing who "Mr. X" was, finally decided on Francis X. Bushman. The death of Josephus Daniels was mourned by the whole country as well as North Carolina. "I'm Looking Over A Four Leaf Clover" took the campus by storm.

February moved in as the ground hog prophesied more weeks of winter, and the eager beavers froze in the downtown book line. Cabin parties moved back into the limelight as a means of keeping warm. People were still trying to get into Greek and Latin Lit., especially frustrated Seniors. Girls picked up interest in the vets as their monthly pay increased to $75.00 a month. Yandell Smith was regarded with awe as having gotten the highest grades on Talbert's Shakespeare quizzes in the history of the course. Gridiron warriors took to the weed; Chesterfield built a new factory to meet the demand. The Shoe and Slipper Club was being formed in hopes that it would become another German Club. The price of hay rose as the Sigma Chis increased their stables. Wallace Wade started Spring practice with the double wing. Two new phone booths in the Union aided West. A small private organization, the UMDDC (Union for Moral Desecration of Duke Co-eds) had their mass initiation February 14 on the third floor of the Malbourne. Members names are withheld by request! Something new in beauty queens was presented at the Women's Pan-Hel Dance with the crowning of the "King of the Greeks." This took place after weeks of planning, publicizing and campaigning. Meanwhile, West's best flexed their biceps in anticipation. Pledge dances and the spring Co-ed Ball added the formal touch to the social whirl.

General Eisenhower announced that he would not run for President, while Colonel McCormick wondered what his chances were. Tyrone Power, Howard Hughes, and Governor Folsom of Georgia were announced the three most eligible bachelors of the year. At Duke, basketball ceded the stage to baseball, soccer, track and tennis; intramurals called forth the best of West's muscular ability. East initiated; West rushed and pledged as the air grew blue with smoke and jolly greetings; new men and old alike tenderly nursed their strained right hands. One freshman, when asked by a fraternity how he liked their Stromberg-Carlson, remarked that he thought they were two very fine boys.

Nereidian's pageant and the Modern Dance recital brought forth the shapely talents of East as the Junior-Faculty page caused the usual riot.

Student Government set a new precedent with the Forum which brought famous names to the campus in a three-day discussion of the world at home and abroad. Performances by the Bel Canto Trio and the Baltimore Symphony Orchestra followed the appearance of the Ballet Russe and rounded out the concert series. Duke Players carried on with the production of "Angel Street" and "The Late George Appley," both plays under the direction of Mr. Reardon, the new dramatic director that took "Pop" West's place. The University regretted the resignation of President Flowers, applauded his splendid work and accomplishments. "A Streetcar Named Desire" stirred up Broadway in the middle of its very successful 47-48 dramatic season. Spring vacation arrived, and the "caravan" made its way to Daytona and the Sea Breeze. Parties soon began rolling as Marcher and Saunders arrived on the scene. Allsopp quietly stated that no party was a success unless the hotel manager came up three times. Overseas, everyone was watching the Italian elections closely . . . "Will we have war tomorrow or not?" Campaigns raged violently in this country as all eyes centered on Truman, Stassen, Vandenberg, et al. The new Dope Shop on East awaited the return of the Spring Vacationers. Buffa reigned as May Queen, Atkins showed up as a Collier's Cover Girl.

Unless the unforeseen happens, the year will end with the usual pleas, "Please, sir, I just have to have that 'C' to graduate." Everyone will buckle down to heat and cramming, while Engineers will return to haunt old stamping grounds, such as the sun-bathing area on East. Seniors will pack, then take off for a few days before graduation to see if Myrtle Beach can compare with Daytona during Spring vacation. Parents will be welcomed, and informed that "darling son and daughter" forgot to make reservations for them. Caps and gowns will be checked. The last thrill of "Senior Privileges" will be enjoyed and every possible cut used up. Sophomores and freshmen will leave . . . a few stray juniors will stay around to watch the final black procession wander through the sweltering gym to receive the coveted folders and anticipate the coming year. The traditional tears will be shed as friends are separated. The year 1947-48, like the three years that preceded it, built up association and friendships that would never be torn down no matter how many the miles were that separated them. It was a happy year, a year free from the conflict and destruction that still raged in Europe. May every year be as calm as this one was in the United States, but may in future years there be peace all over the world, the kind of peace that we experienced this year at Duke.

ALPHA SIGMA SIGMA

IN a large university there are a certain number of students whose recognizable but curiously undefinable personality quirks have placed them far above the mere classification of "student." Alpha Sigma Sigma was organized to provide recognition, at least in part, of these superior qualities.

Although it is customary to designate shining lights, less notorious active members, and aspiring pledges the roster this year was so crowded by unmitigated potential Alpha Sigma Sigma's that classification is delegated to popular discretion.

Will we...

UNITED STATES OF AMERICA—first among nations in national income! First in production of wheat, corn, cotton, petroleum, coal, and iron! First in communications, in motor vehicles per capita—first in many essentials to good living and prosperity.

And directly related to that position of leadership is our standard of education—for it has been shown that a country's wealth and welfare rise along with its educational standards. And countries rich in natural resources can be poor and backward without the benefits of education.

Yes, the United States is a leader in the field of education too—but for how long? Appalling conditions prevail today in many of our schools. Many of our most brilliant teachers are working against odds—crowded classrooms, shortages of equipment and textbooks, long hours. . . . Thousands have left the profession for other work.

You, and every United States citizen, will suffer from this situation, because it cannot help affecting our national prosperity before long.

WHAT TO DO?

Today—make it your business to take these two steps: 1. Check up on educational conditions in your local schools; 2. Back up and work with organizations seeking to improve teachers' working and living conditions. For only by keeping our educational standards high can we hold our place in the world—and assure a prosperous future for our children.
